HULL TO START 4-NATION TALKS ON PEACE PLANS

Warned by Senators of League Pitfalls.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—Secretary of State Hull announced tonight the imminent initiation of discussions with Great Britain, Russia, and China on the formation of a post-war international organization to preserve peace.

Secretary Hull.

The announcement marked the conclusion of preliminary conversations with a liaison committee of eight members of the senate foreign relations committee which Mr. Hull said had encouraged him to proceed with negotiations with the other powers.

It was learned that because of opposition by some of the senators to commitment of the United States to any scheme that might underwrite an unjust peace the discussions with other powers announced by the secretary are to be purely exploratory, involving no commitments of any sort.

Senate to Be Consulted.

The results of the discussions are to be reported to the senate committee before any further step is taken, according to the understanding reached by Mr. Hull and the senators.

Secretary Hull's announcement follows:

"The first phase of the informal conversations with the eight senators has been concluded. We had frank and fruitful discussions on the general principles, questions and plans relating to the establishment of an international peace and security organization in accordance with the principles contained in the Moscow four nation declaration, the Connally resolution and other similar declarations made in this country.

"I am definitely encouraged and am ready to proceed, with the approval of the President, with informal discussions on this subject with Great Britain, Russia, and China, and then with governments of other united nations.

Discussions Left Open.

"Meanwhile, I shall have further discussions with these and other leaders of both parties in the two houses of congress, and with others. The door of nonpartisanship will continue to be wide open here at the department of state, especially when

REED HINTS MISUSE OF CENSORED MAILS BY COMMERCE DEPT.

Washington, D. C., May 29 Special].—Sen. Reed [R., Kas.] today said there are "strong indications of misuse" of intercepts of censored mail "of a financial nature in the department of commerce, especially with regard to South America."

Displaying a letter from an undisclosed "reliable source," Reed quoted this passage from the letter:

"I have seen a good deal of the people who carry around with them copies of intercepts to show their friends. This misuse of censorship material is not due to Mr. Price's [Byron Price, director of censorship] failure. The misuse begins in executive agencies which receive copies of the intercepts."

Emphasizing he was not criticizing Price, Reed said he is determined to press the investigation which the senate postoffice subcommittee is making into leaks in private mail.

The investigation grew out of the disclosure by Rep. Coffee [D., Wash.] and Drew Pearson, radio columnist, of private correspondence between Miss Vivien Kellems, Connecticut industrialist, and Count Frederick Karl von Zedlitz of Argentina.

MIDWEST WANTS MACKINAC IDEA AS G. O. P. PLANK

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hershey, Pa., May 29.—Midwest governors at the governors' conference here, in general today held that the Mackinac charter of the G. O. P. and its American nationalism outlook should be the basis of the post-war foreign plank in the next Republican national platform. The general expectation is that one of the chief battles of the Chicago pow-wow June 26 may be waged over this issue between nationalist and seaboard internationalist groups.

There was more interest today in informal political talks than in conference speeches in which political issues were eschewed. Talks with westerners disclosed views akin to those of the Illinois state platform, of which Gov. Green was chief author. Some governors, who sidestepped quotation for political reasons, declared the midwest is for some sort of collaboration with other nations to preserve peace, but with safeguards which will protect the sovereignty of America. The United States must be kept in strong defensive position, island bases in the Pacific must be retained after the war for protection, and Atlantic bases now established by arrangement must be held, they contend.

Bricker Finds Favor.

Gov. Bricker's declaration yesterday against any super-government and any world police force that might place American military forces under command of foreign nations struck a popular note among midwesterners.

[Bricker convention headquarters will be opened in Chicago tomorrow.]

Gov. Dewey was the principal speaker tonight. He spoke of the "unity of the American people."

On foreign affairs he said:

"Our people are united upon the proposition that our foreign affairs must be so conducted that disasters like the present one will not recur. We shall have to pay more attention than heretofore to what goes on in the rest of the world. Twice now, in a generation, troubles have been allowed to grow until they became vast cataclysms that engulfed. We must not again sit on the sidelines as mere observers or commentators while future kaisers and fuehrers and war lords grow strong and perfect their plans for aggressions. The American people are united in their determination to be completely concerned about what concerns us, and with positive determination to join in preventing future wars.

Strength in Freedom.

"While there has been a maze of regimentation, some necessary, some inexcusable, our strength at home has come wholly from the genius of our free men in industry and the devotion of our workers and our farmers to do their jobs. Our success or failure after the war will depend on whether we, as a nation, take to heart the lesson the war has taught us."

At the morning session, at which six governors spoke, the chief addresses were by Governors Warren of California and Schricker of Indiana.

In the discussion later, the question of federal funds for aid of the state agencies on post-war reconstruction came up.

Bricker Speaks Out.

"There are only two gentlemen here who might give us some information on what the federal government might do—the governor of New York and the governor of Ohio," said Gov. Neely of West Virginia, a Democrat.

This brought a laugh. Gov. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman, remarked, "We should not embarrass anybody."

Gov. Bricker arose: "I have no hesitancy," he said. "I say this conference should adopt a resolution that the federal government should look after its own financial problem and the states should look after theirs."

Gov. Dewey did not speak.

EAGER TO TELL 'WHOLE STORY' OF JAP ATTACK

Assails Long Delay on Showdown.

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Asserting that the "whole story of Pearl Harbor" has not been told, Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel has demanded a "free, open, and public" court martial "at the earliest practicable date," it was disclosed today.

Adm. H. E. Kimmel.

Kimmel's demand was made in a letter released by Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] as the senate judiciary committee voted to act next Monday on Ferguson's resolution fixing Sept. 8 as the deadline for the start of the trial.

Ferguson said he also had a communication from Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short which he did not feel at liberty to disclose.

The house rules committee meanwhile approved legislation "directing" that Kimmel, Short, and any others charged with responsibility for the nation's greatest military disaster be held before June 7, 1945.

Demands Open Hearing.

After an introductory paragraph acknowledging receipt of a request from Sen. Ferguson for information about the statute of limitations waiver which he signed, the admiral wrote from Bronxville, N. Y., that he did not sign the waiver in the form submitted to him by the late Secretary of the Navy Knox Aug. 27, 1943, but changed it to "assure that my hearing would be in open court."

"I signed the waiver to make sure my court martial would be held," the letter continued. "I did not want any action or failure to act on my part an excuse for not having the court martial.

"I want a trial by court martial at the earliest practicable date. I have wanted it since Pearl Harbor and I have said so in letters to the secretary. I want a free, open, and public trial.

"Kept in Dark."

"At the hearings before the Roberts commission I was told I was not on trial. The commission did not permit me to be present at the examination of witnesses. It denied my request for counsel. For more than two years I was kept in the dark as to what went on at those hearings.

"Immediately after the publication of the Roberts report the navy

WOMAN, 102 TODAY, TURNS TO MILK, BUT WON'T FORSAKE PIPE

For nearly 100 years Mrs. Catherine Copulos has drunk port wine daily and for 50 years she has smoked a Turkish pipe, recommended by her husband, Dr. Demosthenes Copulos, Greek neurologist, as relaxing for the nerves. She fractured her hip two years ago and now likes milk better than port wine.

Mrs. Copulos celebrates her 102d birthday today. A son, Milton, an artist with the Chicago Museum of Natural History, and his wife and daughter, Catherine, all of 6019 Harper av., and another son, Socrates, will be at her bedside this afternoon at the Chicago Home for Incurables, 5535 Ellis av. Two sons are in New York and a grandson, Lt. Aristides Copulos, is in the army.

Coming here in 1907 with her husband from Salonika, Greece, Mrs. Copulos went back to New York when she was 77, climbed to the top of the Statue of Liberty, and at the age of 80, against the advice of guards, went thru the Coney Island "scenic railway"—twice. She is cheerful, healthy, and was active until her accident. She sews without glasses and has good hearing.

Sued by Wife, Business Man Ends His Life

Artemus De Long Watson, 45, wealthy owner of two greeting card companies, was found shot to death last night in his home at 859 Sheridan rd., Winnetka, after he was reported to have telephoned his estranged wife, Janet, 33, that he intended to kill himself. Mrs. Watson, a daughter of John Thomas Fitzgerald, a Chicago and New York advertising executive, filed suit for divorce yesterday morning.

After her complaint, charging extreme cruelty, was filed, her attorney, Louis L. Cohen, obtained from Judge John A. Sbarbaro an injunction restraining Watson from disposing of his assets, including a $273,000 bank account.

Tells Watson's Reaction.

Watson was at Hawthorne race track when his business associate, Frank Morre, 250 Harbor st., Glencoe, Ill., brought him word of the proceedings. Morre said Watson "went to pieces" and "acted strangely" as they returned to his office in the George S. Carrington Card company, 2732 Fullerton av.

Morre told Lt. Harold C. Lewis of the Winnetka police that he left Watson in the office at 6:30 p. m., to go to a party in Glencoe. During the party, however, he said, he had misgivings about leaving Watson alone, and about 9:30 p. m., went to the Watson home.

Finding Watson's second floor bedroom door bolted, Moore called police, who broke open the door. Watson's body was on the floor. He had been shot in the right temple. Near his hand was lying a .22 caliber automatic pistol.

On an identification card found in his pocket, Watson had written directions that his body should be cremated and no services should be held "in event of my sudden death." The note was dated May 25.

Suicide Threat Revealed.

Morre later told Policeman Walter Tissen that Mrs. Watson, now living with her parents at 3750 Lake Shore dr., had telephoned him that Watson had called her to say he was holding a pistol to his head and "was going to kill himself."

Attorney Cohen said Mrs. Watson, in her divorce complaint, tied up Watson's assets because she owned a 27 per cent interest in the Carrington company. Altho she contended that Watson told her she owed an income tax of $58,000 on an income of $67,000 from the company, and questioned the correctness of this computation, Cohen said the divorce action was precipitated by marital rather than any business difficulties.

Mrs. Watson charged her husband with cruelty and habitual drinking. Months of quarreling reached a climax a week ago when Watson, she alleged, beat her, bruising her jaw and nose, and breaking a tooth. At the time, according to Cohen, Watson threatened to get a gun from "his gun room" and kill her and himself.

Mrs. Watson could not be reached last night for confirmation of her husband's telephone call. She and her attorney called at the Watson home early in the day to pick up her belongings. Atty. Cohen said Watson was not at home at the time.

Divorced by First Wife.

The Watsons were married Jan. 18, 1939. Watson, who also owned Henri Fayette, Inc., another greeting card company at 833 Orleans st., was divorced on a cruelty charge by the former Helen Safford of Glencoe in 1934. Watson and his first wife had two children, Artemus III., 17, and Paula, 16, who were absent from their father's home at the time of his death.

Lieutenant Is Drowned in Baptism; Pastor Saved

Lebanon, Ind., May 29 (AP).—Second Lt. Robert W. Ramsey, 21, of Frankfort drowned during a Sunday baptismal service in a creek 10 miles northwest of here. As he was being baptized, a swift current swept him downstream into a gravel pit where he drowned. The pastor also was swept downstream, but swam ashore.

11,800 Stage Stay-in Siege in Plane Plants

New York, May 29 [Special].—Facing loss of their jobs as a result of navy cancellation of its contract with Brewster Aeronautical corporation for Corsair fighting planes, approximately 11,800 workers of the company's Long Island, N. Y., and Johnville, Pa., plants today resorted to a new weapon of labor warfare—the "stay-in siege."

With approval of international officers of the CIO United Automobile Workers, the employes remained at their machines and benches after quitting time and announced plans to sleep and eat inside the plants rather than surrender their badges to company guards.

Work Without Pay.

Union officials said the action was taken to prevent disintegration of the company's large force of skilled employes, an event which they feared would indefinitely delay any reopening of the plants under new contracts, and announced the workers would work without pay, with approval of the management, during continuance of the crisis.

Meanwhile a wire bitterly protesting the navy's action as "obviously unfair" and hinting at possible political ramifications hostile to the administration was dispatched to Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, with a copy to President Roosevelt. The wire was signed by Philip Murray, president of the CIO, and Richard Frankensteen, UAW vice president.

"D" Stands for Dismissal.

Demonstrators inside the buildings shouted down to persons outside that they were determined to remain in the plants. At the Long Island plant union messengers filed in and out with boxes of sandwiches from a union commissary hastily set up near-by. Marchers paraded outside with placards, among which were, "D-day is dismissal day at Brewster." "Is this post-war conversion?" and "Is this what my husband is fighting for?"

Sounds of singing and dancing came from the Long Island City plant tonight.

A message signed by Frankensteen passed from hand to hand, reading, "The reward for your faithful service in producing the vital Corsair fighter plane is the complete disregard of the navy to the problems facing you as vital war workers in a noncritical man power area. This we refuse to accept."

General 'Rides' His Tanks from Bomb Crater

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMORED FORCES, near Spaccasassi, Italy, May 29.—The tank general cussed ripely and at length as he wiped layers of Italian dust from his face and scalp and strode about in his makeshift command post in a bomb crater at a road intersection eight miles south of Lake Nemi.

Less than 3,000 yards away his artillery and armor had just pounded six enemy Tiger [Mark VI.] tanks into blackened, flaming wrecks and more of his tanks driving northwest into the Alban hills were ripping apart two battalions of German infantry.

Allied artillery was striving for pay-off wallops on Velletri, Valmontone, and the road between. The enemy fought back bitterly from his mountain strongholds and we answered in kind as we carved paths perilously thru his mine belts.

Calls for More Tanks.

The armored forces general, whom I had seen in action frequently, was in fine form today.

"Bring on more of my tanks," he roared at his subordinate. "Keep moving. I'll teach those —— Heinies to try and fool around and pull a counter-attack on Yank armor."

He leaped out to a road intersection and waved his Gen. Shermans on.

"Those —— —— up there don't like the stuff we're giving them," he yelled. "Come on. Get up there. Give them some more."

He jumped back into the bomb crater where his executive officer was holding the telephone and snatched it away.

"Watch your direction," he barked at one of his unit leaders who was reporting from the firing line. "Don't let those blankety-blanks get in on your flank. I can see your dust from here. Stop zigzagging and give them the damnedest hell they ever saw."

Come Down from the Hills.

Some of the general's armor in the action today covered a considerable expanse of the flatland in fast time. Then the enemy came down from the hills with his half a dozen Mark VI. Tigers and his infantry battalions.

When the report of the counter-thrust reached the general, he immediately called up more of his armor and for five battalions of artillery, instructing the big gun crews with profane accuracy just where he wanted the fire placed.

"And, brother," he leered at me thru his dust mask, "what our tanks and guns did to those —— Heinies and Mark VI.'s, as you have just seen, is something. Try games on me, will they?"

I had seen our shell and tank destroyer fire converge on the enemy with such force and speed that the Mark VI.'s seemed to be lifted from the earth and overturned like toys. And there were no live Germans to come out of them.

Chopping Up Foe's Infantry.

"And now we are chopping up some of [Marshal] Kesselring's infantry," the general said.

He yelled for some water.

"What kind of a war is this?" he wanted to know. "Does a man have to die of thirst?"

A grinning lieutenant handed him a canteen. Then he informed me in an aside:

"The old man's really in top shape today. Things must be going the way he wants for him to raise so much racket. I used to think I was henpecked at home, but what he calls me and the way he rides me make me think my wife is an angel. But he can keep it up. I thrive on it."

WFA USES PART OF EGG SURPLUS AS ANIMAL FEED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The war food administration, which has purchased millions of dozens of eggs to sustain the swamped market and carry out its pledge to the farmers to support prices, announced today that it is converting some of the eggs into animal feed.

The announcement, made by Administrator Jones, said the use of eggs for animal feed will be limited. A spokesman for the agency said he could not estimate the number that will be converted into hog and chicken feed.

Purchases of eggs by the agency have been in such volume that suitable cold storage space to handle them is inadequate. How much the program is costing could not be learned. The current prices the WFA is paying range from about 27 to 34 cents a dozen.

WEDGE DRIVEN IN 'LAST DITCH' NAZI DEFENSES

Counter Blows Slow Allied Advance.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, May 30 (Tuesday)—(AP).—British forces occupied Arce, on the south Italian front at the junction of the Via Casilina and Highway 82, at 9 a. m. Monday (2 a. m. Chicago time), a dispatch by Reuters, British news agency, said today.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 29 (AP). — The battle for Rome — first great capital of Nazi-dominated Europe to fall within range of allied guns—raged with mounting fury tonight after an allied wedge had been driven deeply into the enemy's "last ditch" defense line less than 16 miles from the Eternal city.

In an effort to hold Rome at least until his battered forces far to the southeast could disengage and be withdrawn to the new line, Field Marshal Kesselring poured reenforcements into a savage series of counterattacks along a 17-mile front from the vicinity of Valmontone on the Via Casilina to Campoleone at the edge of the Alban hills.

[The Vichy radio said early today the allies had cut the Via Casilina, the main avenue of retreat for the Germans. The announcement did not give the place of the break, but the allies threatened Valmontone, 23 miles southeast of Rome, had this route under artillery fire near there. The radio said that Germans fighting in the Liri valley still would be able to make their withdrawal over mountain paths.]

Attack Under Heavy Fire.

These heavy counterblows slowed, but did not halt, the advance of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's British and American 5th army troops, who pressed their attack in the face of flamethrowers and withering artillery and small arms fire.

Daniel de Luce of the Associated Press reported in a dispatch from the front, filed at 6:30 p. m., that American tanks were attacking German strong points of armor, artillery and infantry on the slopes of the Alban hills between Campoleone and Lanuvio at a point less than 16 miles southeast of Rome's outskirts.

He said enemy counter-attacks employing as much as a battalion of infantry and four 60-ton Tiger [Mark VI] tanks at a crack were beaten back and that allied tank-led infantry had made progress all day.

Destroy Three Nazi Divisions.

"Germans could look down at virtually every American movement from their high vantage points and their artillery spurted flame from the edge of the woods far up in the hills. A heavy toll of lives and tanks was exacted by the enemy," De Luce said.

Allied headquarters announced that three of 18 German divisions engaged in the battle had been virtually destroyed since the allied offensive began on May 11, with more than 15,000 Germans in prison cages.

American and British beachhead forces launched a powerful new drive toward Campoleone yesterday, and by last night were within a mile of the German stronghold. Other allied troops smashed thru Aprilia, the model farm community which changed hands four times in the early phases of the beachhead fighting several months ago.

Battle for Velletri, Lanuvio.

Campoleone marked the high tide of the original allied advance after the beachhead was won Jan. 22. A British spearhead was trapped there and fought its way free after suffering heavy losses.

At their farthest surge to the north and east, beachhead forces were fighting tonight within 2,000 yards of Valmontone, on the shelltorn Via Casilina [Highway No. 6], 20 miles east and slightly south of Rome. Others were battling in the outkirts of Velletri and closing upon Lanuvio, four miles to the southwest, where the Alban hills begin to rise from the Pontine plain.

The 5th army's Artena salient, from which batteries were shelling Highway No. 6 near Valmontone, was reported relatively quiet today after American infantrymen improved their positions late Sunday.

To the southwest allied beachhead troops drove the enemy out of the mountain towns of Sermoneta and Bassiano, both well north of the Appian way [Highway No. 7] and the Rome-Naples electric rail line. The two towns are between eight and ten miles east and slightly south of Cisterna.

French colonials slashed thru the hills north of Ville Santo Stefano and captured Monte Siserno, 2,400 foot peak about seven miles south of Frosinone on the Via Casilina.

Lt. Gen. Oliver Leese's 8th army forces swept westward six miles from Ceprano to Pofi after throwing several bridges across the Liri and Sacco rivers. The town of Arce, at the junction of the Via Casilina and Highway No. 82, appeared ready to fall to Leese's troops. Santo Padre, 4½ miles to the northeast, had been surrounded.

The French were reported meeting only light resistance.

Wreck 200 Enemy Vehicles.

At some points it was evident the Germans were retreating with all possible speed, depending upon demolitions, mines, and sharpshooters to hold off the pursuing allied forces. Nazi parachute troops were fighting stubbornly, however, in the Arce area.

Allied fighter-bombers maintained their destructive campaign behind the lines, flying more than 2,000 sorties yesterday as they wrecked another 200 German vehicles and three tanks. Of 15 Nazi planes sighted over the battle area, four were destroyed. Three allied craft were lost in all operations.

It was announced officially that allied warships ranging along the coast had poured more than 7,000 shells into the enemy's positions since the offensive began on May 11. Yesterday a French cruiser scored hits on German artillery emplacements north of Anzio.

GERMAN WAR REPORT

Monday's German war bulletin, as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press, said:

"Yesterday on the Italian front was marked by successful defense. In the Aprilia-Valmontone sector enemy attempts at breaking thru were repelled by our divisions in bitter fighting. The ruins of Aprilia, up to now stubbornly defended by our rear guards, were abandoned to the enemy.

"East of Lanuvio, panzer grenadiers in immediate counter-attack ironed out an enemy dent.

"In heavy fighting in the Velletri area troops of the army and the air force particularly distinguished themselves.

"South of Valmontone a dent from previous days was narrowed down by attacks from the east and northwest.

"In the Roccogorga-Castro di Volsci sector all enemy attacks were repelled by our rear guards in bitter fighting, particularly in the Giugliano valley."

MONTY TRADES FORTRESS 'TAXI' FOR A TRANSPORT

BY E. R. NODEREER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—Gen. Montgomery is reported to have substitued a large troop carrier plane for the Flying Fortress which formerly was his personal taxi. The interior of "Monty's" new plane is painted dove gray with the floor covered with dark blue Wilton carpet. It has four large bucket chairs in addition to the usual metal benches.

The general's pilot is Lt. Eddie Russell of Mount Olive, Tenn., who asserts the 8th army hero knows this country by air as well as he does by land. "He uses the same kind of maps I do," the pilot said, "and follows every inch of a flight." Besides a heavy flying jacket and flying boots, the general wears a radio headset so that he can keep up with the news while being airborne.

The co-pilot is Lt. Louis Johnson of Brundidge, Ala., who was an airman before the war.

Eric Johnston at Cairo on His Way to Russia

CAIRO, Egypt, May 29 (AP).—Eric Johnston, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, expressed optimism today about the future of United States trade with the middle east in everything "from candy bars to jeeps." En route to Russia, Johnston has recovered from a slight cold. He said his trip was "on invitation of the soviet government as a private citizen representing American business."

AN EYE IN SKY SOLVES RIDDLE; NAZI GUN DIES

Road Blown Up and Cannon Trapped.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, Italy, May 29. — For a few minutes things looked dark for an American artillery battery which was trying to register on a pair of German guns 10 miles away. Then Lt. Wilbur Tapscott of Los Angeles, Cal., improvised his own system for dealing with the retreating enemy — with perfect results.

Lt. Tapscott, a Mustang pilot attached to a tactical reconnaissance unit in this theater, was spotting artillery targets from several thousand feet while German anti-aircraft fire popped around him. He directed fire on a pair of German heavy field pieces concealed on the reverse side of a slope near the town of Campoleone in the Velletri sector.

One Down, One to Go.

There was a direct hit and one gun blew up just as the other started to pull out. Tapscott quickly radioed the new position of the second target. The battery fired and missed. The enemy gun, attached to a prime mover, kept retreating. He gave another position, but while the battery readjusted the enemy got out of range.

"Hurry—hurry—fire," called Tapscott, "They're moving."

Another miss. As the lieutenant told me later, there seemed to be only one thing to do.

"I put the whole battery on the road ahead of the gun," he explained. "When that was torn up, the gun could move no farther. Then it took just three more attempts to get a direct hit and blow up that gun."

Pilot Saves New Plane.

Another pilot in the same outfit, Lt. John P. Oregon, of Washington, D. C., who was also adjusting fire in the same sector yesterday, lost three feet of his right wing tip. The damage to the flight controls caused him to flip over on his back. He fought the plane upright and brought it home. The control tower advised him to "belly land" but Oregon insisted on using the wheels and came in safely.

"I didn't want to damage that plane any more," he explained. "It was brand new and I might not have gotten another."

ILLINOISANS BAG 3 PLANES.

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—Lt. Glennont Moran, Granite City, Ill., was credited with two enemy planes and Lt. Col. John Edwards, 508 East Springfield st., Champaign, Ill., destroyed one in Saturday's aerial duels over the continent.

YUGOSLAV CASH TO PAY SALARIES FROZEN BY BANK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 30 [Tuesday]. — Yugoslav government credits held by Barclay's bank in London have been frozen, this morning's Daily Telegraph reports. The amount involved was not disclosed but it was said to be a "considerable sum." This follows earlier reports from Cairo that officers loyal to Gen. Draja Mihailovitch seized funds there belonging to the Yugoslav government amounting to $30,000 as well as a quantity of gold coins.

The credits held by Barclay's were used to pay the salaries of the Yugoslav government officials. The freezing is expected to affect the salary payments beginning next month. The bank's decision was said to have been taken after King Peter dismissed the Puritch government on the ground that there was no finance minister with whom to deal. The ban on withdrawals will not be lifted, it was understood, until a new government has been formed and a new finance minister appointed.

Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz has long been putting pressure on the American and British governments to have an embargo put on Yugoslav funds abroad.

Tinley Park Flyer Downs Nazi Plane in May 25 Raid

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, May 29 (AP). — When 24 German planes were shot down over Piacenza and Lyon on May 25, middlewesterners who scored a victory apiece included Liberator gunners Sgt. Harold C. Elkhart, Ind., May 29 [Special].—Rolland J. Straw, 49, Goshen, a repairman on the New York Central railroad, was killed here today when a freight car under which he was working slipped off jacks and crushed him. His wife and two sons survive.

JAPS SEIZE AIR BASE AND FORCE CHINDITS BACK

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., KANDY, Ceylon, May 29 (AP).—Reënforced Japanese units, launching an attack against Chindit positions near the enemy's north Burma base of Mogaung, have seized a vital air strip and forced the allied airborne troops to abandon important road blocks they had held for 17 days, headquarters disclosed today.

At the same time the allies gained in their fight into Myitkyina, 35 miles to the east.

The main force of the Japanese attack near Mogaung, aimed at relieving the stricken 18th division now falling back before Chinese in the Mogaung valley, came from the south, a bulletin said. The fresh enemy concentrations first took the air strip and then threw the Chindits from their block southwest of Mogaung which had cut the Mandalay-Myitkyina railway.

Hold Out 5 Days.

The troops, commanded by Maj. Gen. W. D. A. Lentaigne, held out for five days under heavy attack before exhausting their ammunition. Then they withdrew northward, where columns of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Chinese still are pressing down the Mogaung valley.

On the Myitkyina battlefield, American and Chinese troops have penetrated deeper into the city from the south, blocking a Japanese exit.

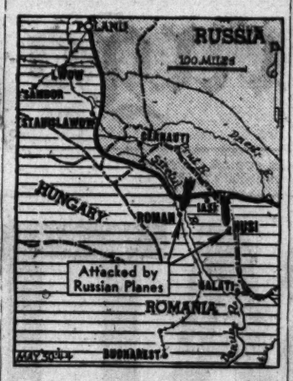
Stilwell flew to Myitkyina and directed the new Chinese thrust after spending nearly two days studying the situation.

Ambush Jap Party.

North of the town, levies under command of Brig. Gen. Frank Merrill ambushed a Japanese party near Njip. The village of Sharaw 40 miles northwest of Myitkyina was captured.

On the Indo-Burma front, operations have been impeded in the Manipur hills by heavy rains, the bulletin said. Allied troops "gained all first objectives in their attack on Aradura" in the Kohima area yesterday, "but further progress was held up by heavy fire from the rear defenses combined with the difficulties caused by the weather. The operation continues."

Blast 60 Planes



Symbols indicate where Russian flyers struck at Nazi air fields.

LONDON, May 30 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Softening up enemy air strength in Romania, the Red air force struck airdromes near Roman and Husi today and destroyed or disabled at least 60 planes, a soviet bulletin announced last night. Roman is on the Siretul river and Husi on the Prut.

The Russians also reported that the Germans lost five fighters and three bombers over the Gulf of Finland and five more planes bombing Russians in another sector. Northwest of Lutsk, a bulletin said, the Germans fought their way into advanced trenches but were driven out. German reconnaissance attacks were reported southeast of Stanislawow, on the southern front.

The Nazis claimed successful air attacks on soviet supplies and rail stations in the areas of Shepetovka and Korosten.

CHICAGO SOLDIER KILLED IN ACTION IS AWARDED D.S.C.

The posthumous award of the distinguished service cross to Pvt. Fred Henry Bucholz, whose mother is Mrs. Marion Bucholz of E. North av., Elmhurst, was announced by the war department yesterday. In the capture of Kwajalein Island Feb. 4, Bucholz "with utter disregard for his own safety" dragged his wounded platoon leader into a shell hole and later was killed as he put a Japanese blockhouse out of action with a hand grenade.

"His gallant and fearless action contributed greatly to the success of the attack," the citation said.

The silver star was awarded to Corp. Vincent J. Zlotow, 5131 Warwick av., for gallantry in the silencing of an enemy blockhouse at Lorengau, Manus Island, Admiralty group, March 16.

Pvt. John C. Pitcairn, 1604 S. 13th st., Maywood, was awarded the silver star for gallantry near Kumisanger, New Guinea, between March 3 and 7.

Other Illinois men receiving the silver star were Sgt. Albert T. Keller, R. F. D. 3, Belleville, and Pvt. Elston B. Ferguson, Hillsboro.

DEATH CALLED ACCIDENTAL.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the drowning Sunday of Edward Rossi, 11, of 3024 Flournoy st., in the drainage canal at Cicero av. and Pershing rd.

BISHOP CALLS POLAND TEST OF FUTURE PEACE

Buffalo, N. Y., May 29 (AP).—Delegates attending a Polish-American congress were told today that "if Poland is deprived of what she fought for there is no doubt in the minds of those who love justice and hate inequity that the allied nations have lost the war."

The Most Rev. John A. Duffy, bishop of the Buffalo Catholic diocese, said also that "if Poland is granted her national land with a free access to the sea then the united nations have conquered in this war."

Form Permanent Body.

"The compromisers and the appeasers will ask you descendants of Poland to forget the tragedies of Poland and to accept something less than a just peace for your fatherland," Bishop Duffy continued, adding that "the test of the future peace is Poland."

The delegates organized a permanent Polish American congress in order, they said, to give their "undivided service, love, and attachment" to America and to give their "full support and aid to the Polish nation."

Headquarters will be in Washington, D. C., and conventions will be every four years. The constitution and by-laws were submitted by a committee headed by John J. Olijniczak of Chicago.

Elect Chicagoan.

Charles Rozmarek of Chicago, who was elected chairman of the congress, told the delegates that the congress should formulate a memorandum to President Roosevelt setting forth the Polish case and resolutions presenting the Polish cause to congress and the American public.

Other officers elected today were Stanislaus Gutowski of Newark, N. J., first vice chairman; Ladislaus Cytacki of Hamtramck, Mich., 2d vice chairman; Maria Korpanty of Pittsburgh, Pa., 3d vice chairman, and Zygmunt Stefanowicz of Chicago, recording secretary.

BULGARS GIVEN HITLER TERMS, SWISS HEAR

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERN, Switzerland, May 29.—Bearing terms that will expire at midnight Thursday for Bulgarian-German collaboration, Bogdan Philo, regent, is reported to have returned to Sofia in the last 24 hours from Hitler's headquarters. The ultimative terms given by Hitler, say neutral Balkan sources, include a threat to install a reich's commissioner by Friday if the conditions are not accepted. As outlined with few minor differences by several independent sources, the terms call for formation of a "strong Bulgarian cabinet," the breaking off of diplomatic relations with the soviet union, and incorporation of the Bulgarian high command and the mobilied units of its standing army under the leadership of the German high command.

RECOVER BODY OF BOY, 8.

RUSSIA INTENDS TO RULE U. S.: COL. M'CORMICK

Taking Democratic Party Over Now, He Says.

In a speech delivered yesterday in Joliet, Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, asserted that Russia intends to rule the United States "thru the Communist party, which is even now taking over the Democratic party." The same element, he said, is actively trying to control the Republican national convention, as the New Deal did in 1940.

Col. McCormick quoted history to show that Russia long had followed an expansionist policy in Europe and Asia and had interests, as have the British, that may breed future wars.

"While we are extending all aid to Russia in her war with Germany, Russia is extending invaluable aid to Japan to make war on us," he said. "How we can work with Russia for the peace of the world while Russia is allied to our enemy is not clear to me."

Addresses Three Clubs.

Col. McCormick addressed a capacity audience of 300 at a luncheon in the Louis Joliet hotel sponsored by the Kiwanis, Lions, and Rotary clubs. It was the largest attendance at the clubs' meetings in several years, it was reported. Col. McCormick complimented the organizations, referring to them as being as "typically and exclusively American as the Constitution."

He was introduced by Ray Howk, national advertising manager of the Joliet Herald-News, as a "distinguished author, military man, farmer, publisher and historian," and as a great defender of the freedom of the press. At the speakers' table were the presidents of the three clubs, Pat Patterson of Kiwanis, A. A. Wills of the Lions and Lew Rogers of Rotary, Mayor Arthur Janke, and Capt. Ray Kirinich, a veteran marine flyer of Guadalcanal.

Col. McCormick said that he was restating his "Creed of an American," to which any Republican and any Jeffersonian Democrat could subscribe, to combat smears, misstatements, and falsifications of history that the communistic elements were circulating at great expense.

Rejects Churchill Plan.

Referring to suggestions that the United States combine its government with that of Great Britain, he said that if it was to be done it must be done by the British nations becoming republics and joining the United States and not, as Winston Churchill suggested, by the United States repealing the Declaration of Independence and entering the British empire as inferiors.

"This would require them [the British] to raise their civilization to the stature of republics," he averred.

After discussing and condemning the internationalist campaign to carry the United States into a world super-government which would have the power to levy taxes upon us without our consent, Col. McCormick asked what relationship the United States would maintain with France.

De Gaulle's Reign of Terror.

He said that the De Gaulle faction in Africa is embarking on a "20th century reign of terror," and continued:

"Let us consider other institutions to which we are to be subordinated. Russia. . . . After the Russians threw off the rule of the Mongols, the grand duke of Moscow assumed the title of czar—the Russian pronunciation of Caesar—adopted the laws and assumed the functions of the eastern Roman empire, and with it the doctrine of universal empire.

"At one time the Russian empire extended eastward to Alaska and south to San Francisco. Russian armies have been in Turin, Italy; Paris, France, and Copenhagen, Denmark. Peter, who conducted that invasion, wished to remain permanently in Denmark, but was compelled by the influence of England to retreat, retaining Finland and the Baltic countries. For these retained conquests he has been known as Peter the Great.

Russia Expands to Black Sea.

"A successor, Catherine, with the assistance of John Paul Jones as admiral, drove the Turks from the Black sea and established the Russian boundaries upon that body of water, for which she is known as Catherine the Great.

"In 1878 a Russian army reached the walls of Constantinople, but was compelled by a European coalition to retire to Bessarabia.

"Stalin has recently divided Iran with Great Britain and has declared his intention of annexing part of Finland, all of the Baltic countries, half of Poland, and extending Russian domination thru the Balkans to the Mediterranean.

"Russia is in a serious controversy with China over the possession of Mongolia that may grow into a war. While we are extending all aid to Russia in her war with Germany, Russia is extending invaluable aid to Japan to make war on us.

"How we can work with Russia for the peace of the world while Russia is allied to our enemy is not clear to me. Russia, moreover, intends to rule the United States thru the Communist party, which is even now taking over the Democratic party.

"We are also to come under China. From 1644 until 1912 China was under the rule of the Manchu dynasty. In this time France, England, Portugal, Germany, Russia, and Japan have partitioned her territories. At present there are several governments in China, one of which, that of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, we recognize and support with lend-lease money.

"It is proposed that China shall continue to receive American lend-lease money as a right enforceable by an international army!

"When this war is over, war is in prospect between China and the British empire over the possession of Hong Kong.

Greater Liberty for British.

"It is suggested that we combine our government with that of the British empire, which has controled our foreign policy for more than 40 years.

"I have pointed out that, if desired, this can be brought about by admitting the component parts of that empire into our Union under our Constitution, giving them the benefits of the great liberties it guarantees to its citizens.

"This would require them to raise their civilization to the stature of republics. This probably would be the choice of the British people, but not of their privileged classes, who alone are vocal and who have bitterly denounced the suggestion in the insular and colonial press and in the newspapers they control in this country.

Churchill's Plan of Union.

"My friend Winston Churchill, with the approval of President Conant of Harvard and apparently of President Roosevelt, who perhaps wants to be a 20th century duke of Albemarle, suggested to the Republican conference at Mackinac [which he must have been assured he could influence, even dominate] that we repeal our Declaration of Independence and reënter the British empire as lower class subjects of the British crown. Some of our millionaires favor this plan, so that they may buy for themselves the titles they now only purchase for their sisters and daughters."

Col. McCormick said that not more than a million of 130 million Americans are Communists, but that they believe they can overthrow our government because they hold the balance of power between Democrats and Republicans in New York. Mr. Roosevelt, he said, had catered to the Communists.

DEMOCRATIC BOSS SEES RED SUPPORT FOR FOURTH TERM

San Francisco, Cal., May 29 [Special].—Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, indicated at a press conference today that he expected American communists to support President Roosevelt for reelection. Asked if he welcomed the support of communists, he said he thought all groups would approve the President's reëlection on a comparison of the record.

Hannegan said he doubted that James A. Farley, former national chairman, "will be in there pitching for a fourth term." But because Farley is a "real Democrat," Hannegan said, he felt sure "he will support whoever the convention nominates."

'AMALGAMATION' INTO SUPERSTATE DECRIED FOR U.S.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—A plea for collaboration by the United States with other nations in the post-war world, but without "amalgamation" into a world superstate, was made in the house today by Rep. Gifford [R., Mass.].

Rep. Gifford.

Assailing the radical post-war internationalist schemes of New Deal planners, Gifford, veteran of 24 years in congress, warned this country would lose much and gain nothing by being amalgamated into a global organization with supernational powers.

Gifford said he was relieved to discover, in view of the New Deal argument that Mr. Roosevelt is indispensable, that the war program was carried on without noticeable change during the president's recent month's vacation in the south.

Chicago Schools Lead U.S. in Wastepaper Salvage

Coöperative efforts of school officials and pupils were praised yesterday in a campaign report issued by the Chicago Waste Paper Salvage Campaign committee. Chicago's 333 elementary schools established a record for the nation in their collection of 18,841,616 pounds of waste paper since last November, the report said. More than $100,000 was received from the sale of waste paper and 8,600 service ribbons were awarded to pupils.

YANKS GAIN HALF MILE IN BATTLE FOR BIAK FIELD

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, May 30 [Tuesday]—(AP).—American invaders of Biak have advanced more than a half mile to a point within two miles of the important Mokmer airdrome, Gen. MacArthur reported today, but Japanese resistance was increasing.

Enemy opposition was expected to reach a new peak of fury when the 6th army veterans make their final assault on Mokmer field, 880 miles from the Philippines.

A headquarters spokesman said the Japanese guessed wrong when deploying troops to combat the Yankee invasion of the largest Schouten Island Saturday. The enemy apparently reasoned the doughboys would storm ashore in a frontal assault on the Mokmer and Sorido airdromes on Biak's south coat.

Build Strong Defenses.

The Japanese built strong defenses to protect the two fields and the Borokoe airdrome, between Mokmer and Sorido and a mile inland. The invasion waves, however, hit the beach three miles east of Bosnek, Biak's largest village, and six miles from their present front lines.

The Americans are working westward along the Bosnek-Sorido coastal road while Japanese sharpshooters are putting down heavy fire from the riges above the road. Contact with the main Japanese forces is expected soon, the spokesman said.

Japanese defenses near the three airdromes were believed strong and MacArthur's field commanders ordered that the advance proceed slowly while rear positions were being consolidated. This accounted for a gain of only a little more than a half mile since yesterday.

Gain at Maffin Field.

Other veterans of the 6th army took the advantage in the struggle for the Maffin Bay air field opposite from Wakde Island, which was invaded May 18. They occupied a height giving them artillery command over the field, and Japanese resistance was reported fading.

Far down the New Guinea coast, Australian ground troops occupied Bunabun, 140 miles southeast of Wewak. The Australians have been moving steadily up the coast, pinching bypassed Japanese in the Wewak area, since they captured Madang April 25.

Hit Truk and Rabaul.

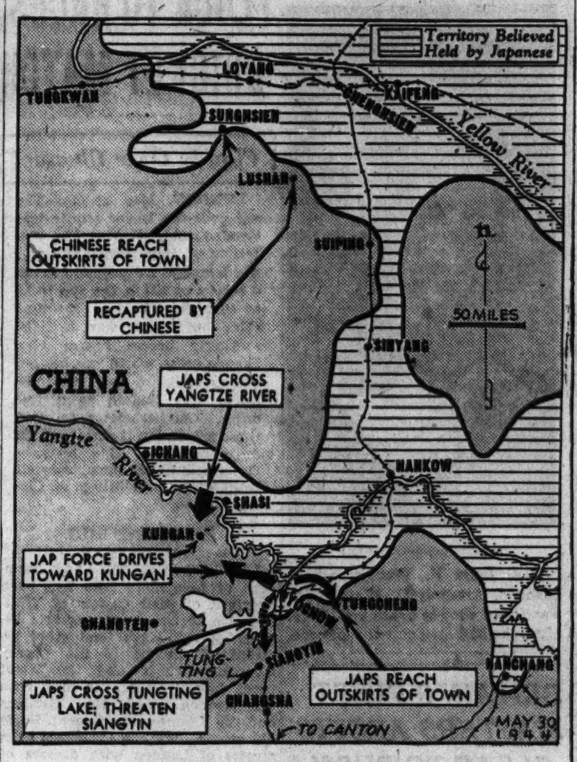
MacArthur's bombers hit such widely scattered bases as Truk in the central Pacific, Rabaul on New Britain, Noemfoor and Japen Islands near Biak, and Manokwari and Babo on the head of New Guinea.

Other planes kept up their extermination attacks on the trapped Japanese in the Wewak area, easing the way for the advancing Australians working their way toward the Aitape area.

MOTORISTS ROB THEIR GUEST.

David Gross, Passaic [N. J.] salesman, told police yesterday that four young men who gave him a lift in their automobile robbed him of $50 and a $200 watch and then ejected him from the car.

New Japanese Advance in China



Latest developments reported from the war in China.

NEW JAP DRIVE AIMS AT CHINA'S CHANGSHA BASE

4th Battle Impends at Rail City.

CHUNGKING, China, May 29 (AP).—A new Japanese drive southward from Yoyang [Yochow] in the Hunan province offensive is threatening Siangyin, 30 miles north of the Canton-Hankow railway city of Changsha, Chinese field dispatches said today.

Siangyin's fall would protect the right flank of the main Japanese body advancing toward Changsha from newly gained positions south of the Sinchiang river, crossed Saturday night by the Japanese in a 20 mile drive.

The main body was reported to have advanced more than seven miles from its new position toward Changsha, as other prongs of the offensive fanned westward toward central China's rice bowl, and eastward to attack Chinese concentrations in southern Hupeh province.

Two Other Columns Move.

Thrice repelled from Changsha by forces of Gen. Hsueh Yueh, governor of Hunan and Little Tiger of Central China, the Japanese appeared aiming at a fourth battle there, and ultimately at complete control of the Canton-Hankow railway.

In a drive to protect the left flank of their main body, other Japanese troops have struck southeastward from Yoyang and reached the outskirts of Tungcheng, in southern Hupeh province 45 miles southeast of Yoyang.

At the same time, another enemy force struck westward between Tungting lake and the Yangtze river, and the thrust appeared to be developing into a push on Kungan, in Hupeh province, about 75 miles northwest of Yoyang.

Seek Entire Railroad.

Kungang was further threatened by another sudden Japanese move. Enemy troops crossed the Yangtze river above Shasi, 30 miles northeast of Kungan, one of the bases for the Japanese drive on the Chinese rice bowl last year.

Already in control of a portion of the Canton-Hankow railway after the fighting in Honan province, 400 miles to the north of the present offensive arena, the Japanese appeared to be intent upon capturing the entire route to strengthen their positions against possible American landings on the China coast.

Field dispatches from Honan province in the north said counter-attacking Chinese forces reached the outskirts of Sunghsien, 45 miles southwest of Loyang, now believed to be in Japanese hands. The Chinese reported they had retaken Lushan, provisional capital of Honan province.

Fighting also is continuing in Shansi province, to the north of the new battlefront in Hunan, and in Yunnan province, near the Burma border.

YANKS RAID NAZI PLANE INDUSTRY DEEP IN POLAND

Strike Again with Armada of 2,200 Aircraft.

LONDON, May 30 [Tuesday]—(AP).—American heavy bombers and fighters, possibly 2,200 strong, shot 100 enemy aircraft from the sky and hammered seven aircraft factories in Poland and Germany, and a synthetic oil works near Stettin yesterday.

The blow was the heaviest dealt in a day which saw approximately 6,500 sorties flown from allied pre-invasion bases in Britain and Italy. It cost the United States strategic air force 35 bombers and 11 fighters.

Warnings by the German air force radio network early today indicated that allied bombers again were over central Europe from Britain and Italy.

German planes flew over the southwest coast of England tonight, presumably to watch for invasion signs. Later, enemy planes came over the southeastern coast.

Split Up to Confuse Foe.

The attacking Fortresses and Liberators yesterday confused the enemy by splitting up in their 750 mile flight across Germany to Poland. Some hit Tutow, about 95 miles north of Berlin. Others headed to Poznan, 50 miles inside Poland, and to Kreising [Krzesinki], five miles to the southeast, where they bombed aircraft plants. Some hit the synthetic oil plant at Politz, near Stettin, 85 miles northeast of Berlin.

The rest streaked south to Leipzig, about 90 miles southwest of Berlin, to Sorau, about the same distance to the southeast and only 45 miles from the Polish border, and to Cottbus, 60 miles southeast of Berlin.

The German air force fought back desperately and battles filled the clear summer skies. American fighter pilots who downed one German plane apiece included Lieutenants Robert Hatter, Ottawa, Ill.; Robert Booth, Waukesha, Wis.; and George Doersch, Seymour, Wis. Lt. Jules Conard, 4121 30th av., Kenosha, Wis., shared a Nazi plane.

Some Land in Sweden.

A German broadcast claimed that 47 planes, mainly heavy bombers, were shot down in the sweep from Britain, along with 24 four-engine bombers from Italian bases.

A dispatch from Stockholm said eight bombers landed in Sweden, one reportedly shot down by Swedish anti-aircraft.

From the south, the Mediterranean air force dispatched between 500 and 700 Fortresses and Liberators with a matching escort of fighters to attack aircraft plants and two important airdromes around Vienna, and Wiener-Neustadt, Austria, as well as German troop concentrations in Yugoslavia.

The 9th air force sent its largest number of squadrons to lead the tactical assault from Britain on French and Belgian bridges the rail yards at Antwerp, Belgium, and the Achiet air field 80 miles north of Paris. Four hundred American Marauders and Havocs staged the raid. Thunderbolts raided an air field at Lorient.

Mitchells and Bostons of the Allied Expeditionary air force attacked a Belgian railway yard and other military targets of northern France. Rocket firing Typhoons attacked the electric plant at Tingry, near Boulogne.

Missing Bomber Found Against Kiska Volcano

ALEUTIAN BASE, Alaska, May 28 [Delayed] (AP).—Disclosure that an army bomber, missing since Feb. 16, crashed at the foot of Kiska volcano, was made by the 11th air forces today in an announcement that wreckage and the bodies of the five crew members were found May 18. The bomber was on a routine flight when it disappeared. The bodies were buried in Kiska cemetery. There were no Chicagoans among the casualties.

BRITAIN'S FLEET MASTERS ARCTIC CLEAR TO RUSSIA

Nazis End Challenge by Sea and Air.

BY LEO S. DISHER.
[Representing the Combined American Press.]
[Distributed by the Associated Press.]

LONDON, May 30 [Tuesday].—The British fleet has gunned and bombed its way to what appears to be hands-down mastery of the Arctic ocean clear to Russia and, for more than 100 days, has been sweeping, free from enemy attack, into the very shadows of the Norwegian coast as a prelude to invasion.

I have just returned from four months with the fleet and have seen that the allies have won the battle of the Arctic as conclusively as that in the Atlantic.

U-Boat War Smashed.

It can be disclosed that U-boat assaults on allied shipping in the north have been smashed. German plane attacks have, at least temporarily, ceased completely. The German surface navy has been hammered until it is questionable whether it now constitutes more than a feeble potential threat.

On supply routes which barely a year ago were so filled with U-boats that torpedoes "ran in grooved tracks," German submarine attacks have dwindled in effectiveness until U-boats sunk outnumber allied vessels lost.

Carrier-borne and royal air force land-based aerial attacks on the Germans' Norwegian bases and coastal supply lines have been increased in the last 60 days to the greatest pitch of the war.

Crack Units in Fleet.

The fleet facing the Germans for the final showdown of the European war is one of crack fighting outfits. It has the weight, equipment and strength required to hold the upper hand.

Once I was with an admiral on the bridge of a battleship which was leading a carrier-borne attack on a point in Norway. For the only time during my stay with the fleet, German fighters had come up against our bombers and were shellacked.

In the fleet, which almost was within sight of the coast in bright daylight, gunners waited at their guns, yawning and muttering threats against the Germans.

The reprisal air attack never came. The admiral finally signaled to his force:

"Congratulations to the aircrews . . . I'm sorry the rest of us had such a boring day."

HOLIDAY BRITISH FLOCK TO RACES, CRICKET MATCH

Cloudy Over Channel

LONDON, May 29 (AP).—The sky over the Dover straits was clouded tonight after the hottest war time Whit Monday, the temperature dropping from a record of 100 in the sun to 69 at 10 p. m. The sea continued calm, but there was a light southerly breeze from the French coast, which was blotted out by banks of haze. The visibility was limited to a few miles. The barometer dropped three points, but it still was high at dusk. High tide between Dover and Calais tomorrow will be at 7:10 p. m. [12:10 p. m. Chicago time].

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—Large numbers of Londoners who had been deprived of their customary Whitsun trip to the seaside resorts because of rail travel and other restrictions, flocked to the nearby riverside haunts and the Ascot races today. Others strolled thru the London parks, Kew Gardens and the Thames enbankment. Some did their best to brighten the streets of London with dresses of rainbow colors, and many were seen wearing linen suits and sandals.

A record war time cricket crowd of 33,000 attended the match between Australia and England, and the roads leading to Ascot were packed with thousands of racegoers, mainly on bicycles. Parks were covered acre on acre with picnic baskets.

Many Go to Wales.

Altho the main line stations reported that the holiday rush was barely above normal, at Paddington station there was a long queue before 7 a. m. for the 8:55 train to south Wales. There were also queues for the main Bournemouth trains at Waterloo station. Most of the passengers, however, obviously were traveling short distances.

Apart from Ascot, Windsor, Henley and Walton were the popular spots. Waterloo railroad officials expressed surprise that the crowds were not larger, altho 10 booking offices were dealing with streams of people 20 yards long. The biggest crowd of the day at Waterloo station was for Chessington, most of the people heading for the zoo.

Thames river boat men did a brisk business, but many customers were disappointed because of the insufficiency of boats.

Missed Date, Nazis Say.

LONDON, May 29 (AP). — German broadcasts reflected increased tension in Marshal von Rundstedt's entire invasion front today as temperature over the strait of Dover reached an unofficial 100 degrees.

Nazi commentators asserted that Gen. Eisenhower had missed one favorable invasion date when the tides and weather were perfect and cried out: "Germany would prefer for the invasion to come today rather than tomorrow."

That suggested that enemy defenses at least once had been brought to a nerve wracking peak of alertness only to find that Hitler's command had guessed wrong.

Fear French Strike.

DNB, the official enemy news agency, said, "There can be no doubt that the original date fixed for invasion has passed, but there are so many symptoms and speculations in connection with the next date that Germany cannot possibly be taken by surprise."

The Swiss newspaper, Gazette de Lausanne, gave a new clue to the defense problem of Von Rundstedt, complicated by railroads tangled and snarled by allied bombs. The newspaper said there was increasing fear of a general D day strike of French railroad workers and that the Nazis were sending in more key transportation officials and workers for key posts.

SWEDES DEVELOP ALL-WELDED DIESEL ENGINE FOR SHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—A new type of marine engine expected to increase the speed of ships has been developed in Sweden. A 25 per cent saving in weight is said to have been attained thru welding instead of casting.

The Diesel engine is said to develop more than 2,750 horsepower. It is about 25 tons lighter than a corresponding unit made of castings and will be installed in a 3,300 ton cargo ship being built at Goteborg.

Its cylinders, it is said, can be changed in two or three hours, compared with 20 to 30 hours for other engines.

NAZI 'SENSATION' ON RADIO JUST A VIOLIN SOLO!

New York, May 29 (AP).—A breathless woman broadcaster on the Berlin radio last night asked "Ladies and gentlemen in America" to stand by for "sensational news."

The sensational announcement, said the broadcast, would follow the reading of the day's war news. That was done, there was more buildup, and the woman announcer proclaimed:

"And now, ladies and gentlemen, for the sensational news we have promised you. In just a few minutes you will hear a talented Berlin artist play on a violin that was made in 1626."

Scotland's Church O. K.'s Britain's Bombing Policy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—Britain's aerial bombing policy was approved tonight by the general assembly of the Church of Scotland. A meeting of the assembly in Edinburgh was told that the government had pledged that bombings were aimed at the destruction of military targets only. The Rev. J. Pitt Watson said the British policy "may be the means of saving for the future of this island thousands of young and precious lives to be flung into the maelstrom of invasion."

5 G. I.'S AND GIRL OF ILLINOIS TELL OF LIFE IN INDIA

Son of a Chicago Judge Collecting Gems.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

UNITED STATES ARMY HDQ., New Delhi, India—[By air mail].—With the Delhi temperature hovering about a muggy 100 degrees, five Illinois service men and a girl Red Cross worker from Evanston spent an uncomfortable hour today posing for sketches made by a former American newspaper cartoonist now an officer in the army air forces.

He is Maj. Dick Kirschbaum of Newark, N. J., former cartoonist and aviation writer for the Newark News and previously a political cartoonist for several Ohio newspapers. The combination sketching and interview were his idea, and with the help of the New Delhi Red Cross unit he gathered the group from Illinois today.

Chicagoan Collects Gems.

First on the stand was Pvt. John Q. O'Connell, 22, the son of Judge John F. O'Connell. Young O'Connell, who lived at 3432 Bosworth av., Chicago, has been in the army 10 months.

"I've delevoped several pastimes out here to help make the time go by until I can get back home," O'Connell said. "Because India is supposed to be a land of gems, I've become a gem collector. Also, with all these age old temples sprawling on all sides, I've taken up photography in a big way and should have thousands of snaps when I go home, enough to bore my friends for years to come."

The cartoonist's second victim was—of all things to find in this almost desert country of central India—a sailor. Yeoman 1st Class Robert McCoy, 30, lived with his parents at 5438 Ingleside av., Chicago, before he enlisted in the navy in April, 1942.

Former Radio Announcer.

"Before I joined up I was a radio announcer in Chicago," McCoy said.

McCoy has taken part in several theatrical productions staged with all-service men casts by the Red Cross. He at present is announcing weekly dance music program broadcast for allied troops of All-India Radio, and is doing other radio work for the office of war information.

The Red Cross worker was Miss Margaret Elizabeth Healy, 1136 Church st., Evanston. Miss Healy was a swimming instructor at Winnetka's New Trier High school for six years before she joined the Red Cross for field service in 1942. She spent seven months at air bases and ground stations in the uper Assam, India, valley.

She Has Seen India.

"After that I was assigned to work at a rest camp for a few months, then went to Calcutta to the Red Cross unit there," Miss Healy said. "Then came a tour of duty in Karachi, then my present assignment to the New Delhi field unit. So I'm certainly getting to see India."

Miss Healy was for 38 days at sea aboard a jamed troopship when she came to India late in 1942.

Pvt. Alvin Zimmerman, 31, of 5200 Blackstone av., Chicago, made only a few terse remarks as he perspired thru his session on the model's stand. In service 18 months, he has been overseas seven months.

The cartoonist's next victim was Tech. Sgt. John J. O'Mara, 25, of 10029 Ewing av. By one of the strange metamorphoses peculiar to the army, O'Mara, who was a blast furnace man for a steel company in Chicago, now is a service radio operator here in India.

Anyway, Food Was Good.

A soldier from Dixon, Pvt. Joseph A. Russo, was last on the list of models. Russo, 34, was a salesman for the Rogers Printing company of Dixon before he joined the army last May. He is assigned to the signal corps.

"My gang left the United States last February aboard a converted luxury liner which was considerably more conversion than luxury," Russo said. "It took us 35 days to make the trip, and I spent most of that time in the third bunk in a four bunk hitch, in a big troop cabin well down inside the ship.

"Luckily, the food was good. Upon arrival at the Indian port of debarkation, we had our first experience in an Indian train—the one which brought us to New Delhi. While that train lumbered slowly northward we lived on army iron rations and slept wherever we could. I was quite comfortable—I had the luggage rack."

MEDIC RUNS OUT OF PASTE, SO HE USES GELATIN

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—From the Marshall Islands comes the story of a marine medical officer who, lacking the sort of paste usually employed with fracture bandages, turned to the use of ordinary gelatin dessert.

Swabbed in a layer of bandages, the gelatin works well, reported Lieutenant J. W. Stevens, of Duquoin, Ill., and he offers patients their choice of flavors, with raspberry reported the favorite.

"The only difficulty that might arise," Dr. Stevens said, "would be if the patient was allowed to become overly hungry."

REVOLT FORCES OUT ECUADOR'S HEAD, CABINET

QUITO, Ecuador, May 29 (AP).—President Carlos Arroyo del Rio and all members of his cabinet resigned tonight after a revolutionary junta seized power in Guayaquil, Ecuador's main commercial city.

Velasco Ibarra.

A general strike had broken out here, apparently in support of the Guayaquil revolt, in which 40 persons were reported killed after an uprising led by supporters of the exiled former President Velasco Ibarra.

Crowds paraded in Quito's streets, hailing the former president.

Arroyo del Rio, a firm supporter of Pan-American solidarity, turned over his power to Dr. Fausto Navarro Allende, senate vice president, and took refuge in the United States embassy.

The resigning president assumed office first as acting president in November, 1939, just before the death of President Mosquera Narvez.

In a bitter election the following January he defeated Velasco Ibarra, whose supporters in a brief uprising were quelled.

Once Roosevelt Guest.

Nearly a year after Pearl Harbor, in November, 1942, Arroyo del Rio visited President Roosevelt in Washington and toured various American cities. He disclosed then that his government had made bases available to United States troops, particularly in the Galapagos Islands, off the Ecuadorean coast in the Pacific.

Vice President Wallace later visited Ecuador and was welcomed by Arroyo del Rio.

Just a week ago President Roosevelt sent a message to Arroyo del Rio, congratulating him on the boundary settlement between Peru and Ecuador.

Ten Hour Fight for City.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, May 29 (AP).—A revolutionist junta seized control of this commercial city after 10 hours of street fighting today. The revolt was aimed at forestalling a presidential election set for Friday and Saturday.

Maj. Manuel Antonio Hidalgo was named military and civil chief of Guayaquil by the provisional junta. The city was calm after earlier fighting, and civilians found armed were rounded up and confined in military barracks.

After rebel troops seized the military police barracks in Guayaquil the revolutionists set up their provisional government junta. Its members are Francisco Arizaga Luque, Alfonso Larrea Alba, Efrain Camacho Santos, Pedro Antonio Saao, Angel Felicisimo Rojas, Pedro Pablo Egues Baquerizo, and Capt. Sergio Enrique Giron.

Revolutionist troops, supported by tanks, seized the Guayaquil barracks of the carabineros, the military police. A proclamation was issued by the revolutionists stating that the movement was supported by students and labor unions and that new elections would be called by a revolutionary regime.

Election 'Farce,' Say Rebels.

The rebels charged the presidential election would be farcical because Ibarra, who had been living in Colombia, had been forbidden to return from exile to participate.

[A dispatch from Bogota said Velasco Ibarra expressed hope that "those who have taken part in the revolution will respect the popular will." He added the government was responsible for the fact that "my unjust as well as indefinite expatriation might produce chaos."]

The sound of firing was heard in Guayaquil all last night and military ambulances were called out to care for casualties. Many residences near the military police headquarters were damaged by gunfire of the tank forces.

[Ibarra is the candidate of minority groups in Ecuador banded together under the name of Alianza Democratica (democratic alliance). His opponent in the presidential campaign is Miguel Angel Albornoz, candidate of the Liberal Radical party and backed by the Del Rio government. The election fight has been over internal issues. Both Ibarra and Albornoz favor continuation of the Ecuadorean foreign policy of friendship for the United States and its allies.]

250 British Scientific Workers Hold a Talkfest

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—Two hundred and fifty scientific "backroom boys" left their bombs, and airplanes, and test tubes today to discuss at an annual conference what their union, the Association of Scientific Workers, has done in the last year. Among the delegates was a woman, Miss Agnes Waddell, mathematics lecturer of Glasgow university, who went into practical research herself when many of her students were called up. She did some higher technical research on the jet-propelled airplane.

OAK PARK PILOT MISSING; PLANE DOWN IN BURMA

Capt. Philip R. Burling, former Oak Park High school and college athlete, has been missing since April 28 during a flight over the "hump" of the Himalayas from India to China, it was learned yesterday. Attached to the India-China wing of the air transport command as a pilot, he had made 62 flights over the 'hump" without mishap.

Capt. P. R. Burling.

Capt. Burling's wife, the former Josephine Knox of 321 Wesley av., Oak Park, who now is living in Coral Gables, Fla., has been notified by the army that wreckage of his transport plane was sighted in the Japanese controled Burma jungle, and rescue parties are attempting to reach the spot. Capt. Burling, who is 30, enlisted in the air forces in June, 1940, after his graduation from Northwestern university dental school.

He holds the air medal and a Presidential citation.

PONAPE BOMBED IN HEAVIEST OF WAR'S ASSAULTS

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, May 29 (AP).—The heaviest aerial assault of the war on Ponape, major Japanese base 440 miles east of Truk, was announced tonight by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

In the 24th hammering this month of the enemy's administrative center for the Carolines, Liberator and Mitchell bombers dropped 101 tons of bombs Saturday against moderate anti-aircraft opposition.

Marine and navy divebombers and fighters dumped 50 tons on Wotje and attacked other isolated enemy atolls in the Marshalls.

HULL TO START 4-NATION TALKS ON WORLD PEACE

Reports Senators Back His Post-War Plan.

any phase of the planning for a post-war security organization is under consideration."

The members of the senate committee which has discussed the question with Mr. Hull during the last two weeks are Tom Connally [D., Tex.], chairman of the foreign relations committee; Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader of the senate; Walter F. George [D., Ga.]; Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.]; Robert M. La Follette [P., Wis.]; Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.]; Wallace H. White Jr. [R., Me.], and Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.].

Secretary Hull set out to obtain a statement by the group of senators indorsing commitment of the United States to an international agency to preserve peace by force and commissioning him to negotiate with the other powers an agreement accepting such proposal. In this endeavor he was signally unsuccessful and he finally was compelled to abandon the effort.

Reluctant to Act Now.

The reason for his failure was the lack of unanimity of the senators on a post-war peace program. While some of the senators were willing to go as far as Secretary Hull if not farther in committing the United States to a new league of nations or other international organization to preserve peace by force, there were several members who were unwilling to agree to any commitments at this time or before the end of the war.

The outstanding opponent of immediate commitments was Sen. La Follette. He contended it would be most unwise and neglectful of the best interests of the United States to commit the country to participation in an agency to enforce peace until it is known what sort of peace settlement at the end of the war we shall be called upon to preserve with our economic and military resources.

Seed of Future Wars.

If the peace settlement should be unjust to any nations it would bear the seed of future wars, La Follette argued, and any association by the United States with a scheme to underwrite an unjust peace would only compound the injustice.

Illustrative of the unjust peace La Follette had in mind would be sanction of soviet Dictator Stalin's plans to annex or sovietize Poland, the Baltic republics and the Balkan countries. The indications are that Mr. Roosevelt tacitly agreed to the Russian program at the Teheran conference. Mr. Hull in his April 9 speech found it in harmony with the Atlantic Charter, provided there was agreement between Russia and the other countries involved to which Stalin is agreeable, for he intends to procure the agreement while his troops occupy these nations. La Follette stands for self-determination for small nations by plebiscites held under international supervision.

Tacit O.K. on Red Plan.

To accept the Hull peace agency program, as La Follette viewed it, would be tantamount to American approval of Stalin's designs on eastern Europe and an engagement to use American forces to carry out the project. To make such an advance commitment would be to sacrifice our influence to bring about a just peace.

La Follette made it clear that he stands for international coöperation to preserve peace but is opposed to signing any blank check to be filled in later by imperialistically inclined powers. He had no objection to Mr. Hull opening discussions of a post-war peace plan with the other powers, so long as no commitments are made before we know what kind of a peace we are to be called upon to preserve. Mr. Hull finally adopted the La Follette formula.

Sen. Vandenberg took much the same position as did La Follette. The keynote of Vandenberg's attitude was essentially what he stated in his reply to the London Mirror when he said, 'We shall be more interested in post-war justice than in post-war force."

FLYER BAILS OUT OF BOMBER AND FALLS PRISONER

Lt. Frank T. Walsh.

Lt. Frank T. Walsh, navigator on a bomber, is a prisoner in Germany, his mother, Mrs. W. J. Walsh, 4153 Wells st., has learned. He was reported missing on March 18 on his 16th bombing mission.

On March 29 Lt. Walsh was awarded the air medal with three oak leaf clusters, an award of which he presumably has no information as yet, Mrs. Walsh said. A brother, Lt. William Walsh, is with the field artillery at Fort Dix, N. J.

The co-pilot of Walsh's plane, Lt. John Otis, has written that Walsh and the bombardier were forced to bail out when the plane was damaged. Thru unusual circumstances, the plane was repaired and the rest of the crew returned safely to England, Otis wrote.

KIMMEL URGES EARLY TRIAL ON PEARL HARBOR

Complete Story Not Told, He Asserts.

department intimated in no uncertain way that my retirement from the service was wanted. Accordingly I requested it. I did not wish to retire.

"For two and a half years I have waited for the navy department to bring me to trial. The report of the Roberts commission does not tell the whole story of Pearl Harbor."

Present Deadline June 7.

The present June 7 deadline for court martial action was set in an earlier six month extension.

Kimmel sent Ferguson a copy of the following letter he wrote Sept. 7, 1943, to Knox:

"It is my personal desire to be brought to trial by general court martial in open court at the earliest practicable date. Delay in the matter is opposed to my personal interest, since the passage of time and the circumstances and casualties of war and of the period following may make it difficult, perhaps impossible, to assemble and produce the evidence and the witnesses required.

"I have at all times been anxious to subordinate my own interests to the national welfare, which appears to require that my trial be delayed. I am therefore forwarding to you herewith a waiver executed by me which I hope will be satisfactory to you."

Discloses Waiver.

Kimmel disclosed the signing of the following waiver:

"I, Husband E. Kimmel, rear admiral U. S. N. retired, hereby agree on my honor as an officer and a gentleman that I will not plead, nor admit any attorney or other person on my behalf to plead, the statute of limitations in bar of my trial by general court martial in open court for any alleged offenses with which I may be charged relating to the period on or before Dec. 7, 1941, should my trial be held during the present war or within six months thereafter.

"I take this action voluntarily believing it to be in the public interest."

The extension proposed by Rep. Short [R., Mo.] "directs" that the court martial be instituted some time during the year ending June 7, 1945. It is aimed specifically at Kimmel and Short, but also includes any other officers and civilians who may have contributed to the success of the Japanese attack.

Would Compel Trial.

Rep. Short's proposal is stronger than the previous extension in that it "directs" instead of merely "permits" the court martial.

Rep. Cox [D., Ga.], who objected to the word "directs," said that "the story I have been told" is that Kimmel and Short were not responsible for the situation at Hawaii, but were simply "following orders."

Rep. Short, however, contended that the "direction" clause was necessary, saying, "Would you leave this [court martial] up to war and navy department officials who themselves might have been derelict in their duty?"

"I know Adm. Kimmel is anxious to be tried," Short added, "and I believe that Gen. Short [no relative of the congressman] is just as anxious to tell his story."

MICHIGAN GOVERNOR BACKS U. S. BALLOT FOR EMERGENCY USE

Lansing, Mich., May 29 [Special].—An official call for a special meeting of the legislature to be held on June 19 for the purpose of enacting legislation to authorize use of the federal soldier ballot by service men was issued today from the executive office of Gov. Kelly.

The governor decided to ask legalization of the federal ballot to supplement Michigan's own state ballot for service men, which was adopted at a special session last February. The state ballot, it was said, allows ample time for voting except in a few emergency cases in which service men have been transferred several times. Kelly said the federal ballot was being legalized to make certain no voter from this state is deprived of the franchise because of war service.

It was explained that Gov. Kelly expects the special session will last only a few hours.

Find Loaded Ship at Sea, Not a Man Aboard

New York, May 29 [Special].—A ghost ship of the Atlantic has "arrived safely in tow at a British port with her mystery still unsolved," the British radio said today. "The ship was recently discovered drifting on a calm sea in mid-Atlantic, laden with war supplies, but with not a man aboard," B. B. C. continued. "Sailors who boarded her found her deserted. The engines had been stopped, but apart from one missing lifeboat everything appeared in order."

Farm Wife Killed, Mate Shot; Posse Hunts Youth

House Springs, Mo., May 29 (AP).—Mrs. Andrew Kley, 57, was killed and her 48 year old husband seriously wounded by blasts from a shotgun late today at their form home near here. A posse of 100 patrolmen, deputy sheriffs, and farmers was searching wooded districts near by for a youth authorities wish to question.

SHOES AND SHIPS AND SEALING WAX ALL IN A BEARD

Des Moines, Ia., May 29 (AP).—A 70 year old painter, arrested on a minor charge, put the traditionally overloaded women's purses and little boys' pockets to shame when he produced these things from his beard, shirt and three pairs of overalls:

Twenty paint brushes, 60 mechanical pens and pencils, four putty knives, 17 combs, a 50 foot cord line, two road maps, ration book, a quart of sauerkraut, several pounds of wieners, five pounds of sugar, a tube of shaving cream, a whistle, a gross of used toothpicks, adhesive tape, four flashlights, a razor, bar of soap, three boxes of razor blades, hammer, six knives, shoe laces, a grindstone, buttons, nails, marbles, safety pins, and chains.

AUTO KILLING HELD ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury found yesterday that Donato Dagnuolo, 80, of 1402 Broadway, Melrose Park, died of injuries suffered Sunday when struck accidentally at 18th st. and North av., Melrose Park, by an automobile driven by Gilbert T. Cuhna, 18, of 1708 N. Damen av.

Praise for Thomas Treatment

MEN in all walks of life have been "singing praise for Thomas treatment" for more than 20 years. They are happy because Thomas has helped them obtain pleasant relief from aggravating, irritating scalp conditions, such as scaly dandruff, and itchyness caused by exuvia. When Perry Como, singing star of screen and radio, says, "Thomas treatment is superb!" thousands of Thomas clients throughout the country heartily agree with him!

You owe it to yourself to find out exactly why Thomas treatment has been so universally popular and so much in demand for more than 20 years. Come in today for free consultation—a Thomas expert will show you precisely what Thomas treatment is, and why it is so effective.

You'll learn, too, that it is inexpensive, and that it takes but very little of your time.

CHICAGO YANK, FIRST AT ANZIO, HELD BY NAZIS

Pvt. Walter P. Krzysztofiak of 5511 S. Latrobe av., who was the first American ashore on the Anzio beaches south of Rome last winter, is a prisoner of war of Germany, the war department announced yesterday. Krzysztofiak's landing boat scraped bottom on the beach two minutes ahead of the attack hour and he cut barbed wire on the beach. His wife, Matilda, lives here.

NAVAL OFFICER FOUND HANGED IN HIS HOTEL ROOM

Lt. Comdr. Leo Hartley McMahon, 42, a medical officer at the Great Lakes Naval Training center, was found hanged yesterday in his room in the Hotel Karcher, 405 Washington st., Waukegan.

Coroner Garfield R. Leaf of Lake county, who removed the body from a suitcase strap affixed to the bathroom ceiling, said the death was a suicide.

Lt. Comdr. McMahon was a practicing physician in Breckenridge, Minn., for 17 years. He entered the navy March 29 and was assigned to Great Lakes April 24.

CIO INFLUENCING DEMOCRATS IN 2 NEARBY STATES

Michigan and Wisconsin Units Affected.

Domination of the Democratic party in Wisconsin and Michigan by the CIO is becoming increasingly obvious as the leftist labor organization moves from one political venture to another, reports from the two states indicate. Both openly and from behind the scenes, observers declare, individual CIO leaders and their union's political action committee are endeavoring to take over control of Democratic party machinery. The situation as reported in each state:

WISCONSIN

Milwaukee, Wis., May 29 [Special.]—If the Democratic party in Wisconsin is to save itself, it must separate from its CIO and communist influences, William B. Rubin, Democratic leader, declared here today.

Rubin, Milwaukee attorney, insisted labor unions in Milwaukee are dominated by suspected Communists who are trying to take over the Democratic party in Wisconsin.

"From their strongly entrenched position in the CIO in Milwaukee, which they still dominate, the Communists began to operate under the mask of labor," Rubin said. "Their representatives appeared at Democratic gatherings and demanded amalgamation of all liberals to drive reactionaries out of power.

Rank and File for F. D. R.

"At every Democratic gathering they introduced resolutions condemning isolationists and praising President Roosevelt, against whom they previously had been very bitter. They prevailed upon Democrats to attend so-called liberal conventions at Fond du Lac in 1942 and Green Bay in 1943, thus consolidating their power among Democrats.

"What gives the Communists so much power with the ranks of labor in Wisconsin is that the rank and file of the CIO and AFL, altho not Communists, are for Roosevelt with the consequence that any resolution is acceptable to them if it will advance the administration."

Aldrich Revell, president of the CIO council in Madison and columnist for the Madison Capital Times, said:

"Being president of the CIO council in Madison, I know whereof I speak. We have fought this Communist influence in Madison sometimes with success, but the boys are still in the ascendency."

Influence Is Shown.

The CIO political action committee showed its influence at the Wisconsin Democratic party convention in Wausau three weeks ago and is slated to figure in the forthcoming election in this state.

Chief figure at the Wausau convention was Mel J. Heinritz of Milwaukee, secretary of the Wisconsin state CIO. He emphasized to delegates that the state CIO policy includes the backing of President Roosevelt for reëlection.

MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., May 29 [Special].—The CIO in Michigan dominated the Democratic party's spring convention in Detroit on April 14. CIO sponsored resolutions were adopted by the delegates which included a disproportionate number of union men. The convention keynoter was Richard Frankensteen, vice president of the CIO—United Automobile Workers and chairman of the Michigan CIO political action committee.

Frankensteen and other CIO leaders made efforts at the convention to hand-pick a slate of Democratic candidates but were unsuccessful, partly because their selectees declined the attempted "drafts."

Leftists Ousted.

The communist wing of the CIO in Michigan has been extremely active in a drive to take control of the Wayne county Democratic party machinery. But the inferior numerical strength of this group, and the lack of enthusiasm engendered in the right wing element, has retarded their efforts.

The right wingers developed enough spunk at a spring convention of the CIO political action committee to oust the leftists from powerful positions they had seized.

As the situation now stands, the CIO has nine candidates from the right wing and three from the left out of a field of 85 competing for 21 nominations at large for the state house of representatives from the city of Detroit.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

May 29, 1944.

GEN. MUD continues to hold up the advance on the Wheaton farm. For more days than they wish to think about, the men have busied themselves with odd jobs waiting for the ground to dry out. Corn plowing is far behind schedule. The farm needs several weeks of hot, dry weather to catch up.

There has been only one advantage from the wet weather. It has delayed corn planting so that the young sprouts will be fairly safe from the first generation of corn borers. The borers are due to start laying eggs in the early part of June. By that time the corn at the farm will be too small to attract the pests.

Borers Shift Attack.

The borers probably will devote their egg laying to the oats, alfalfa and roadside weeds. Delayed planting is universally recommended as one of the best corn borer control methods. Planting at the Wheaton farm, however, has been delayed too long. May 15 to 25 were the proper dates for planting, according to agricultural colleges.

While waiting for the ground to dry enough to permit field operations the workers have puttered away at every job they could think up. Fence building has occupied a major part of the time. If the rains continue the farm will have some fine fences albeit no corn crop.

Corn Shelling Done.

Corn shelling was done at the temporary crib where it was feared corn was spoiling. The men shelled more than 500 bushels and are using it to feed the steers. A large portion of the cribbed grain was in poor condition. The men have not shelled the rest because the grain can dry more quickly when left on the cob. If stored away in shelled form, the grain would pack into a solid mass and spoilage would be accelerated.

Lawn mowing and machine repairing also have been done during the waiting spell. Everything is in readiness for immediate work. When the ground dries the visitor will find men working in the fields from early in the morning until 9 or 10 o'clock in the evening.

Last year the first corn was planted June 1. It was June 20 before the last of the acres were drilled. The men hope fervently they will do better this year. Last year's late planted crop was soft as a result of failing to mature before frost time.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

ALL of the vine crops [cucumbers, squash, and melons] require a specific planting process. Planting distances for these crops were explained in this space yesterday.

In preparing the planting hills, make sure that the spaded or plowed seedbed is eight to 12 inches deep. After cultivating the planting space to eliminate clods, make a hole about 20 inches in diameter and four inches deep. Place one to two inches of animal manure or rotted compost in the bottom of the hole, then replace the topsoil to form a slight mound. The hill then is ready for seeding.

It is advisable to plant five or six seeds to the hill. If all germinate, thin the plants to allow only three to the hill. In thinning, do not pull seedlings out by the roots. Cut them off at ground level.

BACK 4TH TERM, INTERNATIONAL WORKERS URGED

Members of the midwest district of the International Workers order were exhorted to support President Roosevelt for a fourth term by a series of speakers who addressed a district gathering of the order last night in Orchestra hall.

The audience was told it must take "radical action" by one of the speakers, the Rev. Adam Clayton Powell, Negro pastor of the Abyssinian Baptist church of New York, who said:

"No man has a right to occupy a position of political importance if he doesn't have a global mind and an international outlook."

Other speakers included Joseph Martinek, exeutive secretary of the Czecho Slovak National Council of America, and M. J. Quill, New York councilman and president of the CIO National Transportation Workers' union, who frequently has been identified with the Communist party in America. Mrs. Louise Thompson Patterson, Negro, president of the midwest district, presided at the meeting.

EX-SWEETHEART OF HAUPT'S SON REPEATS STORY

Testifies at Second Treason Trial.

Mrs. Gerda Melind Saure, of 1631 Chase av., whose testimony in behalf of her Nazi saboteur sweetheart, Herbert Haupt, failed to prevent his death sentence by a military tribunal at Washington two years ago, yesterday appeared as a government witness in the treason trial of her executed sweetheart's father, Hans Max Haupt, before Federal Judge John P. Barnes and a jury.

Gerda Melind Saure.

The witness, remarried since Herbert and five other Nazis who were secretly landed on American shores from a German submarine to sabotage war industries were electrocuted, delivered her testimony with composure.

Speaks in Low Tones.

Mrs. Saure, who was a divorcee when she knew Herbert, spoke in low tones, answering questions put to her by Assistant United States Atty. Earle C. Hurley readily and briefly.

It was the third time that she had told from a witness stand of her romance with young Haupt. The second occasion was the first trial of the elder Haupt, which resulted in the death sentence for him and two other men, and prison sentences for their wives.

Herbert's departure from Chicago on the circuitous voyage that eventually landed him at a saboteur's school in Germany came as a surprise to her, Mrs. Saure testified. Her first knowledge that he had gone was a postcard he sent her from St. Louis, telling her he was en route to California, she said.

She asserted that she did not hear again from Herbert until a year later, in June, 1942, when his mother, Mrs. Erna Haupt, telephoned her and asked her to come to their home. She did, she said, and found Herbert there.

Leaves of His Arrest.

This meeting was on Wednesday. On each of the following two days, she said, Herbert called and asked for a date. She was busy both nights, she testified, but made a date with him for Saturday night.

"He was to call me and fix the time," she asserted, "but he never called."

While she waited for his phone call, the witness continued, she went out and had several drinks. Then when Herbert still hadn't telephoned, she called his mother. Mrs. Haupt appeared worried and said that Herbert hadn't been home for dinner. Then she learned that her sweetheart had been seized by federal bureau of investigation agents.

DIES OF FALL INJURIES.

Martin Hebda, 68, died yesterday in St. Mary's hospital of injuries suffered Sunday night when he fell from the back porch railing of his home at 1318 N. Artesian av.

BRICKER TO OPEN HEADQUARTERS FOR CONVENTION

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Chicago supporters of Gov. John W. Bricker for President will meet tomorrow to open first floor headquarters in the convention hotel, the Stevens. Spokesmen said yesterday they expect the initial roll of Bricker boosters to grow quickly from hundreds to thousands.

Bricker backers are counting on a powerful response to his appeal to safeguard American interests first and to keep clear of permanent military alliances which they believe would primarily benefit other nations. At the governors' conference in Hershey, Pa., Gov. Bricker came out more strongly than ever before against such alliances and world army schemes.

Bankers to Head Group.

Frank C. Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company and of the Mutual National Bank of Chicago, is expected to be chosen permanent chairman of the Chicago Bricker for President committee. He has known Gov. Bricker for some years, he said, and it is his first venture into politics.

"I'm interested in the nation and a good President," Rathje said. "Politics is not my business. Bricker is genuine and thoroly honest. He would represent America primarily and serve its best interests."

One Bricker enthusiast suggested yesterday that a poll be taken in New York state on Roosevelt vs. Gov. Dewey for President. Keystone of the Dewey strength is the widespread belief he could carry New York state, but results of such a poll might change the whole picture, he said.

Young Mayor Coming.

G. E. Tenney of the Chicago branch of the Lincoln Electric company of Cleveland, O., is temporary chairman of the committee. He will preside at the organization meeting. Principal speaker will be Myers Y. Cooper, governor of Ohio in 1929 and 1930.

James O. Rhodes, 33 year old mayor of Columbus, O., will be here to lend a hand at the event and may remain to help the project along.

After a speech on taxation before the governors' conference, Bricker will address a homecoming gathering in Brickerville, Pa., tomorrow. He is booked for Trenton, N. J., on Thursday, for Baltimore, Md., on Friday, and Hartford, Conn., Saturday. He is scheduled to make at least one talk in each of these cities, and to submit to press conferences in line with his policy of discussing all issues.

DRAFT SCANDAL JAILS SIX; NAVY DROPS OFFICER

FBI Bares Bribes of $50 to $1,000 for Rejections.

The federal bureau of investigation yesterday disclosed the arrest of six men and the search for a seventh, charged with paying $3,050 in bribes to "navy induction personnel" in efforts to evade the draft. At the same time the navy suspended an unnamed chief petty officer, allegedly involved in the scandal.

Physical rejections were bought at prices from $50 to $1,000, asserted the FBI. In one case the rejection was legitimate but $50 was paid apparently as appreciation, it was charged. Most of the seven men involved have police records, and the one still at large is said to have been at one time associated with Eddie Vogel, slot machine boss, whom the FBI described as a one-time affiliate.

Those Involved Named.

Those accused by the FBI, headed by Spencer J. Drayton, and by naval intelligence, are:

Frank J. Cerone, 31, 1249 Ohio st., a salesman, who is missing, but is expected to surrender tomorrow; his brother, James Samuel Cerone, 25, of the same address; Guy A. Di Leo, 35, of 516 N. Ogden av.; George Alex, 36, of 9355 S. Spaulding av., Evergreen Park; William [Smokes] Aloisio, 37, of 2020 Pierce av.; his brother, George Sam Aloisio, 23, of 1121 Huron st., and Charles C. Bartoli, 29, of 2109 Kenmore av.

James Cerone, Di Leo, Alex, George Sam Aloisio, Bartoli, and Frank Cerone are charged with evading military service. Frank Cerone is charged also with aiding and abetting their evasion. William [Smokes] Aloisio is charged only with aiding and abetting.

Bonds Put at $5,000 Each.

Smokes Aloisio allegedly was the go-between, who arranged the rejections and bribes. Frank Cerone allegedly paid the bribes. All but the missing Frank Cerone were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and held in bond of $5,000 each for further hearing June 14.

The FBI in a formal statement charged that: Alex was rejected as a 4-F April 13, and Frank Cerone paid $1,000 to "navy personnel for the rejection"; Bartoli was rejected March 16, and $1,000 also was paid; George Sam Aloisio was rejected May 12, and $500 was paid; James Cerone was rejected May 24, and $500 was paid, and Di Leo was rejected April 15, and $50 was paid. Frank Cerone never took an examination.

Only Di Leo's physical rejection was legitimate, the FBI asserted, but he nevertheless paid $50 to "an individual."

STRICTER RATION PROGRAM AHEAD, OPA HEAD WARNS

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special].—"More rigid rationing" that will extend to more commodities than now covered was predicted today by Chester Bowles, office of price administration chief, and Charles F. Phillips, his new rationing chief, at a meeting of the OPA staff.

Talk of relaxation of rationing is "ridiculous," Bowles told the staff.

"Any hope of relaxing would depend on the war being short and easy," he said. "If the war is tough, we'll have more and acuter shortages than we have ever seen before. Privately, I say the trend is toward more rigid rationing."

In greeting the staff for the first time, Phillips, who succeeded Col. Bryan Houston as deputy administrator for rationing, said:

"Some people say rationing is about over. It is not over, or anywhere near over. We could find ourselves six, eight, or nine months from now with much tighter meat rationing."

Simultaneously, the OPA warned manufacturers that stadium boots of leather other than shearling would be rationed after July 14. Shearling is sheepskin leather with wool left on the hide.

In other announcements the war food administration promised more ice cream for June and July, and the war production board said production of children's garments in the first quarter of 1944 averaged 40 per cent more than for the same period of last year.

Basing its predictions of more ice cream on increased quotas of milk solids, the WFA said manufacturers would make 30 million gallons more of ice cream and other frozen dairy foods this summer than a year ago.

COURT REVERSES DIVORCE GIVEN ARTIST'S WIFE

The Appellate court yesterday reversed an order of the late Circuit Judge George Fred Rush granting a divorce to Mrs. Marion Hall Galter, 32, of 632 Deming pl., from her husband, Louis, advertising artist, on a charge of misconduct.

The opinion held that evidence of misconduct was purely circumstantial. Testimony that Galter was found in a hotel room in New York, dictating letters to a woman typist, was ruled inconclusive of misconduct.

The court also reversed a $1,500 allowance to Mrs. Galter for attorney fees on the ground that her counsel did not itemize services. The fee order was remanded for hearing. The decision was written by Justice Grover C. Niemeyer and concurred in by Justices David F. Matchett and John M. O'Connor.

NEW OPA RULING EXTENDS LIFE OF 2 FUEL COUPONS

Current fuel oil coupons 4 and 5, for domestic use, in effect will be good indefinitely, the office of price administration said yesterday. Paul A. H. Shults, acting area director, said he had received a copy of an amendment to the regulations from Washington, D. C.

The coupons originally expired Sept. 31, the end of the heating year as defined by the OPA. Several weeks ago the heating year was changed to the period Sept. 1—Aug. 31, and the 4 and 5 coupons were to have expired on the latter date.

The amendment received yesterday, Shults said, provides that those who hold coupons 4 or 5 on Sept. 30 may exchange them for class 3 coupons, good indefinitely, "so that frugal and careful users will not be penalized, and may draw on unexpired rations for use next winter, in addition to their 1944-45 allotments."

SLAYS WOMAN AND ENDS LIFE IN LOVE TRAGEDY

The bodies of John Vess, 61, and of his sweetheart, Mrs. Marie Knight, 45, of 951 Belden av., were found by Hudson av. police yesterday in Vess' apartment at 2314 Southport av. The throats of both were slashed, and both bodies were mutilated. A blood-stained ice pick and two knives were found, as well as a .38 caliber revolver with one cartridge discharged.

Mrs. Mary Knight and John Vess.

Detectives Ambrose Mahoney and Walter Wagemann, who battered down the door of the apartment, said they believed Vess had slain the woman and then killed himself. Mrs. Knight had vainly sought to escape, they said.

Vess' daughter, Mrs. Marie Bukraba, had notified police she was unable to gain entrance. A note in Romanian addressed to the daughter said Vess had become tired of Mrs. Knight's "two-timing," the detectives asserted.

Mrs. Bukraba said she last saw her father, a leather finisher, Saturday; that he had kept company with Mrs. Knight, a divorcee and mother of three children, for a year and had given the woman $15 a week thruout his courtship.

LOVE TRIANGLE WARNING TOLD BY VICTIM'S SON

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special].—A son of the slain psychiatrist, Dr. John E. Lind, testified as a rebuttal witness for the government at Robert I. Miller's murder trial today that he once heard Mrs. Miller warn his father that "Bob says he is going to shoot you."

The son, Pvt. William Lind, said the warning was given over a hotel luncheon table about two months before Miller shot and killed Dr. Lind as the physician was sitting with Miller's wife in an automobile in downtown Washington last Feb. 21.

Presentation of evidence in the trial was concluded this afternoon with testimony for the government.

The trial will be recessed tomorrow and arguments to the jury of 11 men and one woman will take place Wednesday.

'FRUGIFEROUS' TIME DESCRIBED IN WRIGLEY SUIT

Miss Iris Gardner, 42, the St. Louis, Mo., mannequin who was instructed by Judge John F. Haas in Superior court last week to be more specific in her $532,139 breach of contract suit against Charles W. Wrigley, 74, filed an amended complaint yesterday.

The suit, in which Miss Gardner is represented by Atty. John D. Vosnos, alleged that she expended "youth, grace, and charm" and her "most frugiferous [fruitful] years" to assist Wrigley in his business and social affairs. She asserted that Wrigley, an advertising executive, agreed in 1937 to pay her $1,000 a month for life, but stopped the payments in May, 1943.

She said she "ameliorated defendant's business and social as well as esthetic well being, and in particular exerted much effort in extirpating and eradicating defendant's uncouthness, inferiority complex, defensive mechanisms, and egocentrism."

The largest paint makers in the world, with the largest experimental laboratories, couldn't help but be your best bet if there's a paint job to be done. This doesn't exclude a project from roof-top to floors. World wide fame is proof of this, and gives you an idea of the extent you can depend on Sherwin Williams for the very best and latest in paints. Too, the remarkable Kem-Tone bears your investigation. For you can apply it over wallpaper, wallboards, brick, tile, cement. It dries within an hour. An amateur does a professional job with it.

A DAY OF DEDICATION.

Of late years Memorial day has been losing something of its original significance. Many families had adopted the custom of visiting all their graves on this occasion, heedless of the fact that this day is set aside to honor the memories of the men and women who served their country in war, and particularly of those who died on the nation's battlefields.

Now, when almost every family has a son or a near relative on one or another of the fighting fronts, the true meaning of Memorial day is more clearly understood. On other occasions we may pause to remember the great throng who have gone before us; today we remember in gratitude and pride only those of them whose lives were dedicated to their country.

They died for the Republic, leaving it to us to guard its traditions of liberty and justice. May we be worthy of trust.

THE TWILIGHT OF THE PLANTATIONS.

The history of the wealth of the Indies is that the very costliness of many products of the eastern world has been a constant spur to the scientists and technicians of the western world to find substitutes.

The camphor trade, for which the Japanese waged a long and costly struggle against the Formosan head hunters, lost much of its value with the synthesis of camphor. The present war, cutting off the supply of so many tropical products, has been a natural spur to American laboratories.

American women are eager to buy silk stockings, but they are fairly panting for the day when they can clothe their legs in nylon. The du Pont chemists did a ten thousand times more effective job of hurting Japan's export trade than all of the boycotts that were organized in the pre-war period. The whole field of synthetic fiber is new and in the post-war period silk, in all its uses, must either face a tremendously diminished market or a reduction of prices that may make silk production unprofitable even with the cheap labor of Japan.

The American synthetic rubber program is one of the great technological miracles of all time. The battle to displace natural rubber has not been completely won, but there is very sound reason to believe that it will be won in time. The original synthetic rubbers were specialized substances which displaced plantation rubber because they had superior qualities in the uses for which they were intended.

The great bulk of America's rubber imports went into one product, automobile tires. The synthetics are not yet as good as natural rubber for this purpose, but the rubber planter, unlike the chemist, has to be satisfied with the product as nature makes it. He can breed his trees for greater production, but he cannot change the chemical characteristics of the rubber to any appreciable extent.

Synthetic rubber was made possible by a study of molecules and arrangements of molecules which gave the particular properties that the investigators were looking for. Miracles have been accomplished in this field and there is every reason to believe that as the technology is refined further miracles will be brought forward.

The American synthetic rubber industry, if it is not destroyed at the end of the war as a sacrifice to some form of global fanaticism or as a favor to the rubber barons of Malaya and the Netherlands Indies, will eventually produce a better rubber for tires and may also produce it more cheaply than it can be produced on plantations. Nobody knows today what plantation rubber will cost after the arduous task of rebuilding the plantations recovered from the Japanese. It is not improbable that the oppressed peoples who have worked those plantations in the past may emerge from the war with a new political consciousness and with demands for a higher standard of living, which will make it impossible ever to repeat the low production costs of the pre-war period.

The Netherlands Indies before the war had a virtual world monopoly on quinine, altho the cinchona was, as its early name of Peruvian bark indicated, originally an American plant. Attempts to synthesize quinine have been made for more than a century. The fight was finally successful this year. The problems of transferring a laboratory process into one that can be operated in a factory must still be met, but quinine can be chalked up as another natural product that has seen its best days.

The world in the past has paid the price for tin set by a British and Dutch world monopoly. Tin ores from all over the world were carried to Great Britain to be smelted. It was only after some very peculiar maneuvers by the tin monopoly had been overcome that a tin smelter was built in this country as a war measure. About 30 per cent of the world's tin comes from Bolivia, outside the troubled and distant areas from which, as the present war has shown, the United States has precarious hopes of supply in time of war.

If our state department would follow a rational policy in dealing with the Bolivian government and call off Henry Wallace and the other crackpots who have indulged in unconscionable, and to the Bolivians unbearable, interference in the domestic affairs of that country, Bolivia might very well be weaned away from the international tin monopoly, and as a partner of the United States enable this country to break the monopoly prices that have gouged American tin users.

The restoration after the war of the economic patterns of the pre-war world is patently impossible. The new products that have been developed under the stimulus of war necessity will not be abandoned when peace comes. America is fortunate that they will not be. The greater its self-sufficiency, the less dependent it will be upon the cartels of the European proprietors of Asiatic territory and thus the less likely to be drawn into future war by their intrigues.

SPOKEN LIKE A MAN.

Sen. Moore of Oklahoma told the nation in a radio speech Saturday evening that the Montgomery Ward seizure, without basis in the constitutional, statutory or inherent power of either the President or the commander in chief, "was an unparalleled act of tyranny."

The best proof of Sen. Moore's charge is in the words and acts of Atty. Gen. Biddle. The attorney general, when called to account for the President's action, could produce no clear statutory or constitutional justification for it. He had to appeal to a mystical "aggregate of powers" in time of war.

In the brief that Mr. Biddle presented to the federal court in Chicago Sen. Moore found the real legal argument of the New Dealers. "In time of war," the attorney general of the United States there asserted, "the courts should not substitute their judgment for that of the President, or review his determination as to the gravity of the emergency or the necessity of taking over the particular property."

There is a more concise and notorious statement of the same principle. It is: "The law is the emanation of the Fuehrer's will."

What happened at Montgomery Ward had nothing to do with the labor dispute there. There was statutory power for action toward settlement of the labor dispute, the very law under which action was taken after Mr. Roosevelt realized the political blunder into which he had been led by arrogance and egotism. The President's attempt to belittle alarm over the incident as "looking under the bed" could, as Sen. Moore said, reassure no one who recognized the significance of his action.

"Perhaps," said Sen. Moore, "it is the shadow of piled bayonets in secret places that has struck terror in our hearts and opened our eyes to the tyranny that threatens us. The Montgomery Ward incident is a challenge to every thinking American who can read the signs of the times: 'It did happen here.' It is later than we think."

Sen. Moore is a recent adherent to the Republican party. He gave up lifelong allegiance to the Democratic party because he realized that the New Dealers had from the beginning renounced allegiance to principles of that party. As a southern Democrat he can plead with complete truth that he did not leave his party until long after the party had left him.

In his stout rebuke to the tyranny represented in the Ward case Sen. Moore has spoken like a man. He has set an example that the Republicans must follow in their convention if they expect their present hopes of victory to prosper.

The temptation to trim is always present in politics. The closer a contest promises to be, the more are timid men tempted to relax principles in order to attract doubtful votes. What the trimmers fail to realize, always, is that by the sacrifices made to attract one such vote they run the risk of alienating 10 of their resolute supporters.

If the Republican convention goes to the country with the plea that the party can "do it better than Roosevelt"; if it condones burocracy but promises efficient burocrats; if by either its platform or its candidate it abandons nationalism to ape the Roosevelt foreign policy, it will lose the election.

The voters who favor the Roosevelt policies, but would like to see them better executed, are going to vote for Roosevelt whatever the Republicans may promise. It is among the American citizens who detest the Roosevelt policies and properly fear that American republican government will perish if they are not stopped that the Republicans must seek victory.

THE ANSWER'S STILL GOOD.

We are indebted to Philip Kinsley of The Tribune staff, whose researches are about to bring forth a second volume of "The Chicago Tribune, Its First Hundred Years," for calling attention to the fact that today's issue of internationalism vs. nationalism in America is nothing new. In 1880, Mr. Kinsley reports, the London Spectator commented on American prosperity and said that America was doing nothing which involved self-sacrifice for the world, but was "practicing selfishness and isolation."

THE TRIBUNE of 1880 replied as follows:

"In other words because the United States is rich and powerful the Spectator would have it pause in its great work of feeding, sheltering, and educating the refugee oppressed of all nations, and start out, like another Don Quixote, upon a crusade for the settlement of political questions at issue between nations, to pull down this people and build up that, to get into all sorts of entangling alliances, and to reform everything that needs it. How would the Spectator like it if we undertook to reform Great Britain first in her persecution of weaker peoples?"

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which one of the following is not a money raising function?
   Silver Tea Box Social PTA Meeting Benefit
2. The American dead in the present World War II, number approximately 50,000 250,000 500,000 1,000,000
3. The dead on both sides in the Civil War totaled approximately 38,000 127,000 285,000 620,000
4. How long was it between Lee's surrender to Grant and the shooting of Abraham Lincoln?
   5 days 5 weeks 5 months 15 months
5. Which one of these birds makes the most distinctive nest?
   Robin Wren Dove Oriole
6. Try to associate the words in the left hand column with the correct items in the opposite column. They are all synonyms for the idea of a "group," but popularly have specific connotations. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.
   [a] A swarm of [v] Smelt
   [b] A school of [w] Partridges
   [c] A run of [x] Whales
   [d] A bevy of [y] Bees
   [e] A covey of [z] Bathing beauties

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

FATHER OF THE DAY.

The father of Decoration day, Black Jack Logan, rides his bronze horse on a mound that commands the parade ground of Michigan avenue, but is seldom invited into the reviewing stand. He rates a salute today.

* * *

The roll call of his battles, which were many, should be found in bronze lettering around the base of this fine equestrian statue. But when we last climbed the mound, a few years ago, we observed that much of this lettering had been picked out by metal-stealing vandals. Black Jack has seen more undisciplined stragglers in his night watches over Grant park than he ever saw at Bull Run. Restoration of this metalwork would probably be in vain, since the oafs we have always with us; but the inscriptions should be made legible again, in incised lettering. There might even be a slight degree of haste in the matter.

* * *

In any new design, the inscription which reads, "Within this crypt the remains of the hero are buried" [quoted from memory, no doubt inaccurately], should be removed if possible. This statement is quite misleading for amateur historians. General Logan was buried in Washington. Why the plan that the inscription indicates was not carried out is one of the several mysteries of Grant park sculpture.

* * *

The change of this holiday's name from Decoration to Memorial day was started in 1882 by the Grand Army of the Republic. The older name was based on Logan's own words in a general order to the Grand Army in 1868—"for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades." It was a unique designation for a holiday that has no parallel in the world. Memorial is a much-worn word, but Decoration day was a new coin. It continues to live in the folk-speech because it is better than its substitute.

MEMORIAL DAY PRAYER.

O, Lord of Battles, hear our plea,
  Hear this, our prayer for those who lie
From Cairo to the Coral sea,
  In slumber 'neath an alien sky.

Give us the might, O Lord, to keep
  The Freedoms, that they bled for, bright;
That no alarm may mar their sleep;
  No restlessness invade their night.

Give us the fire, the one accord,
  The courage that they reveled in;
The strength, that we may hold, O Lord,
  The Peace they gave their lives to win.

Uncle Louie.

Old Fashioned Decoration Day.

To us kids Memorial day was always known as Decoration day. That was the day we first made our official visit to the family cemetery plot and redecorated the graves.

Since most cemeteries seemed to be almost in the next county, it meant a long street car ride. If it was on Pa's side, it even included a short train ride. All kids were assigned some item to carry. It would either be the lunch, blooming plants, sprinkling can, or small garden tools.

This was an all-day affair and it called for an ample amount of lunch, packed in granite pails. These pails, after being emptied of their contents, later served as beer buckets. Yes, adjacent to every cemetery was the eternal saloon.

How bright the sunshine as it shone thru the new spring green trees! How cool and inviting the shade as we sat behind the oversized tombstone, munching on two-fisted sandwiches with such gusto that Ma exclaimed such eating was an insult even to the dead. The heat of the day melted the butter and mellowed the meat into a deliciousness which seemed to excel all cooking we ever knew at home. This created a somewhat salty taste, and the order of the day was pop for the kids and ladies; beer for the menfolks.

Circus elephants never had the thirst that these graves seemed to possess. Our arms and legs ached from dragging endless sprinkling cans of water. Our shoes, stockings, and knee pants were drenched. This gave us an excuse for draping our shoes and stockings to dry over the tombstones of others than those of our own relatives. How the new grass tickled and pricked our bare feet!

Ma was an expert at fixing graves, but to her the dirt three lots away always looked blacker and richer, so she would stroll to the neighboring graves and give them a few deserved caresses of the hand trowel, and as her reward for this deed she would come away with what she called "plant slips." They would range from a single, skinny, spineless root to almost a whole plant. Ma claimed that the exchange of "slips" really made things grow.

Alexander Beifuss.

FOR MAY 30.

I used to think of Decoration day
As reverently honoring those men
Who, in dim years that would not come again,
Died bravely in some fierce, forgotten fray.
Those hours of quiet beauty late in May,
With scent of lilacs, bubbling song of wren,
And echo of far bugles now and then
Gave none of us a reason for dismay.
But this is Nineteen Hundred Forty-Four
And all the world's caught in one lurid flame,
With none so brave as to foretell the score
And none to say our lives can be the same;
This Decoration day means something more
As war stakes out its new and dreadful claim.

Casual.

Forty Years Ago Today.

On Decoration day, 1904, Chicago's theatrical catalog ran like this:

"The Shogun," comic opera by George Ade and Gustave Luders, at the Studebaker; Lawrence D'Orsay in "The Earl of Pawtucket," at Powers'; Montgomery and Stone in "The Wizard of Oz," at the Grand Opera house; Anna Held in "Mlle. Napoleon," at the Illinois; "The Maid and the Mummy," at the Garrick; "The Royal Chef," at the La Salle; "The Silver Slipper," at McVicker's; "York State Folks," at the Great Northern; "The Two Orphans," at the Columbus, and vaudeville, with James J. Corbett as headliner, at the Chicago Opera house.

STRENGTH TO MEET PERSONAL DISASTER.

WHEN a friend remarks, "My heart is broken," he means that his mind is so clouded with despair that life scarcely seems worth while. It is true, however, that the sudden loss of a loved one, or an overwhelming personal catastrophe, may bring on an upset which will actually lower vitality. "Soul sick" is a comparable expression. The milder term, "my heart aches" signifies grief which may be prolonged.

We know full well that the onset of coronary disease may be preceded by excitement or mental shock. This does not signify that the blocking of one of the vessels which supplies the cardiac structure would not have taken place at a later date. But the "accident" may be hastened by emotional distress.

No one of us—by any act of will—can stop breathing. Neither can an individual injure his arteries by wishing to do so. On the other hand, he can adopt a mode of life, maintain himself in a state of jitters so consistently, that the circulation will be damaged.

It behooves every one of us to understand that the muscle of the pumping organ can be profoundly influenced by the state of the nervous system. Spasm of a coronary pathway, more often than not, will be accompanied by intense pain [angina pectoris]. If the episode continues long enough a plug may form in the conduit which will shut off nutriment to this vital organ.

It was John Hunter, the famous English scientist, who remarked: "My life is at the mercy of any rascal who chooses to tease or annoy me." He had been suffering from "breast pang" [angina] and he realized that if one of the arterial "cramps" persisted, he would be in trouble. The body's pump can literally starve for lack of blood.

Bad news, then, becomes a possible source of disaster for those with antecedent impairment of important channels, those feeding the heart. Effort, the result of unusual exertion, demands more blood. In like fashion, the heights of elation may be accompanied by an increased number of beats per minute. Even tho pain has not been observed previously, its onset may eventually coincide with a psychic strain. In a study involving 100 cases of this sort, 12 were found to follow extreme agitation. Forewarned is forearmed.

The thoughts of every household revolve around one or more sons or daughters somewhere with our fighting forces. Perhaps it would be well if every one could cultivate a type of philosophy and resignation which will soften the blow, should it come. Considerable help may be offered by the family physician who, thru the use of certain remedies, can protect and safeguard the circulation. Furthermore, sedatives may be employed with discretion. We are not made of steel. On the contrary, our sensibilities may be wounded easily. But we can school ourselves so that resistance will be high enough to counteract every calamity.

There are many compensations that can be kept in mind. America as a nation has frightful responsibilities and we want to carry our full share. The pity of it all is that the burden must be borne by our youth; those who are on the threshold of life. There would be no wars if all participants were required to be 60 years of age or over. Statesmen may vote the declaration, but only youth can wage, win, and end international conflicts.

We can adhere steadfastly to the belief that this will be the last horrible nightmare of carnage. World Wars I. and II. stemmed from the "foul brood" of European politics, which our forefathers abandoned to create this nation.

MEATY.

Mrs. L. S. writes: A says liver is meat but B claims only the flesh can be called meat. Who is right?

REPLY.

To many persons, various organs such as liver, heart, brains, pancreas, and kidneys, are looked upon as delicacies. All are glandular except the heart, which is composed of muscle fibers, and is as rich in protein as is sirloin steak. Actually, "meat" means anything that is nourishing. Colloquially, it refers specifically to beef, pork, lamb, etc., as distinguished from fowl, entrails, etc.

FOOD ELEMENTS.

J. K. writes: What percentage of carbohydrates, fats, and proteins should a well balanced meal consist of?

REPLY.

Height, weight, age, weather, and the type of work must be taken into consideration. In general, 60 per cent of the total may be in carbohydrates; fats, 25 per cent, and proteins, 15 per cent.

CHEMICAL EXPLOSION?

B. J. writes: I have heard that if bananas and whisky are mixed, that it will prove fatal. I would like to know why.

REPLY.

Correct—if enough are taken. In ordinary doses, no.

TRY SMILING.

F. L. writes: Does too much crying harm the eyes?

REPLY.

Likely to irritate the conjunctiva. The ensuing redness may last for hours.

Thoughts of a Painter's Model.

It's passing strange how I am seen
By Anne and Margaret and Pauline.
My features do not seem to strike
Those gifted girls at all alike.
To Anne I'm wan, elusive, fair,
With wistful Laurencinish air,
Sophisticated, neat, and trim,
And, O, so flatteringly slim!

But in Pauline's and Margaret's eyes
I find I look quite otherwise.
A thoughtful woman and mature,
With solid virtues that endure
Tho rosy cheek and coral lip
Have given me, with time, the slip,
And life and love and joy and trouble
Have left my chin distinctly double.

By Anne and Margaret and Pauline
I am, indeed, diversely seen,
But all have flattered me, alas,
Compared with my own looking glass.

MARGARET AYER BARNES.

Welcome, Stranger.

The story comes from E. H. Llewellyn. He was passing thru the busy Wilson Avenue station when he noticed the well dressed young woman sitting on a bench with a tiny baby, peacefully asleep, beside her. He paused to look at the baby and commented to the mother on how calmly she slept, how pretty she was.

The mother looked up with that glow of pride and wonder that tells one something good is about to happen. She said the baby's father had just called from the railroad station that he was on his way out, and that she had thought little Ann would like to meet him for the first time.

Just then she jumped up and rushed to meet a soldier. Then quickly she led him to the bench. "Look, dear," she said. "This is little Ann. Isn't she beautiful?"

The soldier removed his cap, placed it on the bench beside the baby, knelt down beside her and gently kissed her on the cheek several times. Then, his eyes flooded with tears, he looked up at his wife.

After a minute's pause he cautiously, tenderly picked up the baby. "Let's take her home," he said, and turned to walk out. On the floor, forgotten, lay his bag and cap. His wife picked them up, and all three passed out of the station into the night. They were going home together for the first time.

Spring Madness.

M'Lord and I went walking on a little side street. On the side of an old brick building was scrawled, at third grade height, "Bobby loves Mary." Two days later Mary had been scratched out and Dorothy substituted, and last night, to our amusement, Dorothy had given way to Frances.

M'Lord says it is the spring. I think it might be masculine frailty. We agree that it is typical.

Bus Conversations Again.

From Alberita Semrad comes the conversation of two lady shoppers:

"I had a bum day yesterday."

"So did I. Everywhere I looked, I didn't find something."

"Yeah, that's the way it goes."

Qualification.

We understand a gentleman on the south side who is connected with the University of Chicago locked his car keys inside his automobile the other day. It automatically qualified him for membership in the university senate.

Sailors on Horseback.

The two sailors riding along the Lincoln park bridle path were astride ancient nags still in their winter coats who looked as tho they could feel at home only in front of a plow. One sailor was about 30 feet ahead of his mate and was pulling up to wait when suddenly his horse kneeled, rolled, and lay on its side, the sailor barely managing to disentangle himself in time. The second sailor was convulsed with laughter. His guffaws rang thru the park. The first remounted, started north at a sharp canter, and soon left his companion far behind. Vainly he tried to turn the horse, but it headed always north. A motorist followed it for two miles and gave up. For all we know he may have ridden right up to Great Lakes.

A NATION OF MINORITIES.

Chicago, May 22.—From this distance and because of the haze which surrounds him and his external relations, it is impossible to judge what Joseph Stalin had in mind when he invited the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, a parish priest of Springfield, Mass., and Dr. Oscar Lange, a Chicago professor, to confer with him in Moscow on Russian-Polish relations. We in America, who are neighbors of Father Orlemanski and Dr. Lange, can only view the conferences as they bear upon us and upon official American relations with Stalin's mystic Russia.

Both Americans have emphasized that they made their unprecedented visits as "American citizens" at the request of Stalin. But the personal mission of each had nothing whatever to do with citizenship in the United States. By their personal officiousness, these two so-called Americans have intervened in relations which belong in the state department, not in the hands of private citizens. They have put minority interests above the majority interests of their fellow citizens.

The state department seems not to have objected to this personal intervention in affairs which are extremely touchy and deserve nothing less than official handling. But the state department has shown itself willing in other circumstances to allow citizens to act unilaterally in foreign affairs—even arranged for an army bomber in war time to transport one American meddler to foreign parts. The state department's leniency, however, should not obscure the fact that in many other countries—in pre-war Poland for example—Father Orlemanski and Dr. Lange would doubtless have been arrested for parading their minority interests under the protection of the majority, or at least would have been relieved of the citizenship which they wear so lightly. In Russia, where they went for the conferences, they probably would have wound up in a concentration camp or been listed for the next purge.

It is a shocking commentary on Americanism that the reading public appears to see nothing amiss in this minority peddling under the Stars and Stripes. The United States has become a multiflag nation. We have listened for years to campaign spellbinders who make one speech in the Irish district and another to the Poles or the Germans. We are accustomed to the division of American citizenry into Catholics and Jews, Norwegians and Lithuanians, union members and executive club members—a thousand and one minorities which split the body politic so that any candidate, given the necessary unction to please many groups, may take us on eternally rocky rides.

And then we wonder why we get mixed up in the wars of other peoples—and have no American unity at home that may be depended upon for truly American objectives!

INGENIOUS.

A VETERAN ON STRIKES.

Chicago, May 25.—I am speaking for myself, a vet of this war. In the army we were given to understand that the nation was 100 per cent behind us. It wasn't until I received my honorable discharge and came back into civilian life that I realized what a farce that story was.

Every one knows how important plasma is to the man wounded on any of the fronts, yet Parke-Davis employes go on strike and stop the manufacture and supply of this vital plasma without ever stopping and giving a thought as to what they are doing.

Unions must have a closed shop, regardless of whether it means that by striking they are preventing some vital material to reach our forces overseas.

This is a free country—or is it? You can't work in a factory of your own choosing unless you pay tribute to a union, whose officials need never worry about losing a leg, or arm, or their lives, fighting for our country because they can't be antagonized by being sent their "greetings" as you or I.

How encouraging all this must be to a man in service home on furlough or one just entering the service!

J. G. S.

WASTEFUL LOAF.

Chicago, May 26.—May I add my voice, insignificant tho it may sound to the OPA, in support of "E. V." who asks for a "one man loaf" of bread.

With "conserve"—"do not waste"—"save"—"buy no more than you need," etc., being blared out by millions of radios in millions of little homes, I diligently attempted to utilize each slice of the 6 cent small loaf of bread in sandwiches, French toast, bread pudding, bread dressing, breads sauted, and, on occasion, just plain bread and butter. I didn't succeed too well all the time, but I had no twinges of conscience as one or two slices and the heel had to be disposed of unused on several occasions.

But now the enterprising bakers have me stumped with their larger 8 cent "small" loaf of bread. How can I still continue to be patriotic? No matter how voraciously and consistently I dine on the "staff of life," stale or moldy "half loaves" find their way into my refuse can.

OLD AGE PENSIONS AND BENEFITS.

Chicago, May 15.—[1] At what age can a person claim an old age pension in the state of Illinois? [2] Does receiving old age benefits hamper receiving an old age pension in any way?

E. F. C.

1. The act grants old age assistance to citizens 65 years old who have resided in Illinois five years of the preceding nine years, the last year being continuous; who are not supported by public institutions, have no children able to support them and have not purchased full care in private institutions. Assistance will not exceed $40 per month. If the applicant has a private income, the pension is scaled down proportionately. Funeral expenses up to $100 are payable where the estate proves insufficient.

2. Yes, in the sense that the old age assistance is based on proof of need and the money that you receive from other sources would tend to decrease your need.

SALVADOR ASKS FREEDOM; NEW DEAL GIVES CASH

State's Currency Backed 100% with Gold.

[This is the tenth article in a series by a Tribune reporter who has returned from a tour of Latin America.]

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

The reaction of inhabitants of El Salvador to New Deal spending in their tiny but progressive country is consistent with their characteristics of thrift and independence.

"No queremos su pan, quermos que no ayuden a salvar nuestra alma," they epitomize in Spanish, by which they mean they do not want our money but desire us to help them attain political freedom.

They don't need financial help; their national financial position actually is better than ours. They have had a favorable trade balance —exports in excess of imports—of $10,000,000 or more annually in the last two years. Their currency notes are backed 100 per cent by gold reserves.

New Deal Contradiction.

Salvadorans with whom I talked on a recent visit to their little coffee-famous republic evinced perplexity over what they considered the New Deal's contradictory diplomacy. They referred to the policy of pouring "good neighbor" money into their state to win their good will at the same time we supported their dictator-president, a martinet who deprived them of their constitutional rights during approximately the same years the New Deal has been in power here.

They said that on the basis of our spending alone we strengthened the dictatorial regime of President M. H. Martinez, under whose rule—recently ended by his resignation—they had no popular elections in 13 years.

Aside from direct American investments of many million dollars in El Salvador, the aid given by the United States to this smallest country in the western hemisphere amounts to upward of $4,000,000. Half of this sum is a loan to finance the construction of El Salvador's section of the Pan-American highway. The balance is in credit and gifts.

Takes Coffee Output.

In addition to these, the United States buys 90 per cent of El Salvador's coffee—its principal crop—at prices sufficiently high for El Salvador to have been enabled to establish a "coffee stabilization fund" of 9 million colones—$3,600,000.

Sen. Hugh Butler of Nebraska, who toured Latin America in an investigation of our vast spending there in pursuit of the good neighbor policy, reported to congress several weeks ago on our financial aid of more than $1,750,000 to El Salvador. This sum included credit extended by the Export-Import bank and outright gifts for sanitation, agriculture, education and other programs.

"Thoughtful people of Latin America do not like what we are doing any better than the American people, if they knew, would like it," Butler told congress. "Latin Americans are neither suppliants nor paupers; they do not want handouts. They want to make their own way. What they want from us is our coöperation. They want our leadership and example, not in what we can do for them, but as to how we have been able to do so well by ourselves."

Most Densely Populated.

El Salvador is a picturesque little country only 140 miles long and 60 miles wide, about as large as Maryland. It not only is the smallest state but the most densely populated in the western hemisphere. The population of slightly less than 2,000,000 lives on 13,176 square miles —an average of more than 132 to the square mile, compared with 44 to the square mile in the United States. This is an unusually heavy average for an agricultural country, and 80 per cent of El Salvador is under cultivation.

It is the only country in Central America which has no Atlantic seaboard. Slight earthquakes frequently jar it, and it is volcanic politically as well as geographically. In the mountains rising sharply from the sea-level plains is Central America's most active volcano, Izalco, the lighthouse of the Pacific.

The people are of a definite type evolved from a thoro mixing of original Spanish and native Indian and are distinct from their neighbors. They are healthy, energetic workers who have become noted for their industry and thrift, probably because they must work hard to conserve their production to overcome the natural disadvantages of their country.

Export to Neighbors.

Altho Salvadorans do not have the lush growth of vegetation, better climate, greater areas and wider variety of terrain enjoyed by nearby nations, they compel their poor soil and arid growing season to produce not only sufficient food for themselves but enough to export to their less provident neighbors. Consequently, they have a generally higher living standard than most of the other Central American countries.

Even their revolutions, of which their history has been filled, must await off season times between their farm work. The time of the recent unsuccessful attempt to oust Dictator Martinez had been accurately forecast several months previously because it was known Salvadorans would not interrupt seasonal duties.

Altho the provocation for the uprising took place in January, the people then had to attend to their coffee harvesting, and in March had to plant their bean crop to assure maturity of this winter staple before the May rainy season. So April—while the beans grow—was their most suitable time to leave their fields to try to clean up politics. The revolt came in the first week in April.

Sells $17,600,000 in Coffee.

The republic's economy is dominated by its coffee growing, but other crops, including sugar and beans, are important. Unlike some states which depend upon exporting a single crop to purchase food in foreign markets, El Salvador grows more food than the people can eat.

The third greatest coffee grower in the world, El Salvador exported $14,651,000 worth of that crop in 1942, and $17,600,000 worth in 1943. Besides coffee, the country exports sugar, uncured hides, a little gold, and the medicinal gum, balsam, being the only country in the world producing the so-called "balsam of Peru," a misnomer.

The exceptionally sound financial position is indicated by its profitable trade balance and full gold backing of note issues. In 1942 El Salvador's exports were $18,464,000 and her imports only $8,571,000. And last year it did even better for it exported $23,000,000 worth of goods and held its purchases down to about the 1942 figure.

Fifty per cent of the value of El Salvador's currency is backed by gold held at home and the remainder by gold stored in the United States.

Thus the Salvadoran recipients of New Deal largess have considerably more backing for their currency notes than do the American taxpayers.

9 CIO WORKERS STRIKE AND TIE UP WAR STEEL

Production of heavy roll plate steel used in the construction of aircraft carriers and amphibious landing craft was halted yesterday at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's south works in South Chicago when nine members of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO], employed as crane hookers, walked out in protest against delay by the war labor board in handling a proposed summer pay plan. The strike was the 39th in the company's Chicago area plants since the beginning of the year.

The strike, by members of three shifts, caused production loss of 600 tons of plate and made 468 other workers idle.

Plan Submitted to WLB in March.

The men who struck hook plate material to overhead cranes. A crew of two ordinarily handled the work, a company spokesman said, but during the summer months an additional man is hired.

Approval of a pay plan involving the third man was the cause of the strike, the company said, adding that the wage schedule approved by both management and union had been submitted to the WLB on March 10.

A charge by union officials that the plant had refused to utilize members made idle by the strike and had ordered them to go home was denied by company spokesmen. The company contended the workers have recourse thru grievance machinery set up by their union and have again violated their reaffirmed no-strike pledge.

The workers on the day shift who first struck are Wheeler Wilson, 3415 E. 90th st.; Wendell Walker, 540 Browning av., and J. C. Brooks, 4220 Prairie av. They were followed at 3 p. m. by Henry Williams, 4156 Calumet av.; Joseph Snead, 9026 Green Bay av., and William Rhea, 12 E. 58th st. All six are Negroes. At 11 p. m. three more crane hookers struck.

40 Strikers Ordered Back.

Forty crane operators employed by the American Transportation company plant in East Chicago, Ind., who have been on strike since Saturday were ordered to return tomorrow or face dismissal. Lester Thornton, subdistrict director for the United Steel Workers said he had ordered the members to comply with the company's orders, sent by registered mail.

The walkout was called in protest against the delay of the war labor board in reaching a decision on the operators' demand for a 5½ cents an hour increase.

Thirty-five employes of the Verson All-Steel Press company, 1355 E. 93d st., walked off the job last midnight because the war labor board prohibited the company from paying them double time for Memorial day. David C. Verson, president, said the remaining 10 0emploYes were keeping up production of war machine tools.

2 CICERO TOWN OFFICIALS OUT ON COURT ORDER

Two Cicero officials appointed by the recently elected Republican majority of the town board were removed yesterday in judgments of ouster issued by Judge John C. Lewe in Superior court.

Joseph Kral.

Joseph Kral, superintendent of police, and Eric Anderson, commissioner of public works, were ordered ousted from office in quo warranto proceedings which had been filed by State's Atty. Courtney.

Jacob Shamberg, special assistant state's attorney who was assigned to the case, contended that the powers of appointing the two officials rested in the town president, Henry Sandusky, a Democrat, rather than in the town board.

Sandusky was in court and said that Michael Jelinek, a former commissioner of public works who was replaced by the Republican board elected last month, will be reassigned to this office in place of Anderson. He said the police department will be in charge of a captain until he appoints a successor for Kral.

MARITIME OFFICE OPEN TODAY.

The United States maritime service, now recruiting merchant seamen, announced that its office at 844 Rush st. would be open today, Memorial day.

Brookfield Baby Antelope Goes for First Stroll

The newest baby in the Brookfield zoo — a little fellow wearing a brown coat flecked with white and having long wobbly legs — took his first stroll yesterday in the bright sunlight. He is a rare sitatunga antelope whose ancestors are native of the swamplands of Central Africa. Altho this antelope is rarely found in zoos, Assistant Director Robert Bean reported Brookfield now has five, all born there. The newcomer arrived Sunday.

This week the Army Air Transport Command celebrates its Third Anniversary

Under that Command TWA's Intercontinental Division has helped put transworld flying on a scheduled basis— linking five continents, 24 countries—with more than 3,700 ocean flights covering more than 15,000,000 miles of night and day flying.

Flying for the Army Air Transport Command, members of TWA's Intercontinental Division wear these insignia. They identify airline civilians in uniform who have carried their peacetime experience and skill into vital war transportation.

Pilot's wings

2 YEARS WITH INTERCONTINENTAL DIVISION

Rommel was pushing the Allies before him in Libya when the first TWA Stratoliner winged its way from Washington to Africa on February 27, 1942. Since then, 15,411,479 miles have been flown and 3,795 ocean flights have been completed—2,207 representing North and South Atlantic crossings, the remaining 1,588 special flights to other parts of the world.

The only domestic airline to operate 4-engine transports before the war, TWA, through its Intercontinental Division, was also the first to engage in overseas service after Pearl Harbor. Passengers carried by TWA crews compose a world's "Who's Who," including Presidents, Generals, Cabinet Members, Admirals, Kings, Queens, Ambassadors.

Two and a quarter years ago — on February 26, 1942 — the Intercontinental Division of TWA made its first flight across the Atlantic under contract to the Air Transport Command of the United States Army Air Forces.

We believe it is fitting here to express our recognition of the job these men have done and also our appreciation to the personnel of the Air Transport Command for their cooperation.

The men who accomplished this job fly and work as civilians, serving the armed forces, though they proudly wear a special uniform all their own.

Starting operations with men and equipment drawn from TWA's domestic operation, the Intercontinental Division has made more than 3,700 ocean flights, and flown more than 15,000,000 miles with a record of regularity equal to that of any domestic peacetime airline. It is now flying more than a million miles a month.

These men have set a record which will be a source of pride to them, their industry and the nation they serve.

Every day and night they fly the war-torn skies of the world on regular schedule. Only a small percentage of flights are cancelled. Over the North Atlantic, for example, they completed 91% of all scheduled flights in December, and 98% in January. This compares favorably with the regularity and dependability of normal domestic peacetime airline operation.

They have spanned the oceans, linked the farthest continents, carried most of the world's greatest personalities to historic destinations — but to them it is "Operations Routine."

Unarmed themselves, they have encountered armed enemies — yet carried on.

Although civilians, trained for years in the peaceful art of domestic commercial flying, they too have had their planes riddled by gunfire — and got them through.

This important and faithful work of pilots, crew members, ground personnel and supervisors has helped to give America and her Allies a dependable world-wide airline operation that serves the armed forces wherever they go, and offers tremendous promise for the future of the peaceful world to come.

To these Americans who have quietly carried on a great and historic project, we say:

"Congratulations — and thanks for a job well done!"

TWA POINTS THE WAY

LIFE IN THE ICD Actual incidents from the record of 27 months of active flying

SUBMARINE SPOTTING IS EFFECTIVE—"Submarine spotting alone has more than justified the existence of TWA's Intercontinental Division," it has been said. The Navy, too, has warm praise for this valuable supplement to its own Anti-Submarine Patrol. A typical incident: "About 1½ miles after we passed over two freighters in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, a submarine broke surface, then quickly submerged. We circled the ships for 38 minutes, informing them of its location; also radioed headquarters in Newfoundland. Later, we learned that the submarine had been successfully attacked."

SOMETIMES A SHELL OR TWO—A Stratoliner, flying over the North Atlantic, was attacked by anti-aircraft fire from a surface ship. "Loud gunfire was heard outside the plane," reads the crew report. "We made a violent turn to the right, pulled up into the overcast . . . tracer bullets were seen coming up between the engine and cockpit . . . the flight engineer found that one shell, evidently a 20-mm. explosive shell, had passed through the bottom of the ship exploding as it emerged from the skin on the upper side." Later inspection revealed 76 holes in the surface. No one was injured.

CARGO THE BOYS WANT MOST—TWA's Intercontinental Division was one of the first to carry air mail to the boys overseas. In the cargo of the Stratoliner which inaugurated the Division on February 26, 1942, were letters for many a homesick serviceman. Every ICD plane since then has carried air mail. ICD planes were also among the first to carry V-mail—that great saver of shipping space which reduces 1,800 letters to 100 feet of 16-mm. film for enlargement again at destination. In this form more than 34,000,000 V-mail letters are flown overseas every week.

RESCUE AFTER MANY MONTHS—Flying westbound a Stratoliner spotted an armed merchantman frozen fast in a large ice floe. "Observed some of crew in the forecastle head," reports TWA Captain. "Signaled, then proceeded to base where we off-loaded cargo. Took on authorities and flew back to ship. This time noticed some of the crew with bandages on arms and legs. Returned again to base. Ship later identified as British merchantman chased by subs from convoy enroute to Russia. Had been in ice floe several months—no fuel, little food, with seal meat as partial diet. Ship and survivors were rescued."

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social service of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. S. R. writes: "Since my husband has been overseas he has been sending voluntary allotments of $30 a month to a relative of his. She is not in need of it. Have I the authority to have this changed so I would receive it? I am receiving the regular family allowance of $50 a month."

ANSWER: Your husband has the right to request that a certain amount of money be deducted from his salary and sent to a dependent. There is no government contribution to a voluntary class "E" allotment of pay, and the soldier is the only person who has any authority to discontinue or otherwise change the disposal of his own funds.

Mrs. J. T. writes: "Can you tell me if a divorced wife of a service man is eligible for a family allowance? If so, will it be just the amount which the court ordered or the regular allowance for a wife?"

ANSWER: Under the conditions of the law, a divorced wife may be eligible for a family allowance only if alimony is ordered for her in the divorce decree and if she has not remarried. In such a case, the family allowance will not exceed the amount of alimony prescribed or $42 a month, whichever is smaller.

K. C. writes. "My fiance has been stationed in Hawaii for 16 months. He has written suggesting that we be married by telephone or cable, since he feels it would be more likely that I could obtain work over there if I were his wife. Can you give me any information on this?"

ANSWER: If you are a resident of this state, it would not be possible for your fiance to marry you via telephone or cable. Such marriages are not recognized in Illinois.

'Danger List' ..... By Christianna Brand

(Copyright: 1944: By Mary Christianna Lewis.)

SYNOPSIS: Joseph Higgins, postman, delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park military hospital, from Dr. Gervase Eden, Jane Woods, Esther Sanson, Dr. Moon, Dr. Barnes, Frederica Linley and Nurse Marion Bates. Within a year, one of the writers of these letters will die, a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates. It's love at first sight when Dr. Barnes sees Frederica. During an air raid, Esther remains on duty to help Frederica. Joseph Higgins is brought in with a fractured femur, and Esther looks after him. A second victim arrives. During a lull, Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Freddi. He is followed by Dr. Eden, who kisses her. Sister Bates, finding him in the booth, creates a scene. To protect Freddi, Woods lures Gervase into a flirtation. Esther takes Higgins to the operating theater. Dr. Barnes gives the anesthetic, under which Higgins dies. The night Higgins was admitted to the hospital, a masked figure took the keys to the operating theater from its hook. Inspector Cockrill asks Dr. Barnes to demonstrate his anesthetizing apparatus. At a hospital party, Sister Bates declares she has proof of the murder and goes to the operating theater to get it. She is found there, by Woods, murdered. Inspector Cockrill summons six persons—Dr. Moon, Dr. Eden, and Dr. Barnes; Woods, Freddi and Esther. None has an alibi. The murderer took two grains of morphia from the poison cupboard. All six have some morphia tablets. As Cockrill outlines his idea of the killing, Esther becomes hysterical. Next morning, before reporting for duty, Esther closes the window to keep the room warm for Freddi, who is unable to open it. Esther returns to find the cottage filled with gas and Freddi overcome.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

WOODS QUESTIONED.

The window had finally been got open and most of the fumes had blown away from the little room. "The tap of the gas fire was turned on," said Cockrill. "The fire wasn't lit, and of course the gas was pouring into the room. I wonder how the tap can be turned on?"

"Not by accident, for a start," said Woody decidedly. "That tap was always frightfully stiff, nobody could have pushed it on with his foot by mistake!"

"Exactly," said Cockie.

"I came up just before we left the house," went on Woody; "and it certainly wasn't on then, because the gas had only just petered out downstairs, and if it had been on before that, there would have been a smell of gas which there wasn't. Esther came up a few minutes afterwards to close the window, only actually I'd already closed it, but she didn't know that; and she says there wasn't any smell either."

"You both seem very thoughtful of your friend," said Cockie.

"Under our mountainous exteriors, we have hearts of gold."

"O yes?" said Cockie, politely. He produced a little wooden object from his pocket. "I wonder what heart of gold it was that thought of wedging up the window with this, so that it wouldn't open."

Woods stared at it, electrified. "Do you mean to say that that was stuck in the window? It can't have been! It's one of our clothes pegs, out of the kitchen."

She took the peg from him and stood, leaning back against the dressing table, turning it over between her fingers, looking down at it as tho she could not believe her eyes. "I don't understand. This was jammed in the window . . . ? But why?"

"It would take a very long time to gas a person in a room with an open window," said Cockrill.

"It's too horrible . . . It's inconceivable! Are you telling me that somebody deliberately jammed up the window so that poor little Freddi would be gassed to death?"

He looked at her curiously. "You're so surprised? Yet you knew this was an attempt at murder; you said so yourself, just now."

"Well, I suppose I knew in my mind it was; but one can't sort of realize it, one doesn't really face it . . . But who could have done such a thing? Who put the shilling in the gas meter, for a start?"

"Well, as for that—you did, didn't you?" said Cockrill, still watching her.

"I?" I did?"

"Of course," said Cockie.

"But, Inspector . . ."

"Miss Woods,' said Cockrill, patiently; "let's get this straight. At twenty past seven this morning the gas died in your meter; we know that the tap up here was not turned on then, because there was no smell of gas. After that you came up to this room to put a hot water bottle in Miss Linley's bed, and you closed the window. Later Miss Sanson came up to close the window, but found it already shut. At half past seven you both left the house.

"At about ten to eight, Miss Linley came back and went to bed. She found that she couldn't open the window. That is to say that in the half hour between the time the gas ran out in the meter, and she came back to bed, somebody had jammed up the window; and it's only reasonable to assume that the same person had turned on the gas tap in here."

"But Freddi would have smelled the gas," protested Woods.

"No, she wouldn't," said Cockie. "There was no gas to smell; there was none coming thru the meter—yet.

"It's a very old dodge, of course. At a quarter to nine, by which time Miss Linley would be fast asleep after her heavy night's work you yourself were all scheduled to come across and make a cup of tea; and that necessitated . . .?"

"Putting a shilling in the meter," finished Woody obediently.

Cockrill finished his cigaret, and ground out the stub in Freddi's little ash tray. "Do you usually come over and make yourself tea?"

"Yes, I do," said Woody, at once. "I'm the operating theater V. A. D., as I suppose you know by now, and go on duty at half past seven like the others, and clean up and check the instruments, and all the rest of it; but operating doesn't begin till half past nine, in the ordinary way, so a bit before that I come over and make myself a cuppa, and have a cigaret and put up my feet for 20 minutes or so, before the dog fight. It's all quite fair and above board; everybody knows I do it."

"Everybody?" said Cockrill.

"Well, actually I meant the sisters and so forth; but now I come to think of it, everybody else did too. All the theater staff, I mean. . . . Maj. Moon and Barney, and Gervase—Maj. Eden, that is. I often walk back with them when they're going on duty after their breakfast. And of course Freddi and Esther; I don't know that anybody else knew."

"Well, those are the ones we're interested in, anyway, aren't they?" said Cockie smoothly.

"I suppose they are . . . nobody else could have known that Higgins was in the hospital; nobody else knew that Sister Bates had the 'proof' of the murder; and now there's this; and those five people knew that I should come across and make myself some tea. It can't be true—and yet it must be true. One of us—one of us! But Inspector, why? Why should any of us have done these things? I don't see who would want to. Who would want to kill Higgins, for a start? None of us had ever set eyes on him before. What was the connection? What was the sort of—the common denominator between these three? You don't think there could be a maniac involved, Inspector Cockrill?"

"No. I don't," said Cockie. "Maniacs don't plan murders; at least they plan deaths that will take place when they're not there to see. They like killing people; not just having them die."

"Well, then, all I can say is that it's utterly hideous," said Woody desperately. "You suggest that one of us, one of my friends, has killed, or tried to kill, three absolutely unrelated people, for no apparent reason."

"As far as Bates is concerned, we know that she was murdered because of what she could reveal about the original murder," suggested Cockrill, reasonably.

"Well, all right, but that doesn't explain this business of Frederica? What's the connection between her and Higgins?"

PRISONER SEEKS RELEASE; DENIES STATE HAS CLAIM

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed yesterday before Chief Justice Benjamin P. Epstein of the Criminal court seeking the release from Joliet prison of Ralph O. Lucas. Lucas was sentenced originally in 1929 to 1 to 14 years for forgery, was paroled in 1933, and returned for parole violation in 1938. The petition, filed by Atty. Robert Landau, charged that when Illinois paroled Lucas in 1933 it banished him from the state, thereby waiving any future claims against him. Judge Epstein continued the case to June 15. Lucas already has lost two habeas corpus appeals for freedom.

Judy Waller's Engagement to Lieutenant Told

BY JUDITH CASS.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WALLER JR. and their daughters, Virginia and Judy, are packing up for a trip to Florida, where the marriage of Miss Judy Waller to 2d Lt. Fred Farr Thatcher II. will take place within the next few weeks at Lt. Thatcher's post, Elgin field. Today Mr. and Mrs. Waller are announcing the engagement of their younger daughter, whose formal name is Lucia Hamilton, to the young officer, son of Mrs. L. S. Thatcher of Kansas City, Mo.

Miss Waller attended the Girls' Latin school and the Garrison Forest school in Maryland, foregoing a formal debut because of the war. Her fiancé attended Kansas City Junior college.

Missing the wedding will be the bride's two brothers, Lt. Col. William Waller III., stationed in England, and 1st Lt. Thatcher Waller, who is serving in Italy. Thatcher was Mrs. Waller's maiden name, altho she and her future son-in-law's family are not related. Recently the Waller family moved from their Banks st. home to 1430 Lake Shore dr.

Country Club News.

Now that the WAVES stationed at Great Lakes have turned one of their former dormitories, Baker cottage, back to the Exmoor club, the club is preparing to welcome a large colony of summer residents. Among those who will share the cottage and the pleasant rooms and apartments in the clubhouse for the summer months are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence L. Oakes, the William C. Hiltons, the Chase Smiths, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Cronkrite, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Salsman, Mr. and Mrs. Sims D. McGuire, the Perry Penningtons, the Arthur J. Bamfords, the Richard E. Horns, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Morrill, and the Thomas Mouldings.

The club will have its opening formal dinner-dance June 17. Over the last week-end, however, the grounds were humming with activity between a three day golf event and the start of the spring tennis tournament, which will continue today. The first ladies' golf day is set for June 6.

Golf Competitions Today.

The Onwentsia club has scheduled its popular informal buffet supper dances for June 8, 17, and 22, and July 1. Members of the Onwentsia and of the Shoreacres club, now taken over by Great Lakes as a naval recreation center, will be playing today for the president's cup, donated by Comdr. Lester Armour. Simultaneously with this event will be competition for the George Alexander McKinlock Jr. memorial cup, open to members who served in the first World war.

The Onwentsia and the Knollwood clubs' riders share some 80 miles of bridle paths leading thru several private estates, which are popular thorofares these days for equestrians. The urns circling the Knollwood's outdoor dancing platform were planted with flowers and the tables overhung with gay lights resembling illuminated balloons in time for the club's opening formal dinner-dance last Saturday. Memorial day activities at the club will be informal.

The Glen View and the Barrington Hills clubs opened with dinner-dances Saturday and will have informal family days, including golf and meals, today. The latter club held its first Tuesday ladies' day last week, while the Glen View's will start June 6. The Indian Hill will have its first dinner-dance of the season Saturday. Members will gather there today for men's golf and ladies' bridge.

Smart Coconut Straws Retain Topper Favor

BY REA SEEGER.

Summer coconut straw hats are in the shops, and that is one of the best indications that a good 90 days of sun and heat are ahead of us. For the last five years the pale brown coconut straws have been chosen by the smartest women as the ideal summer topper. They're here again in smart new sizes, shapes, and widths. There are any number of new crowns, and the neat little grosgrain ribbon binding and the band around the base of the crown are now offered in green, black, or navy as well as the usual blending brown shade.

Coconut straw hats made of this same flat super-cool looking straw beloved of all shoppers, but in a flattering pop-corn white, are novelties this season. Wide brimmed affairs look twice as expensive as they're marked. Some have the shadow brims that bend down over the eyes, others are straight, wide, and dashing in a true sailor outline, still others are small, pert, and ideal for summer suits. Even tho the brim is shallow it does shade the eyes. Because the price marks are so easy on a summer clothes allowance, these first arrivals vanish almost while you look, but a steady stream of new hats arrives each day.

Swanky tailored panamas, severely simple but not masculine, are unexpectedly low in price. It has been years since a fine smooth panama cost so little. The high fashion cloche model is new; so are the little brimmed suit hats with a gentle down curve to the brim, a comfortably fitted crown, and a snappy black ribbon bow band around the crown. Others more dress parade, but still correct for either printed silk or cotton summer suit, have wisps of flattering veiling held by attractive bows of ribbon in white, blue, or black.

Thru the Looking Glass

A cake makeup is the newest addition to a delightful family of makeup aids designed especially to give that soft, natural look that has, thank Heaven, replaced the highly stylized, exotic fever. And it's a honey. Not a bit theatrical, it's what you want if you belong to the vast army of women who'd rather be conservative than conspicuous.

It's in a neat, black plastic case with its name splashed across the top in turquoise script. There are three shades, and here again you find that conservatism has been the watchword. They are beautifully described as well-tempered versions of the complexion tints that can be fitted into the range of light, medium, and tan. A faint, perfectly natural, and completely flattering rosy undertone has been imparted to each shade with considerable skill.

The creators of this makeup have done their best to insure that it is nondrying, and that will be a big point in its favor. But it has the quality, invaluable in such a preparation, of endurance. It looks fresh for hours, whether or not you top it with a veiling of powder, and it never takes on that opaque, theatrical and, to our mind, somewhat distressing effect of a mask.

It's to be applied with a moist pad or piece of cotton and blended in smoothly over the face and the neck. This is important in this year of low necks. Bring your makeup down well below the neckline of your gown—and well up toward your hairline at the ears and temples, too. The film is most attractive, but you must be sure that there is no line of demarcation.

And also remember, with this as with every cake makeup, not to keep your moist pad, sponge, or piece of cotton in the container. It's not a healthy habit.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

"A Connecticut Yankee" is just as much fun as it ever was, maybe more. It came jousting into the Studebaker last night over a new drawbridge of admirals, ensigns, and WAVES, spanning the moat of 17 seasons with a good deal of skill and a surprising amount of decoration, considering that the production was too big for the stage and some of it was left in the alley. Mark Twain's tale of a Yankee who got tangled in time and became the wizard of King Arthur's court is still one of the droller reasons for a musical comedy book, and not even Richard Rodgers' shiny new "Oklahoma!" reputation can dim the luster of its beloved songs, "My Heart Stood Still" and "Thou Swell," which he wrote with his late partner, that wonder man of lyrics, Larry Hart.

"We knew we were sticking our necks out on the revival," says Mr. Rodgers, "and that the chances were everyone would say the old songs were better than the new, but Larry saved us by coming along with a grand new lyric." That would be "To Keep My Love Alive," a sadistic torch song with humor in its vitriol, the one written for Vivienne Segal with an eye to her stiletto smooth style and an ear to a voice that now wobbles a bit at the top, but is voluptuously happy in the range of the low and the low down. The last of the Rodgers to Hart to Segal songs, it's worthy of its predecessors.

Miss Segal plays a lady wolf who conks the ageless Jack Whiting over his still red head when he decides on their wedding eve that he would rather marry Mimi Berry. This changes them all from navy blue to the court of King Arthur, where Miss Segal is Queen Morgan La Fay, with red lips rampant on her insatiable crest and Miss Berry is the Demoiselle Alisande, the first to realize that Mr. Whiting is Sir Boss. If you remember your Twain, he gets that way by an anachronistic memory that recalls an impending eclipse just in time to make Merlin's magic look like an amateur at a magicians' convention. Before the sun returns to the beautiful morning stage, the Yankee is Sir Boss at 1 per cent of the net, and Camelot is on its way to manufacturing jeeps with an E award, while Sir Galahad croons at lunch time as demoiselles swoon and their cavaliers snort.

It's a lively job with first rate dialog admirably directed, and with witty costumes by Nat Karson to point up both dialog and score. Miss Segal is just what she has been ever since she came back as a comedienne who takes every night and matinés to howl. Mr. Whiting is new as the Yankee, and topnotch. He has a zest that makes more things than factories hum, and his baritone hasn't a crack in it. When he sings "Thou Swell" to pretty Mimi Berry, who knows how to listen, the song gets good treatment.

Little Anita Alvarez is brand new and amusing as the pouting dancer, having leaped to the rescue when Vera-Ellen was yanked off to Hollywood. She is tiny and nimble and astonishingly deft at lines, considering that this is the first speaking role of her life. Jere McMahon, her partner, is a handsome youngster who dances with flawless style, and ought to be a leading man his next time out. Nor will this review trundle off to the presses without a bow to Robert Chisholm for his adroit playing of a maligned King Arthur, to Robert Bryn for a seneschal in the right spirit, and to A. J. Herbert for his way of making merry with Merlin. It doesn't add up to "Oklahoma!" but it gives the town another good musical show.

Supervision Aids Child in Piano Practice

[Kenneth Heilbron Photo.]

Letters Tell Experience of Two Mothers

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Two letters I received about your child and his music may be worth your reading, in case you are having trouble with your child about practicing, provided you feel that your child's music is really important. The first is from a mother:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Your article in today's paper discussing the problem of how to interest a child in practicing his or her music lesson was of great interest to me. When I was a child, I was permitted to discontinue lessons when interest lagged, much to my regret later. So I determined to find some better way for my own youngsters.

"When the time came for them to begin piano lessons, I let them start in a class, which seems more normal for an 8 year old than individual teaching. For the home practice, I resolved to take the time to sit with them. Fifteen minutes is a long period for a little child to concentrate. By sitting with them, I was able to supervise their playing so that we detected any error of time, tone, or position at once, with the result that they progressed rapidly and pleasantly. For them, it eased the loneliness and the drudgery of practicing. I did this for the first two years. Later I would make it a point to sit in the room to sew or rest, during practice. Needless to say, there were no arguments or bickering, and no nervous strain. I might add that time for practice was never taken out of playtime.

"So while I am not a woman with a lot of spare time, I have always felt it a wise investment both of time and interest. My children love their music, and it plays a large part in their lives."

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Only yesterday I read your article about music lessons. This last article, I hope, will be read by all parents, as I, too, preach forever and ever: to give a little praise, when a student is trying so very hard to do his best.

"Let me tell you a story about a 10 year old girl who came to me to study piano. She had a terrible piano to try to learn on, to begin with. She lived in a four room apartment, with neighbors who probably had no liking for her practicing. To add to her difficulties, when her father came home at night, he would want to hear what progress she was making, and would complain and scold, until the poor child came to me with all her troubles. Her lesson usually was poorly prepared, and if I had not known the root of the evil I would have given her up. Instead, I went directly to the father, and talked about his daughter's music. Then, I learned the trouble was with the parents. No help and little praise. They seemed anxious to coöperate, and realized their daughter liked music, and was trying so very hard with a bad piano and bad neighbors, and, worst of all, no encouragement from parents. From then on everything changed. Praise was given, the child improved wonderfully, and for her coming birthday—a new piano. She plays beautifully today."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Mary Livermore.

It was long before the WACs, the WAVES, and the SPARS. It was long before the WOWS, the WICS, and the WINS, long before the army nurses' corps as now organized. It was an era of hoopskirts and tiny waists, of prim little caps and prim center parts, of trim, upstanding white collars in close-fitting necklines, an era of brooches and full sleeves and full, tender hearts. It was an era when recognition was slowly won . . . when a woman who achieved the degree of doctor of medicine was so unusual that Florence Nightingale sent her a word of congratulation!

Now there was a war—a great civil war. Women, as today, abruptly were catapulted from the snugness and quiet of their homes—and among them Mary Livermore, devoted daughter, devoted wife, devoted mother.

"She was only the standard American housewife, of the more up-and-coming type," writes Marjorie Barston Greenbie in her book "Lincoln's Daughters of Mercy." "What as a woman she would be able to do about the war she did not know. But she and many other women like her were to be taught what to do by the inexorable events now swiftly moving to their climax."

Twenty Years After.

Mary Livermore wrote a book of her experiences and called it "My Story of the War"—recalled, as she says in the preface, "Twenty-odd years after the bells rang in the long prayer for peace."

"For more than a dozen years, covering the entire period of the war," she writes, "I was associated with my husband in the editorship of his paper, published in Chicago. For its columns I wrote sketches of all events that were interesting or inspiring in connection with the Sanitary commission. Its readers were informed of every phase of its relief work and of its special calls for aid. And when I went to the hospitals on errands or made trips into the army in charge of sanitary stores for whose disbursement I was responsible, I always corresponded for the press."

From these records and other documents and diaries Mary Livermore, twenty years later, wrote her story of the war, prefacing it with J. Rodman Drake's, "Flag of the brave! thy folds shall fly, the sign of hope and triumph high . . ."

They Live Again.

There in the pages [you can find the book in our Chicago public library] live again the Ladies' Aid, and the sewing meeting, the Women's council, and the housewives who combatted scurvy in the army with potatoes and onions—small but effective groups of women from whom emanated the care and succor without which living men could not have lived and dying men could not have died in peace. There in the pages are "Mother Bickerdyke"—indomitable of will—Jane Hoge and Mary Safford, and all the rest, with their trim upstanding white collars in close-fitting necklines, their hoopskirts, their brooches, their full sleeves and their full, tender hearts.

Presbyterians Fear Tax Law's Effect on Gifts

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The average 10 per cent tax deduction for contributions in the new federal tax law was protested and "corrective legislation" to protect religious and charitable institutions was demanded yesterday at the 156th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, meeting in the Stevens hotel.

The assembly said that the 10 per cent deduction on incomes of $5,000 or less might "seriously impair the operation of the basic principles in the tax law which allows for a deduction of 15 per cent for religious and charitable gifts actually donated."

The Rev. Frederick W. Backemeyer of Gary, Ind., presented a resolution stating that the new tax law requires contributors to file application for refund of such tax collected on deductions in excess of 10 per cent.

Such complicated procedure, the resolution said, might cause individuals to reduce their contributions and jeopardize the church's income for benevolences.

Dr. Paul Calvin Payne, secretary to the board of Christian education, made a strong appeal for increased support for higher education. Pointing out that Presbyterians criticize colleges because of their failure to relate their programs to the needs of the church, as do Catholics and Lutheran schools, he observed that while the latter take their schools seriously the Presbyterian church is curiously parsimonious.

"We must move at once" he said, "to a level of benevolence approaching a million dollars a year for Presbyterian higher education. The idea that such an increase in benevolence giving to education would cut short benevolences for the missionary task is sheer nonsense. Presbyterians have not yet gone beyond the token stage in supporting the work of their church. One of the chief reasons why our gifts to missions are so pitifully small is that we have never done more than a skim job in training and committing our children and adults to the whole program of the church."

Dr. Payne took the entire nation to task for its failure in its responsibility for developing children's leaders.

"I have been told by a competent authority," he said, "that when Hitler visits Berlin he always has meetings arranged with children. Mr. Hitler is a busy man these days, but not too busy to take time out for the children. It would be a very different world today if the leaders of Christian churches had paid as much attention to children as this Pied Piper of the Pit in Nazi-land."

Action was taken by the general assembly regarding two institutions of higher education. It decided to exercise "general oversight" over the Presbyterian college of Christian education, 832 Belden av., and Bloomfield college and seminary, in the presbytery of Newark, N. J., was granted an extension of five years in which to bring up its faculty and curricula to the required higher standards of theological education.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 29.—Warners would like James Thurber to do the screen play of "Connecticut Yankee." They've corralled H. C. Sherriff over there for "Autumn Crocus," which is for Helmut Dantine. Francis Lederer did the stage version, remember? . . . Would you believe that Betty Grable can't get a telephone in her house? When Bert Lahr sold it, he took the phone with him. Neither can Ida Koverman get one, and she's a great friend of Gov. Earl Warren. Donald Ogden Stewart is here doing special dialogue for "Without Love" for Katharine Hepburn, but his wife, Ella Winters, is en route to Moscow, Russia, as a war correspondent. Ella was popular here in a certain set when she and Donald were expounding their theories. . . . If Buddy De Sylva leaves Paramount, it will be because one of the head men there planned it that way — and I don't mean Frank Freeman.

Wasting Movie Manpower.

With the leading man shortage, it seems silly to have Jess Barker put on suspension by Columbia. He's in good company. Brian Aherne was suspended because of the same picture but a different part. It's "Stalk the Hunter." . . . I asked Mike Frankovitch what the trouble was between Binnie Barnes and himself. He said, "O, Hedda, it was just one of those silly quarrels. We had no more idea of getting a divorce than you have of joining the WACs. Just another case of some writer needing a headline. . . . Ludwig Bemelmans keeps a daily diary of Hollywood goings-on and sends it sealed to New York, where it's deposited in a safety deposit box until he thinks its' time for another tome about our town. One of his longest chapters will be headed "Why Stars Marry." . . . No, Mrs. Mervyn Leroy isn't returning with the children to spend the summer at Arrowhead lake. She's still too excited about New York.

Clark's Nice Introducing.

Clark Gable's protege, Griffen Arvid, has been moved up as assistant director on "Ziegfeld Follies." Nine years ago he and Clark went hunting, then Clark introduced him to the studio. He's worked there ever since. . . . Mildred Law, from New York's Copacabana, can't understand being here under contract at Columbia, getting paid, and not working. She'll learn. . . . Zazu Pitts may join Akim Tamiroff in "The Village Smithy" on Broadway. . . . When William Marshall isn't acting he's running his own gas station on the Strip. . . . Arthur Hornblow is breaking out on Wednesday with a dinner for J. L. Beddington, chief of the British ministry of information's film division. . . . Wait till you see the bust of Spike Jones that George Lanyi is doing.. Spike wears a washboard for a dickie.

Kid Stuff by Grown Men.

George Murphy did a terrific rib on Pat O'Brien when they were at Del Monte doing "Having Wonderful Crime." At dinner they spotted the Salvador Dalis. Afterward, Pat got a call in his bungalow that Mr. Dali objected to the noise he was making — would he be quiet? Pat's answer was, "Yes, I will if he'll give up painting." Next day they glowered at each other across the dining room. That night Murphy called Pat, disguised his voice, and said, "I didn't know who you were. I admire you so much on the screen. You are a great actor." Pat came back with, "And I admire you — you are a great painter." Then the voice invited Pat for cocktails next evening. He accepted. The next morning at breakfast Pat came in feeling all aglow, saw Dali and his wife sitting across the room, went over, stuck out his hand, and said how nice it was of him. Dali looked bewildered. His wife came to the rescue: "Now what this is all about," she said. "You see, my husband doesn't speak English."

Here and There.

I hadn't remembered until I saw Ben Bogeaus on the set of "Dark Waters" that I'd met him before. Then he was married to Ethelind Terry. But I do remember when she refused a picture at Metro and gave up a salary of $2,250 a week because she wouldn't do cheesecake art on the screen. Yet she'd been in the follies. . . . Maj. Alexander de Seversky had so many letters on that fine magazine article about loss of his leg that he's willing to do it on the screen. . . . Gail Patrick tells about visiting the Royal Victoria hospital in Montreal. As she came to one bed, a young fellow said, "Gee, all my life you've been my favorite movie actress, and now when my big moment comes, I can't see you." The young soldier was blind. . . . It isn't always the stars who bring gayety to our boys. Two of the sugar girls from "Since You Went Away," Dorothy Garner and Rhonda Fleming, went up to spend some time with the boys at the DeWitt hospital in Auburn, Cal. Lt. Arthur Rothafel wrote me a charming letter about them, and what they'd done.

Jingle Bells.

I can't believe "Christmas in Connecticut," being made on the sound stage, will be as beautiful as the real thing. I spent a Christmas there once. Every farm looked like a picture postcard, with deer coming to the back doors for their breakfast. The long walks thru snowy woods are something I'm looking forward to again before that hazy curtain falls. I only hope the picture is half as good as the real thing. . . . What's wrong with the WACs? Just listen! Betty Boyd and Betty Reder, en route for training at Des Moines, insisted upon taking along autographed pictures of their favorite pin-up boys—Abbott and Costello. They did.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

Top flight duplicate players often go to great lengths to play a hand at no trump because of the few extra points involved. In today's deal South not only distorted his bidding but gambled in the play to outscore other teams that, he knew, would be playing the deal at a normal spade contract.

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 hearts [!]	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

The object of South's three heart bid was of course to discourage that lead.

West opened the club seven. Dummy won with the ten, and right here, at the second trick, declarer had to play the hand "wide open" in order to make a score that would compare favorably with the 120 points that he could see in the normal four spade contract. He led a diamond from dummy and when East ducked, put in the ten! The reason for this bold play was that South could not afford to reveal his strength in spades—if he did, he would be exposing his heart bid as phony and practically inviting the opponents to shift to that suit. When the diamond ten held, South returned the diamond king. Just as he hoped, East, on taking the ace, was afraid to touch the heart suit, and shifted instead to the spades that South had "denied." Now declarer cashed the club king, the diamond queen, and ran the rest of the spade suit. West wisely discarded the heart ace and thereby avoided being thrown in and forced to return a club, but the club ace gave declarer his tenth trick, and a very good match-point score.

Cecil Smith Selected as New President of Renaissance Society

The Renaissance society at the University of Chicago has announced the election of Cecil Smith of the music faculty as president. Mr. Smith formerly was a music critic on the Tribune staff.

Other officers elected by the society are Mrs. Fred Biesel, vice president; Fay-Cooper Cole, second vice president; Mrs. Ralph A. Beals, secretary, and Harold R. Willoughby, treasurer. Directors newly seated on the board to serve for two years are Mrs. Gustaf Dalstrom, Henri Frankfort, Gordon J. Laing, Miss Beatrice S. Levy, Richard P. McKeon, Mrs. Robert S. Milliken, Mrs. John U. Nef, Mrs. George E. Shambaugh, and Mrs. Frederick Sweet.

A Renaissance exhibit of drawings by contemporary artists, the last scheduled for the academic year, has been placed on view in Goodspeed hall, 1010 E. 59th st., where it will remain until June 10. The show is open to the public daily, except Saturday, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and may be viewed from 9 a. m. to noon Saturdays. Among artists represented are Francis Chapin, Maude Phelps Hutchins, Frances Foy, Rudolph Weisenborn, Laszlo Maholy-Nagy, and Martyl.

Mild, sweet Bermudas, arriving from Texas, Georgia, Louisiana, and California, are making up for the recent scarcity of onions and it's a pleasure to include them in our menus again. Prices at local markets have declined sharply, so onions can be put at the top of your list of bargain buys.

These large, yellow skinned onions are more than flavor additions to meat loaves, casseroles, soups, and stews. Serve them as a main dish, stuffed with a savory rice filling, or as a dinner vegetable — baked, broiled, or dipped in batter and fried in deep fat. Or, have them simply boiled and seasoned with melted butter or margarine.

Peel off the outer skins before boiling. If onions are quite large, cooking time may be shortened by cutting them into quarters. Drop into boiling salted water and cook without a cover from 20 to 30 minutes, or until onions are barely tender when pierced with a fork. Drain and add 2 to 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Serve at once.

Baked Onion Slices.

[Serves five.]

5 large onions, sliced
2 bouillon cubes
1½ cups hot water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Arrange peeled and sliced onions in greased baking dish. Dissolve bouillon cubes in hot water and pour over onion slices. Dot with butter or margarine. Bake, uncovered, in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for 45 to 60 minutes, or until tender. Add more hot water if necessary.

Broiled Onions.

[Serves five.]

Peel 2 large onions and slice a little less than ½ inch thick. Brush both sides of slices with melted margarine and place on broiler tray, about 4 inches below heat. Broil for about 8 to 10 minutes, brush tops with more margarine and move closer to heat, so onions will brown nicely. Sprinkle with salt and chopped parsley before serving.

Stuffed Onions.

[Serves five.]

5 large onions
2 cups cooked rice
½ cup chili sauce
2 tablespoons melted margarine
½ cup grated cheese
Salt to taste

Peel onions, remove thick slice from stem end and scoop out ¼ cup pulp from center of each onion. Drop onions into large amount of boiling salted water [1 teaspoon salt to each quart of water], and cook until just tender, 25 to 30 minutes. Drain, and remove core from centers of onions, forming cups. [Centers may be cooked until done and served creamed.] Combine hot rice with chili sauce, melted margarine, and ¼ cup of grated cheese. Season to taste. Fill onion cups with rice mixture and place in greased pan or on greased baking sheet. Sprinkle remaining cheese over tops. Place in hot oven, 425 degrees, or under the broiler, and cook until cheese is golden brown and onions are thoroly heated. Serve at once.

French Fried Onions.

[Serves five.]

1 cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 egg white, unbeaten
6 tablespoons water
2 to 3 large onions, peeled and sliced ¼ inch thick

Sift flour, measure, and resift with salt into mixing bowl. Add milk, oil, and egg white, and beat until smooth. Add water to make a medium thin batter. Separate onion slices carefully into rings and dip into the batter so each ring is completely covered. Drop batter-covered rings, a few at a time, into deep fat heated to about 370 degrees, and fry until golden brown. Lift out carefully and drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with salt. Onion rings may be kept hot and crisp in a warm oven until dinner is ready to serve.

Bolero Dress

Rickrack braid is the simple trimming used to outline the unusual neckline and armholes of this dress, which has a snug, belted midriff and a full skirt. More of the braid goes around the pocket tops. The pattern includes a separate bolero for covering the sun-back. Style No. 3401 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires, for dress, 2¾ yards of 35 inch fabric; for bolero, 1⅞ yards of 35 inch fabric.

[Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents plus 2 cents for mailing. The spring and summer pattern book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

sions over Germany and met his bride, who was doing Red Cross work at the field.

The bride, a graduate of Knox college, is well known as an amateur figure skater. Capt. Baker, who holds the distinguished flying cross and other awards, and his bride have gone to Miami, Fla., where he will be stationed. Dr. Meyer is medical superintendent of all county institutions.

Col. Benjamin H. Brinton of the air transport command and Mrs. Brinton of Washington, D. C., and New Kent, Va., formerly of Englewood, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Anne, to Roswell Miller III. of New York and Millbrook, N. Y., son of Lt. Comdr. Miller and Mrs. Miller, and grandson of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie of New York and Dornoch, Scotland, and the late Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Miller also is a grandson of Mrs. Roswell Miller Sr. of New York and of the late Mr. Miller, formerly of Chicago. Miss Brinton was graduated from Mount Vernon seminary. Mr. Miller, a graduate of Princeton, is with the United States geological survey in Washington.

From her home in Bryn Mawr, Pa., Mrs. Wilbur Leroy Lafean, formerly of Chicago, has sent word of the engagement of her daughter, Marcia, to Ensign Willard Schenck Durham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard C. Durham of Winchester, Mass.

Here and There.

Lt. and Mrs. Richard O. Wilson [Virginia Dick] are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Robert Leonard Wilson, May 9, in the Highland Park hospital. The baby is a grandson of the Elmer Jewell Dicks of Winnetka and of the George Wilsons of Clinton, Ia. Lt. Wilson is stationed with the navy at Great Lakes.

Jefferson D. Currier recently was promoted from lieutenant to captain in the army. He and Mrs. Currier are living in Moultrie, Ga., near his post at Spence field.

Aviation Cadet Charles Wacker now is training with the naval air corps at Pensacola, Fla.

Mrs. Arlindo S. Cate and her two children now are at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Knode, while Mr. Cate is stationed at Camp McCoy, Wis., with the army.

Mrs. John G. Patterson has returned to Evanston to be with her mother, Mrs. J. DeWolf Archer, for the duration while Lt. [j. g.] Patterson serves overseas.

Predicts Army Food Research Will Benefit All

The war has thrust food technology ahead several years, and when the war is over, products and techniques perfected to meet military requirements will not be discarded, Maj. Gen. Stephen G. Henry, director of the new developments division in the chief of staff offices, said yesterday. He predicted that three-fourths of the scientific inventions of the war will find eventual use in civilian fields.

Gen. Henry addressed the opening session of the fifth annual conference of the Institute of Food Technologists in the Edgewater Beach hotel. The three day meeting has drawn 1,000 members from all sections of the United States and Canada to discuss war and postwar food problems and developments.

He said that the quartermaster corps requires four prime characteristics in the development of military rations. These are, he explained, acceptability of the food to the troops, nutritional adequacy, stability under storage conditions, and caloric consideration.

Under the urgency of war, said Gen. Henry, the army is investigating new protein sources. He disclosed that a whole series has been developed and will be ready for use if a serious shortage develops in animal products. The new protein sources include "highly improved" fish products, soya articles, and cereals, he said.

Gen. Henry told the technologists that experiments are being made with packs of frozen eviscerated poultry. The experimental packs have been well received. They provide welcome additions to troop menus in the field, he said.

He also described the army's 10-in-1 ration, the newest ration development. This ration, he said, contains sufficient food to feed 10 men one day or five men two days. It provides five different menus to "insure a wide variety of highly acceptable foods, nutritionally adequate to maintain troops under combat conditions." The new ration is designed primarily for use when troops return from front line fighting as a transition from the C and K rations, which are carried into combat, he said.

Special food problems of the navy were discussed by Rear Adm. E. G. Morsell, ninth naval district supply officer. He said that with the cooperation of the food industry and science, the army and navy are winning "the battle of supply lines." In a global war such as this, he said, the emphasis is upon processed foods that will meet storage and transportation problems.

Capt. W. W. Bailey of the quartermaster subsistence research and development laboratory in Chicago said that the biggest problem in getting supplies to the battle fronts involves packaging and packing. Progress has been made in solving this problem, but there are still faults which must be corrected, he asserted.

Reporting on his findings during a tour of North Africa and Italian battle areas, Lt. Col. D. B. Dill of the army quartermaster corps urged the food technologists to concentrate on developing food products that are even more acceptable to troops than present rations.

movie serial, yesterday held a press conference in 6th service command headquarters, 20 N. Wacker dr.

Pvt. Moore returned to the United States by ship from Bombay, India, after six months of service as a telephone operator with headquarters of the southeast Asia command. Hers was the responsibility of getting thru long distance calls, both within the command and between India and the war department in Washington, D. C. Her job was not a simple one, she said, because of linguistic difficulties.

Her first station was in New Delhi, her last in Malar, which she left for a 21 day medical leave. In India she and other WACs lived in barracks with the English WRENS [women's royal naval service].

Three women were quartered in each unheated room [Indian winters are cold, Pvt. Moore reported] and, lacking wood or coal, they used magazines for fireplace fuel. Native bearers, hired at the sum of 32 cents per person per month, were their servants, who supplied them with water for washing every morning, and with a tin tub of hot water [more often tepid] for weekly baths.

Women in service in India have no de luxe transportation, Pvt. Moore said. In New Delhi they ride in tongo wallas, two wheeled, two seated, horsedrawn vehicles in which they sit with their backs to the driver and "hang on for dear life." In Karachi, Malar, and Bombay, public vehicles are garries, which resemble the old fashioned carriage. There are few automobiles in India, Pvt. Moore said, because of the gasoline shortage.

Laughing hyenas, howling coyotes, and sand storms enliven desert nights in India, Pvt. Moore recounted. She hopes to live there after the war, when she will marry Warrant Officer Kenneth Cox of the British army, whom she met in India.

Pvt. Moore went overseas directly from basic training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and was in the first regular contingent of WACs to reach India. Her civilian experience as a telephone operator had been extensive. She worked at St. Luke's hospital, the national war agencies building, and the Chicago Electric Manufacturing company, engaged in war production.

A graduate of Englewood High school, Pvt. Moore is the daughter of Mrs. Bertha Roehl, 5725 Elizabeth st. She also has two sisters residing here, Mrs. William La Batt, 638 S. 20th av., Maywood, and Mrs. Gladys Schmidt, 7848 Evans av. A brother, Lester Roehl, is at Camp Grant. One of Pvt. Moore's nephews is a prisoner of the Germans.

After her leave, Pvt. Moore will report to Camp Butner, N. C., for reassignment. She hopes her next post will be in India.

New Musical Movie Is Tops for a Holiday

"SHOW BUSINESS."

An RKO-Radio picture, directed by Edwin L. Marin, starring Eddie Cantor, Constance Moore, George Murphy, and Joan Davis, and presented at the Palace.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

If, after the business of this day is over, you feel you'd like to unlax and see a good movie, I suggest "Show Business."

Sometimes titles fool you. This one doesn't. The story really is about show business. It follows the popular trend of present day musicals, and, in the pleasantest possible fashion, bows you back into the era of "bustles, bloomers, and beer in buckets," taking you therefrom, via the stage careers of its four principal characters, to the period immediately following the first World war.

In a burlesque show, a popular song and dance man, George Deane [George Murphy] befriends a young feller, Eddie Martin [Eddie Cantor], who makes his debut on amateur night. . . . The two team up. . . . They meet a sister act, Connie Ford and Joan Mason [Constance Moore and Joan Davis]. . . . George falls for Connie—and Joan starts pursuit of Eddie. . . .

Despite jealousy of and attempted interference by Nancy Gaye [Nancy Kelly], who has been passed up by George for Constance [I love the way the right first names are used, don't you?], Connie and George are married. . . . And now there's a stage foursome that makes good thru the years—is torn apart by misunderstanding and war and reunited in time for all to participate in a Ziegfeld show. . . .

Costumes and sets are fascinating and you'll love hearing the old songs—"Want a Girl Just Like the Girl Who Married Dear Old Dad," "Dinah," "Makin' Whoopee," "I'm Alabamy Bound," and "I Don't Want to Get Well." . . .

You'll also enjoy the work of all the players. My, my, my—time my's! Seems nothing is more ageless than those Eddie Cantor eyes! They fall all over just as they've always done, and, as always, he gets them back in their sockets again. How, I'll never know.

There's a lot of right fancy dancing by the four—with Davis-Cantor team doing the clowning.

And if you want to cry—you'll find several come-ons—but, shucks—do you. . . . ?

See you soon.

Stage Notes

Actors' run of the play contracts expire the first of June, and replacements flourish. "Kiss and Tell" will make several changes at the Harris next week, with Jack Davis, who has been playing the father in a touring company which closes in Milwaukee Saturday, taking over for Clay Clement, while Jimmy Dunne comes out from New York to replace Artie Quinn, who will soon be 18 and wants a brief vacation before going into the army. Other changes will be George Behr for Dort Clark and Arleen Ainsely for Mary Evelyn Ducey.

"The New Moon," by Sigmund Romberg and Oscar Hammerstein II, is second on the Civic Opera house list, scheduled to follow "Rose Marie" June 23.

Envisions Y. M. C. A. as Potent Factor in Post-War Rebuilding

The trained personnel of the Young Men's Christian association, now in 68 foreign countries, will be an influential factor in post-war reconstruction, Eugene R. Barnett, international Y. M. C. A. secretary, told a group of Protestant ministers yesterday. He spoke at a union minister's meeting, sponsored by the Chicago Church federation, at the Central Y. M. C. A. auditorium, 19 S. La Salle st.

"The Y. M. C. A. is interdenominational, and lay in character," said Mr. Barnett," and can be of great use in creating a better understanding among all peoples of the world, both in practical and spiritual reconciliation."

Mr. Barnett said that in the present U. S. O. program the Y. M. C. A. and churches have joined hands in many communities, and he warned that this collaboration will be needed equally after the war.

Engaged Girl Told to Heed Conventions

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"My fiance will be getting his furlough soon, and he intends to visit his parents in California. He wants me to accompany him there by train. His family has told him it is all right to bring me along. My folks are in doubt about the wisdom of this move. They think there will be gossip, so I'd like your opinion. We plan to marry after the war. Sue."

The courtship period, or pre-marriage days as you moderns prefer to call the time between an engagement and wedding day, is the most crucial test period. Where a long engagement is planned, the test of conduct, we think, is even more critical. That is, so many things may be misinterpreted; so many obstacles may arise and misunderstanding ensue that we think it far wiser to lean back heavily on the conventional rules than gamble on a situation that might give rise to gossip.

Were it a short day time trip, say, we wouldn't adopt the Grundy role so vigorously. And whatever a young modern may say or think to the contrary, opinion of a proposed future wife depends on conventional judgment. No one, in his sober, down-to-earth mood, is more capable of critical judgment than the very man proposing the long-distance trip.

If you wish to accept the parents' invitation, couldn't you arrange to join him at his home a day or two later and leave before his departure? His parents might appreciate your consideration of them, for they, no doubt, would enjoy having him to themselves for a few days.

Wedding

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Luther Miller of Wrightwood av., to Petty Officer 1st Class Edward D. Kopshever of the naval air force, will take place at 10:30 a. m. June 10 in St. Clement's church, with a breakfast following immediately at the Surf hotel and a reception later from 3 to 6 p. m. in the bride's home. Mr. Kopshever, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kopshever of Bishop st., and his bride will live at the naval air base at Olathe, Kas., where he is stationed.

TESTIMONY WON THRU FORCE HELD VALID BY COURT

High Justices Clash on Bill of Rights.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The war of words between two Supreme court factions over the interpretation of individual rights under the Constitution approached the vituperative stage in a 4 to 3 decision today upholding a federal conviction secured thru the use of a man's forced testimony against himself.

Justice Black.

A new construction of the fifth amendment's provision that "no person . . . shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself" was voiced in the majority opinion by Justice Frankfurter and joined in by Justices Stone, Roberts, and Reed.

The dissenting minority opinion, read by Justice Black and indorsed by Justices Douglas and Rutledge, asserted the court had for the first time in a century and a half slashed at the protections in the Bill of Rights, which "represent a large part of the characteristics which distinguished free from totalitarian government."

Two Justices Withdraw.

Such phrases as "abhorrent to the instincts of an American" and "suiting the purposes of despotic power" studded the minority's characterization of the use of compulsory testimony in a federal prosecution.

Withdrawal of Justices Murphy and Jackson from consideration of the case permitted the decision of four justices, less than a majority of the nine of the court, to stand. While, as is customary, the two justices announced no reason for removing themselves, it was presumed that they did so because the case had first arisen when they held the office of attorney general.

Accused of "Kiting" Checks.

The conviction sustained was that of Samuel Feldman of New York City who was found guilty in federal court of using the mails to defraud by "kiting" checks received from his father, using the proceeds of later checks to cover those cashed earlier.

Feldman had been compelled to testify previously under oath in a creditors' discovery proceeding in a New York state court. State law granted him immunity from prosecution for any state crime he might be forced to confess. Over his protests, a transcript of his forced testimony was later used in the United States District court to convict him on the federal charges.

Opinion of Frankfurter.

The point whether compelled testimony in a state court thus be used in a federal court had never been formally decided, Justice Frankfurter conceded, but he maintained that a long series of decisions on the basic principles involved in the case bolstered him in the opinion that:

"While evidence secured thru unreasonable search and seizure by federal officials is inadmissible in a federal prosecution, incriminating documents so secured by state officials without participation by federal officials but turned over for their use are admissible in a federal prosecution. Relevant testimony is not barred from use in a criminal trial in a federal court unless wrongfully acquired by federal officials.

"The Constitution prohibits an invasion of privacy only in proceedings over which the government has control."

Violent Dissent of Black.

Justice Black's sizzling dissent started by quoting a previous court ruling that "any compulsory discovery by extorting the party's oath . . . is contrary to the principles of a free government. It is abhorrent to the instincts of an American. It may suit the purposes of despotic power but it cannot abide the pure atmosphere of political liberty and personal freedom."

"Unless the court now is disavowing this belief," he stated, "the use of testimony obtained by compulsory discovery to convict an accused must be considered 'shocking to the universal sense of justice' and 'offensive to the common and fundamental ideas of fairness and right.'

First Break Since 1791.

"Never, since the Bill of Rights was adopted [in 1791] until today, has this court sustained a single conviction for a federal offense which rested on self-incriminatory testimony forced from the accused. I cannot agree to do so now. . . .

"The first of the 10 amendments erected a constitutional shelter for the people's liberties of religion, speech, press, and assembly. But these men were not satisfied. . . . [They] also insisted upon the fifth, sixth and eighth amendments, designed to protect all individuals against arbitrary punishment."

The Inquiring Camera Girl
BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Virginia Altenburg, Milwaukee, Wis.]

THE QUESTION.

What convinced you that a woman takes the privilege to change her mind?

WHERE ASKED.

Palmer House Arcade.

THE ANSWERS.

Ensign Don Harp, Grand Junction, Colo.—Everything was all set, I thought. The girl had said "yes." I had the ring in my pocket. That's where it's been ever since. When I tried to give it to her she had a complete change of mind, and without a word of warning decided she didn't want to be engaged or anything.

Ensign Werner Hanni, Sioux Falls, S. D.—For a couple of weeks I had been dating a girl in town who was visiting her girl friend. It came time for her to get on the train and go back home. I took her to the station and put her on the train. Just before it pulled out she decided to get off and stay another two weeks.

Gene De Bell, carpenter's mate 3d class, St. Paul, Minn.—Whenever I go down town with my wife she'll do it every time. When we cross a busy intersection, just as we get about half way across, she decides she wants to see something in a window on the side of the street we just left. It's usually something not worth seeing.

Ensign Jimmy Donald, Seattle, Wash.—She was a lovely girl. We were engaged to be married the day I won my wings. I really settled down to work. The day I won my wings she joined a convent. But another girl changed her mind about another fellow and decided I was the one for her, so everything's okay.

Pvt. Roy J. Luckhardt, Tulsa, Okla.—Women are always changing their minds. It's hard to say what they're going to do next. My favorite examples of this are woman drivers. Often they'll change their mind and turn right from the left side of the traffic lane instead of going ahead with the general traffic.

BOY, 16, DROWNS AS POND WEEDS ENTANGLE HIM

Fred Polak Jr., 16, of 5152 S. Bishop st., was drowned yesterday in the Sherman park lagoon when he became entangled in weeds 30 feet from shore. Park Policeman John Roehn, Leonard Parus, 15, of 5215 S. May st., and Donald Jaskolski, 16, of 5143 S. Elizabeth st., were unable to reach him before he went down. The body was recovered by a crew from the Jackson park coast guard station.

Fred Polak Jr.

George E. Lambdin, 17, of 17844 Commercial av., Lansing, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the old Illinois Brick company clay hole at 176th st. and Commercial av. His body was recovered by Paul Buckner, 17854 School st., Lansing. A Lansing fire department resuscitation squad attempted for an hour to revive him.

TERM DOUBLED AFTER APPEAL IN OPA SUSPENSION

The office of price administration yesterday doubled the suspension period a hearing commissioner had ordered against a restaurant corporation after attorneys had appealed a decision of John R. Allen, OPA hearing commissioner.

Charles Ferguson, OPA hearing administrator in Washington, upheld the OPA contention that a corporation is bound by the acts of its officers, and ordered the suspension of New Tom's Restaurant Co., 740 S. Wabash av., increased to four weeks, effective June 8, from the two weeks ordered by Allen early this month.

MacDUFFY LAYS IT ON IN BRAIDS IN BARBER CRISIS

Here's What War Did to Hair Cutting.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

If the war keeps on, American men may be scampering about with their hair down to their hip pockets. This thought came to light yesterday at a meeting of the National Educational Council of the Associated Master Barbers and Beauticians of America Approved by the National Association of Barber Examiners for the Conduct of Standardized Barber Schools. The whole thing met in the Morrison hotel.

T. C. MacDuffy, the council's president, said the country is shedding barbers as fast as good whisky. Half the 200,000 men normally busy shaving, shearing, and debating during normal times have disappeared into the army, war plants, and other better paying jobs.

Women Avoid the Shears.

Women haven't picked up the shears for the same reason—better jobs—and the 75 barber schools do not assay better than four students per institution. After the war, MacDuffy and associates held, the boys will be back and there will be more than enough haircuts for every one.

Other things which developed when the masters mulled matters were:

1. The women's invasion of the barber shop has proved a step in the right direction. It has relegated the major, or 17 gallon cuspidor, and the Police Gazette to the back room, caused many barbers to yield their eating tobacco, and has taught the barber better—but not more—English.

Only Two States Lack Laws.

"The talk you used to hear in the barber shop has moved to the beauty parlor," one fellow said, then blushed, said he would not reveal his name, and pretended he hadn't said it.

2. The masters are fighting for standardized curricula in barber schools. All save two states—Virginia and New York—now have state barber laws. In New York nine governors, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, have vetoed such a law.

3. The loose talk about the loose talk of barbers is a vile canard and should be stamped out as one would scotch a snake.

"You never heard a silent salesman," said MacDuffy. "A barber is a salesman."

FIRE DESTROYS DAIRY.

Logansport, Ind., May 29 [Special].—Fire today destroyed the Sanitary Dairy company with a loss estimated at $9,000.

PUDDING BLAMED FOR POISONING OF NEARLY 200

Investigators in the medical department of Navy pier were reported yesterday to have definitely traced the poisoning of nearly 200 persons Friday to rice pudding served at Thompson's restaurants. This information was given by an official spokesman for the navy as navy, city health department, Illinois department of agriculture, and Thompson specialists continued their investigations. Reports were not expected until tomorrow or Thursday. All of those affected were reported recovered.

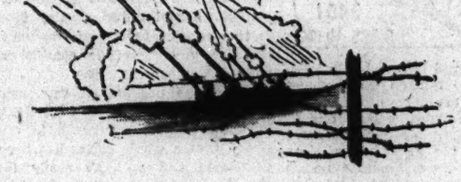
HEAVENLY DAYS

A far cry from what Decoration Day 1944 will be in ANZIO, CASSINO, SOUTH PACIFIC, BURMA, the STALAGS, and the hundreds of other hot spots where someone waits for your letter.

No heavenly days there, just pleasant tormenting memories and the intense hope that the time is not far off when they can count on a Decoration Day holiday again being part of their lives. There will be "heavenly days" again because SOMEONE YOU KNOW is in there giving all he's got to guarantee it

★ Just as you're going to guarantee it by getting behind "D" day...backing the attack with war bonds



★Bonds may be purchased at the Special Bond Booth, North Room, first floor, and at the Postal Service Desk, third floor.

Quizzle	108	J. Higley	10-1
Brief Sigh	110	J. Thornburg	4-1
Alafag	102	No boy	10-1
Night Shadow	112	G. Seabo	8-1
Devaine	110	E. White	20-1
*Equifox	122	A. Bodiou	2-1
*Daily Trouble	113	F. A. Smith	2-1
Valdina Foe	112	O. Grohs	8-1
Challenge Me	112	W. Gillespie	6-1
Take Wing	112	No boy	10-1
Bold Captain	107	K. Knott	8-1

*Wells and Straus entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Memorial day will be observed this afternoon by the Lincoln Fields Jockey club and a crowd which is expected to tax the capacity of the Hawthorne racing plant for a program dedicated to the Red Cross and the Chicago Service Men's center.

A mutuel hand'e even better than last year's record breaking $1,135,878 wagered by 37,000 customers is freely predicted and two-thirds of the net proceeds will go to the Red Cross, the other third to the service men's establishment.

The same organizations realized $101,000 last Memorial day.

14 Entries Named.

The feature of the afternoon's card will be the 16th running of the $5,000 added Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap, for which a strong field of 14 handicap horses has been named.

Topping the list is Howard Wells' Equifox, 7 year old son of Equipoise, which will be coupled with David Straus' Daily Trouble, also trained by Wells. Equifox will carry top weight of 122 pounds and will be ridden by Al Bodiou. F. A. Smith will pilot Daily Trouble.

Most of the contention is expected to be furnished by a pair of Kentucky Derby starters—the Brolite farm's Challenge Me, winner of the $10,000 Arkansas Derby, and River Divide farm's Brief Sigh. Others apt to figure in the event are Mrs. Robert McGarvey's Night Shadow and T. F. Devereau's Bold Captain.

Favorite at 2 to 1.

The Wells and Straus entry is expected to go to the post at odds of 2 to 1, while next in line will be Brief Sigh at 4 to 1. Challenge Me is figured at 6 to 1, while Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, top star of other years and a pre-race favorite in 1943, will be one of the outsiders at 20 to 1.

For the third time in the 12 days of the 29 day meeting yesterday's mutuel handle topped $900,000 as a crowd of 23,339 took advantage of pleasant weather and an "open" date between holidays.

Betting Hits $953,928.

The betting for the afternoon totaled $953,928. The first Saturday total was $938,781, and last Saturday's handle was $982,803.

Yesterday's program, however, had only a $1,500 purse, the Oak Park, as its feature, while the first of the two previous big days was featured by the $5,000 Crete handicap and Saturday's attraction was the $5,000 Joliet stakes.

Jake Lowenstein's Final Glory, 4 year old son of Case Ace-Lady Glory, and ridden by Freddie Smith, won the Oak Park by four and a half lengths as Tawny Lady, the favorite, just lasted to take the place from Vinum by a neck. The winner paid $14.80, the best price of the day until Count Traumer came in at $24.40 in the eighth.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

MEMORIAL DAY, 1944. . . . Time was when this was a great holiday in the middle west, the east, and far out where the blue Pacific begins. . . . That was before three maniacs named Adolf, Benito, and Hirohito threw the world into chaos and suffering. . . . Memorial day always was an occasion for honoring our heroic dead. . . . Cemeteries were gardens of flowers, just as they are today. . . . American flags flew everywhere—in the village square, the city parks, and, above all, over the graves of countless American heroes. . . . How many of us then in the spring of life fully appreciated what the day meant? . . . The flags were pretty. . . . The orator of the day was long winded and usually talking over our heads. . . . But today it all has more significance, because we are honoring not only those who have given their lives that a nation might live but in a sense we are paying tribute to your son and mine who are risking their all that we may continue to have Memorial days. . . . "Who fights for Freedom goes with joyful tread to meet the Force of Hell against him hurled . . . and has for Captain Him whose thorn wreathed head smiles from the Cross upon a conquered world. . . ."

But the Wake of the News is a sports column and Memorial day always has been a great occasion for athletes. . . . It was a day of family picnics, foot races, ball games, pop bottles, fried chicken, parades. . . . Remember how proudly we marched down Main st. with the colors of our seventh grade class fluttering gayly in the breeze? . . . In a teeming metropolis like Chicago Memorial day meant double header ball games, horse racing, and waiting for reports on the Indianapolis auto race. . . . The accent everywhere was on sports and family fun. . . . There will be horse racing and ball games today. . . . Thousands will crowd Comiskey park and Hawthorne. . . . But the spirit of the throng won't be the same. . . . It can't be when so many of their loved ones are far away in steaming tropical jungles, in bombing planes, or fighter escorts, in surface ships or submarines or sweating thru the rigors of infantry routine. . . . Still, we must not give up the activities that have made America the most desirable place in the world to spend our earthly days. . . . It is for these that our boys endured the suffering at Corregidor, Coral sea, the Solomons, Guadalcanal, North Africa, Sicily, Salerno, Cassino, Anzio. . . . Many of their youthful bodies lie buried in foreign soil, yet the words of their brave spirits ring clear: "We are the dead. Short days ago we played ball, ran races, marched with fellow students thru the village streets. We saw the golden dawn, saw sunset glow. Loved and were loved. Now we are dead. If you break faith with us we shall not sleep."

First Furlough.

There is no greater thrill than that
Which marks his first trip home.
His skin is brown, his hair sun bleached
The shade of honey comb.

With tearful laughs and shining eyes,
His mother and his dad
Look on in sheer bewilderment
At this, their G. I. lad.

So carefully they fondly touch
That stripe upon his sleeve,
No general could inspire them more
Than this tall lad on leave.

He was just a boy when he left home,
Yet in so brief a span
They look with mingled awe and pride
Upon their son, a man.

INJURY TO KEEP ZURITA OUT OF RING TEN WEEKS

MEXICO CITY, May 29 (AP).—Dr. Armando Zambrana said today that Juan Zurita, N. B. A. lightweight boxing champion who accidentally shot himself in the hand Saturday, should be able to defend his title in about 10 weeks.

Zurita was packing his suitcase for a trip to New York, where he was slated for a nontitle fight June 16 with Willie Pep, when a pistol fell to the floor and discharged. The bullet hit a bone in the middle finger of his left hand.

REDS, WALTERS HAND DODGERS 13 TO 4 DEFEAT

Year's 8th Victory for Bucky.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 29 (AP). — Bucky Walters scored his eighth victory of the season by beating the Brooklyn Dodgers on nine hits tonight as the Cincinnati Reds pounded four Dodger pitchers for 17 hits and a 13 to 4 triumph.

Dixie Walker homered in the third with a man on for his only hit in four times at bat as his league leading average slid off six points to .438.

PIRATES WIN IN 11TH.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates won an overtime contest from the Phillies before 14,438 tonight, 3 to 2, when Tom O'Brien tripled to start the eleventh inning and scored on Babe Dahlgren's outfield fly.

The Pirates had tied the score at 2 to 2 in the eighth when O'Brien and Bob Elliott doubled after two were out.

Cubs, Their Victory Streak Wrecked, Meet Giants Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—Having nothing else to do today the Cubs had ample time in which to catch the breath that was knocked out of them so rudely in double header fashion yesterday by the previously congenial Braves. They'll need the recovered breath tomorrow and possibly a few reserve tanks of oxygen, because they have another two ply job on their hands. This time it's the Giants in the Polo Grounds and naturally enough the latter aim to do the best they can about prolonging the Chicagoans' internment in the cellar.

Anything can happen to pitchers in the Polo Grounds, where fly balls caught easily elsewhere become home runs, but Boss Charley Grimm at least has two fairly competent mound men available for the holiday occasion. One is Hank Wyse and the other Paul Derringer, who in his last two starts indicated he finally has taken up the slack caused by unforseen mishaps during spring training.

Pitching Still Is Weak Spot.

The painful developments of yesterday again demonstrated the big reason the Cubs' emergence from the cellar may be delayed. Any time pitchers like Jim Tobin and Al Javery are raked for three or four runs as they were, the hitters must be given credit. But the hitting went for naught because the pitching as exhibited by Claude Passeau, Harold Vandenberg and others was inefficient. This may continue indefinitely, altho there still is hope that Passeau may regain his former pitching skill.

The Cubs are getting weary having to hear, wherever they stop, that they are too good to be confined to the basement, or even in the neighborhood thereof. What they'd like to have from those who talk that way is a prescription on how to prove it. They apparently can't prove it themselves, altho we don't subscribe to the idea that they won't escape eventually.

They're Stuck in New York.

The Cubs are going to be stuck in New York so long that by the time they get away they'll be entitled to vote. After the series with the Giants they'll put on their act in Brooklyn. They will finish up there temporarily next Sunday. Then they'll have those three off days in a row but they can't go to Pittsburgh because the hotel there will be occupied by the Reds.

SGT. FEBEL SET TO BRAVE PERIL OF JUDO AGAIN

Staff Sgt. Fritz Febel, former Purdue football star and member of the first college all-star team in 1934, is going to be careful in the judo classes when he returns to Camp Haan, Cal., in a few days.

Sgt. Fritz Febel.

He is on 30 day convalescent leave. That's where the judo comes in. Febel's background as a wrestler in his undergraduate days was known, so he became a guinea pig for the judo class at Camp Haan. Some one flipped him over the wrong way and the result was a broken back. That was last April. Last night, Sgt. Febel said his back was as good as new.

He will leave tomorrow for Camp Haan, which will mean goodby to Mrs. Febel and their 20 months old daughter, Velma Brook, at the family home, 1135 E. 82d st.

"Those 25 mile hikes with full pack and the obstacle courses make football practice look silly," said the sergeant. At Purdue and with the college all-stars he was a guard.

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 29 (AP). —Tom McHugh, professional at the Nibley Park Golf club, believes he is getting more than his share of complaints. Last week two players claimed seagulls had made off with their war scarce golf balls. Now two others complain their drives off different tees collided in flight.

JOYCE DISPLAYS RING TECHNIQUE

Gary Boxer Expects to Defeat Armstrong.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Willie Joyce, former Golden Gloves champion from Gary, who upset Henry Armstrong a year ago, yesterday gave a demonstration of how he expects to repeat the trick when he meets the Los Angeles welterweight in a 10 round return bout in Chicago Stadium Friday.

Joyce, who weighs 139 pounds, sparred three rounds with Tito Taylor, local middleweight, in Ringside loop gymnasium before 300 fight fans. Taylor, aggressive, wild swinging fighter whose style is patterned after that of Armstrong, had difficulty landing effectively on the elusive Joyce. The workout indicated Willie intends to outbox Hank, only boxer to hold three titles simultaneously.

Confident He'll Repeat.

Joyce, who is 27, five years younger than Henry, did it once and is confident he can do it again.

After Willie left the ring Armstrong appeared for a six round drill, three each against Rudy [Torpedo] Reed, his lightweight stablemate, and Johnny Lyons, Brooklyn middleweight. He was in fine fettle.

Both men will continue boxing today and tomorrow with light exercises scheduled for Thursday.

James to Meet Woods.

Tommy James, 1942 city Golden Gloves welterweight winner, yesterday was substituted for Robert Simmons of Indianapolis in a 10 round semi-windup on the program against Sgt. Lou Woods of Camp Grant. Woods outpoined Tommy in a previous meeting, surviving three knockdowns to capture a split decision. It was Woods' 25th victory in 26 starts. Lou came thru with three more triumphs for a total of 28, a record which led to his chance against big time competition—a contest with Jack LaMotta, New York middleweight, in the only other show held in the Stadium this year. LaMotta was awarded a split verdict.

Six round preliminary events Friday will bring together Walter Patrick, Bay City, Mich., 160 pounder, and Johnny Lyons; George Sapolick, Johnstown, Pa., middleweight, and Lou Angelucci; and Robert Earl, south side 135 pounder, and Torpedo Reed.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

James J. Dykes' hapless and sometimes more or less helpless White Sox last night made a game attempt to show 14,528 patient and loyal fans that they aren't as bad as the records indicate. Tho they fought like panthers, our tail-enders suffered their seventh straight 1944 defeat at the hands of the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 1.

During the course of the contest, Ralph Hodgin and Myril Hoag made scoreboard catches that were truly sensational, leading to the belief the Sox might win some time if they had a few timely hitters on the playing roster. True, the Sox made three errors to run their total to 10 for the three game series, but these bobbles did not affect the outcome.

Eighth Loss in Nine Games.

The White Sox now have played four night games and have been jolted in all of them. No ocular evidence that the lads can't see at night has been produced, however. Besides, they sometimes are futile in the day time, too. Evidence of this is to be found in the fact they have lost eight of their last nine games and only two of those nine were played under the lamps.

Tex Hughson went all the way to score his second victory over the Sox, his fifth success of the season. The losing pitcher was Lee Ross, who has dropped three without feeling the glow of a 1944 victory. Ross turned in a job which might easily have been good for a victory if Dykes had any one who could hit in the so-called clutch.

Webb Finally Gets a Hit.

The manner in which Hughson saw his shutout vanish in the eighth was rather big news in itself. Mike Tresh opened with his second single and went to third as Skeeter Webb dropped a single just out of Bobby Doerr's reach. This single was Skeeter's first safe one in 24 times at bat. Guy Curtright batted for Ross and filed to Pete Fox, Tresh scoring. Wally Moses popped to Doerr and Leroy Schalk singled to center. Then Hodgin tapped to Joe Cronin.

The White Sox really lost the game after two were out in the fourth inning. With one down, Cronin singled to left. Doerr supplied the second out with a fly to Hodgin, but Jim Tabor singled to left. Then Hal Wagner followed with a double to left which scored Cronin and Tabor.

Boston Gets a Gift Run.

The run the Red Sox didn't need was produced in the eighth inning. Hughson opened with a single and was forced on George Metkovich's attempted sacrifice. Tom McBride singled to center, putting Metkovich on third and when Hoag threw the ball wide, Metkovich pranced on home. He would have got there anyhow, for Fox followed with a double, on which McBride stopped at third. Cronin was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Doerr forced McBride at the plate and Tabor flied to Hodgin.

For those who have been watching the friendly rivalry of Chicago's two cellar teams since the palsy-walsy days in French Lick it is to be noted the Sox now have lost one more game than have the Cubs. But the Sox are up on percentage. The Sox have won 14 and lost 21 for .400, whereas the Cubs have won 11 and lost 20 for a mark of .355.

O, yes, we almost forgot to tell you—Jake Wade, the personable lefty, signed with the Sox yesterday. Jake is one of the most pleasant fellows anybody could want to meet.

VICTORY GARDEN IDEA SPREADING AT GOLF CLUBS

To Cultivate More Land This Summer.

By CHARLES BARTLETT.

[This is the fourth of a series of articles on the plans for the third war time year of the member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association. Others will appear from time to time.]

Victory gardens, conducted either for club use or by the members for their own consumption, are another salient feature in the survey being conducted among member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association by THE TRIBUNE. Last year was the first for a number of clubs in this department, and proved so successful that many are adding to the space they used in 1943. Some clubs utilized their driving ranges for this purpose, while others were fortunate in having extra space on their grounds. A majority attended to the plowing and watering for their members who were charged a nominal fee for this service. At least two other C. D. G. A. clubs—Butterfield and Oak Park — have added chicken raising to the cultivation of garden produce.

Four more clubs present their reports today. They follow:

PARK RIDGE.

The membership is filled and the club has a waiting list. Ten new members were taken in last winter. The club has 77 stars on its service flag. Man power shortage is about the same as other clubs, but Park Ridge has been fortunate in retaining a number of "old timers." On the caddie problem, the club is situated in a thickly populated area, altho many members plan to carry their own bags, and with fewer clubs. Dining room service will be maintained on a normal basis, with the exception of Mondays. Nearest points of public transportation are a bus stopping at the club, and Prospect avenues, three blocks from the club, and the North Western railroad, stopping four blocks from the club. Most members live in Park Ridge, but those residing in Rogers Park and Evanston pool golf balls to Jerry Glynn, professional for the second year, in order to get priorities on new ones. Club will hold its annual Plae Dae on Aug. 19. C. D. G. A. Champion of Champions' event is set for June 9 and Women's Western Open will begin June 19.

OAK PARK.

Club membership is full, with a long waiting list. Club has taken in a dozen members in the past year, in customary turnover. Eleven regular members are in service. The club is doing the best it can on the man power shortage. Use of heavy leather bags is being banned and smaller boys are used for caddying. Dining room will be open every day except Monday. A bus stops at the club entrance. Most members live within one or three miles of the club, so car pooling is unnecessary. Eddie Bush, now in his third year as professional, is collecting old balls and forwarding them for reprocessing. The annual Auchtermuchuty will be held on Aug. 24. Oak Park operates a large victory garden area. Walter G. Leininger is president.

ROLLING GREEN.

Membership is considerably over that of 1943 with 70 new members on the rolls. Ten regular members and ten employees are in service. Rolling Green is doubling up on help wherever possible. The caddie committee reports that it will be able to go thru the year fairly well. Dining room will be kept open all week thruout the season. The car pooling plan has proved very successful. On public transportation, the club is 2 miles from Arlington Heights and 3½ miles from the town of Des Plaines. Club is following the town plan on old golf balls, exchanging them for reprocessing. No definite date has been set for the Crosby day invitational, but it will be held. Pat McDonald is entering his 15th year as professional. Club plans for larger victory garden this year, due to 1943 success. A. A. McDonough is president.

GLEN OAK.

Membership is 25 per cent above 1943 par, 50 new members having joined. Forty members or their children are in service. To date, Glen Oak has had sufficient help, with the exception of waitresses. Bill Valette has been hired as caddie master and is cooperating with local schools and giving the boys a supervised play program in their idle hours. Dining rooms will be open every day except Monday.

Aurora, and Elgin electric has a stop at the club. Al Huske, pro for two years, requires an old ball in the sale of each new one. Glen Oak's Roundup will be held Aug. 18 and 19. Club will run a victory garden again.

CRYSTAL LAKE WINS MEET; 3 RECORDS BROKEN

Three records were broken in the fifth annual fresh-soph. track meet of the Northeast-Northwest conference last night at Palatine, with Crystal Lake's 42 1-6 points taking top honors.

Niles finished second with 36 1-6 points. Other teams' points follow: Arlington Heights, 30 2-3; Barrington, 29; Leyden, 26 1-6; Libertyville, 25; Woodstock, 15 1-2; Lake Forest, 8; Palatine, 6 2-3; Antioch, 3, Bensenville, 1 2-3.

In the discus throw Harold Legel of Crystal Lake won with a toss of 134 feet and ¼ inch; Marvin Kamps of Arlington Heights cleared 5 feet, 7¼ inches and the Arlington Heights 440 yard relay team ran the distance in :49.4 to account for three records.

Coaches Ask for Change in Kick-Off Rule

New York, May 29 (AP).—College football coaches voted unanimous disapproval of the intentional out of bounds kick-off today and sent a recommendation to Lt. Col. William Bingham of Harvard, chairman of the N. C. A. A. committee, that his group meet as soon as possible to consider two changes in the playing code.

The first suggested rule change would put the ball in play following an out of bounds kick-off on the receiving team's 45 yard line instead of on the 35. Use of a one inch tee at the kick-off also was suggested. The second would make forward passing legal anywhere behind the line of scrimmage. At present the passer must be at least five yards behind the line.

Will Resume Meetings.

The N. C. A. A. rules committee this winter voted not to tamper with the code till the war ends. H. O. [Fritz] Crisler of Michigan said he believed a majority of the coaches thruout the country would banish the intentional out of bounds kick-off from their programs following today's action. Last Thursday the Big Ten conference coaches agreed not to use the play which plagued football last fall.

Before turning their attentions to the rules the coaches voted to resume their annual meetings. The present skeleton convention was the first since Pearl Harbor.

Name Morrison President.

They also voted the A. A. Stagg award to the family of the late Walter Okeson, for many years head of the N. C. A. A. rules committee, as having done the most for football over a period of years and named Ray Morrison of Temple acting president of the organization.

Lt. Comdr. Matty Bell, formerly of Southern Methodist, but now with the Georgia Pre-Flight school, said press of his new duties made it impossible for him to continue the presidency.

The group also recommended that high school coaches be given representation on the collegiate rules committee and that the differences between the collegiate and prep playing codes be wiped out.

Crane Tech beat Austin yesterday, 11 to 4, for its 13th victory of the season and as a result moved into a tie with Marshall for leadership of the City league west section high school baseball race. The two teams will meet tomorrow in Portage Park and on Thursday will play off an earlier 3 to 3 tie.

In the south section Fenger moved into a first place tie with Hyde Park by winning from Calumet, 6 to 0. Adolph Regelsky, winning pitcher, allowed only five hits.

A change in the central section standings also resulted when Harrison routed Phillips, 18 to 2, while Gage Park defeated Farragut, 9 to 7. The victory lifted Harrison into second place, a half game ahead of Farragut and Tilden. Lindblom is section leader. Tilden defeated Kelly, 6 to 4, on a home run by Bob Leiser with one on.

15 FACE BARRIER IN RICH BELMONT HANDICAP TODAY

New York, May 29 (AP). — Devil Diver from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stables goes after one of the turf's rare doubles tomorrow when he seeks to add the $50,000 Suburban handicap to his Metropolitan handicap at Belmont Park. Fifteen horses are entered in the race.

If the 58th running of the stake runs true to predictions it'll be a battle between Devil Diver and Sun Again from Warren Wright's Calumet farm.

Regardless of the outcome various war relief organizations and hospitals are expected to receive nearly $150,000 as the Westchester Racing association is turning all of the receipts over to charity.

Muncrief and Browns Rout Yanks, 11 to 3

St. Louis, Mo., May 29 (AP).—Bob Muncrief routed an old Yankee jinx that has cost him six straight ball games since 1941 by scattering 10 hits for his first victory over New York, 11 to 3, today as the St. Louis Browns moved back into second place.

Home runs by George McQuinn with a man on in the first and Gene Moore with two on in the third routed Atley Donald. Milt Byrnes paced the St. Louis attack with two doubles and a single and scored three of the runs off Donald, Em Roser, and Johnny Johnson.

SHELLS, DECOYS ARE TROUBLING DUCK HUNTERS

BY BOB BECKER.

Ever since the close of the 1943 duck season duck hunters have had two questions in mind: Will a couple of live decoys be allowed in 1944?-And how many shotgun shells will we get this year?

Since the first of January we've received many inquiries regarding the possibility of live decoys. As a rule hunters who have brought up this subject felt that some liberalization of the waterfowl regulations were due in view of the big duck population in this country, and they advanced the idea that the use of a couple of live decoys per blind would do more to reduce extra long range scratch shots and cut down the loss of crippled birds than any other regulation.

Missouri for Them.

At the recent wildlife conference held in Chicago there was considerable discussion of live decoys. During one meeting, E. Sydney Stephens, the game and fish commissioner of Missouri, was the leader in demanding live decoys for the next duck season. He said Missouri wanted them and asked the United States Fish and Wildlife Service to think it over.

Some of the states represented opposed his attitude. It's quite evident that there is considerable sentiment for a limited use of live decoys in Illinois. Wisconsin never has used such decoys a great deal so that state probably isn't much interested in the subject.

Vision Big Hatching.

There isn't much doubt but what the 1944 regulations will have to "open up" a little if we have another good hatching season in Canada. And right now it looks as if such a season were started because we hear that heavy rains in recent weeks have put vast areas of nesting marshes in good shape for the duck families. If nesting conditions are anywhere near what they were last spring, we should get a big flight southward next fall.

As announced exclusively in this department last week the prospect for shotgun ammuition is definitely better, altho no tremendous quantities of shells are in sight. But if stores get 3 times as many shells to sell as they had last year [which is the latest report], there is some hope for sportsmen this fall. And if materials are allotted to ammunition companies so they may make shells in the second half of the year, sportsmen should then have enough shells to harvest the upland game and waterfowl crop next fall. No announcement has been made yet regarding the ammunition production program for the second half of the year.

MAXIN DEFEATS BOB GARNER IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Pvt. 1st Class Joe Maxin, 187¼, of Baer field, won a 10 round unanimous decision over Bob Garner, 174½, of Louisville, Ky., last night in Marigold Gardens.

Maxin floored his opponent for a nine count in the fifth round and boxed beautifully thruout the contest, using a left hand to keep Garner off balance. The latter suffered a cut under his left eye in the final round.

A crowd of 1,528 paid $3,060 gross to see the card.

Bill Petersen, East Chicago, Ind., heavyweight, scored a spectacular knockout over Pvt. 1st Class Gene Mickens, Baer Field, Ind., in the second round of the scheduled five round semi-windup.

In other bouts of four rounds each, Dan Hernandez, Los Angeles Mexican, beat Eddie [Kid] Carson of Chicago; Walter Halba, of Milwaukee, defeated Dickie Miller of Peoria, and Willie Moon beat Frankie Gaffney of Chicago.

FEWER BOILERS WIN WINDY CITY LEAGUE OPENER

The Fewer Boilers defeated the Rheingolds, 6 to 5, in the opening game of the Windy City Softball league last night in Bidwill stadium. Doc Goss' Collegians walloped the American Gears, 13 to 8, in the second game. The league opens on the north side tonight in Hilburn stadium, 5500 North Wolcott. Schedule:

8:00—Rheingolds vs. Ellis Plumbers.
9:00—Witt Hanley Yankees vs. Collegians.

National Girls Softball league double-headers will be played tonight in Bidwill stadium, 1923 E. 75th st. and Parichy stadium, Harlem av. and Harrison st., the first game starting at 7:30 in each park. The Chicago Chicks will meet the Bloomer Girls at Parichy while the Tungsten Sparks will play the Chicago Bluebirds at Bidwill.

PLANTS TO HUM AS CITY HONORS ITS HEROIC DEAD

Fresh flowers will be strewn on graves of the war dead of Chicagoland today and the thoughts of the city will be with American men fighting in foreign lands, in the 76th observance of Memorial day.

This year most of the men at home, and many of the women, will observe the day in war work as the most fitting tribute to their warrior kin. Nearly all war plants in the Chicago area will disregard the Memorial day holiday and will maintain operations at capacity. The annual Memorial day parade was held Sunday to avoid interrupting the work week.

Logan's Words Remembered.

One of the purposes of the day, as described in 1868 by Commander in Chief John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic, will not be forgotten. It is "strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country."

The graves of veterans of the Civil war, Spanish-American war, World War I., and the present war will be decorated in more than 100 cemeteries in Cook county. Organizations such as the Grand Army of the Republic and the American Legion will conduct ceremonies in some cases. Some of the largest Memorial day delegations will visit the Rosehill and Oak Woods cemeteries, where many veterans lie.

Community parades, concerts, and ceremonies will be held in many sections of the city, altho the parades are expected to be shorter this year than in peace years. The young men are marching elsewhere today.

Services in Plant.

War workers will take time for short memorial services in some plants. Adm. John Downes, retired, will speak during the noon hour to the workers at the Hawthorne plant of the Western Electric company. Cicero unit No. 96 of the American Legion auxiliary will be in charge of the ceremonies.

Transportation difficulties will prevent most holiday excursions, but railroads and buses were crowded yesterday and the stay at home Chicagoans will find zoos and conservatories open today.

DENTIST'S WIFE DIES AS CAR AND TRAIN COLLIDE

Mrs. Mary Iva Swift, 44, wife of Maj. Lionel V. Swift, dentist in the Hines veterans' hospital, was killed yesterday in a collision between her automobile and an east bound Chicago, Aurora & Elgin electric train at the 17th av. crossing in Maywood. She lived at 1917 S. 7th av., in the suburb. Sgt. A. V. Webb of the Maywood police said the south gate at the crossing was not damaged, indicating that it had not been lowered at the time of the accident. The north gate was slightly damaged, however, he said.

Samuel J. Walker Jr. of the army air forces died at a hospital in St. Louis of injuries suffered in an automobile accident near Scott Field, Ill., where he was stationed. The 20 year old soldier was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Walker, 3 S. Green Bay rd., Lake Forest, and a grandson of the late Dr. Samuel J. Walker, prominent physician.

OBITUARIES

Miss Julianna Wild.

Services for Miss Julianna Wild, music supervisor of the Chicago public schools, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Ambrose's church. She died Sunday in Mercy hospital. Her home was at 4642 Ellis av. Before being named music supervisor 10 years ago, Miss Wild taught music at Tilden Technical High school. Her grandfather, James Ralph, was a pioneer Chicago cooper and her mother, Sarah Ralph Wild, was a public school teacher for 45 years. Surviving are a brother, James, and a cousin.

Van Wagenen Alling.

Van Wagenen Alling, 68, construction engineer and real estate dealer, died yesterday in his home at 450 Washington rd., Lake Forest. A graduate of Purdue university, Mr. Alling engaged in construction work in Cuba and France and was identified with the Sollitt Construction company before forming his own firm, the Alling Construction company. A daughter, Mrs. Charles Henry Brown of Lake Forest, survives. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the First Presbyterian church, Lake Forest.

Dr. Andrew H. Frankel.

Services for Dr. Andrew H. Frankel, a physician and surgeon, who died yesterday in his home at 1055 Granville av., will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5206 Broadway. Dr. Frankel was a naval lieutenant during World war I. and served as personal physician to the late Lt. Comdr. John Philip Sousa. He once was a member of the faculty of Marquette university. He is survived by his widow, Fay, and a son, James Robert Frankel.

Dr. J. Albert Northcross.

Services for Dr. J. Albert Northcross, 56, of 456 E. 47th st., a Negro specialist in obstetrics and gynecology, whose body was recovered from the lake at 51st st. Saturday, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 3800 Michigan av. He was reported missing May 5 after he visited the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he was informed he had an incurable disease, the family told police.

Dr. Adolph Hartung.

Dr. Adolph Hartung, 61, professor of the department of radiology at the University of Illinois for the last 30 years, died yesterday in the university's research hospital. Dr. Hartung, a native of Germany who was brought to Chicago when he was a child, leaves his widow, Clara, and two daughters. Services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Graceland cemetery chapel.

Samuel Hurst.

Samuel Hurst, 96, an auctioneer for 45 years in southern Illinois, died yesterday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Morris Littlejohn, 307 N. Hale av., Palatine. He was Union county sheriff for one year and deputy for 16. He leaves another daughter, Mrs. Minnie Sawyer, also of Palatine. Services will be held Thursday in Jonesboro.

HOLIDAY PERIOD ACCIDENT TOLL FOR NATION 197

Celebration of the four day Memorial day holiday had cost 197 deaths resulting from traffic accidents, drownings and miscellaneous causes up to last night, an Associated Press survey disclosed.

However, only 66 of the deaths resulted from traffic accidents, compared with a normal traffic toll of 120 for the period. Eighteen of the deaths were in Illinois and 16 in Indiana.

The toll for the Chicagoland states was: Illinois, 17; Indiana, 16; Iowa, 7; Michigan, 3. There were no deaths reported from Wisconsin.

PIG TESTED FOR RABIES.

Health authorities yesterday ordered a rabies examination of the head of a young pig that bit Mrs. Mary Casper, 54, of 918 Lenox av., Waukegan. The pig was owned by Carl Barnett, 520 Fulton av., Waukegan.

Hot Weather Makes Your HERNIA or RUPTURE Doubly Dangerous

Chafing caused by perspiration is bad enough, but an oily skin lets the rupture slip out "twice as easy." That is the reason so many ruptures strangulate in the summer time.

FLAME THROWER EXPLODES; 3 DIE IN SECRET TEST

Three men were killed and three others injured yesterday by an explosion in an army tank flame thrower in an experimental test at the Hammond plant of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Fragments of steel were thrown more than half a mile by the blast, which occurred in an isolated spot and caused only minor damage.

James Nellis [top] and F. K. Ovitz.

The dead were Frank K. Ovitz, 62, group leader, 1707 Central av., Whiting; John Leonard, 42, mechanic, 4513 Henry st., Hammond, and James Nellis, 40, automotive engineer and formerly Whiting city engineer. Nellis lived at 1716 La Porte av., Whiting.

The injured are John Hanusin, 48, foreman engine laboratory, 2025 Indianapolis blvd., Whiting; Ed R. Barnard, 43, assistant director of research, 9759 Hamilton av., Chicago, and T. H. Rogers, 49, associate director of research, Dunes Acres, Chesterton, Ind.

The will of Ross A. Woodhull, president of the board of trustees of the Chicago sanitary district, was filed yesterday in Probate court. It did not include an estimate of value. Bequests were made to two sisters, four nephews, and a niece. The summer property at Land o' Lakes, Wis., was given to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chart, and $7,500 was left to Dorothy Stahel, his secretary.

VAST BUILDING ACTIVITY AFTER WAR PREDICTED

Muirhead Expects 20 Billion Rate.

The largest general construction program in the country's history was forecast for the first five years after the war by William Muirhead, president of the Associated General Contractors of America, Inc., yesterday at the association's governing and advisory board's spring meeting in the Drake hotel. Operations in the first post-war year will be at a rate of 12 billion dollars, he estimated.

William Muirhead. [Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

"Within five years after the termination of hostilities the yearly total of construction by general contractors should reach a rate of 20 billion dollars," he asserted. "Such volume would provide jobs for from 6 to 8 million persons, or from 4½ to 6½ million more than are employed by the industry now.

Will Be Able to Employ Many.

"This means that about one in every four persons released from the military branches and those who are required to change jobs after the war can be employed in the general construction industry, the second largest industry in America."

Muirhead said many general contractors with excess facilities are engaged in maintenance work on highways and in war plants so their organizations may remain intact for the return to peace time work.

Contracting companies' flexibility will enable the construction industry to turn immediately to peace time work after the war, and the general contractor will be depended on to help stabilize employment in the readjustment period, he said.

Says Needs Are Critical.

H. E. Foreman, managing director of the A. G. C., reported that negotiations are under way between the association and the government to devise policies under which new types of war work will be made available for general contractors in certain lumber, mining, and petroleum operations. He referred to the critical needs for construction equipment in these activities.

Lumbering needs require the construction of hundreds of miles of roads to new stands of timber, he asserted.

"Mining needs include the quick removal of an additional 20 million tons of coal from the Ohio, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia area," he said. "It has been estimated that this tonnage is available if 90 million tons of overburden are stripped. The A. G. C. discussed with the war production board's coal division the idea of having general contractors sign contracts for the stripping and hauling of the coal. Details are being worked out."

HOGS ALL SOLD FOR FIRST TIME SINCE MID-APRIL

The congestion of hogs in the Chicago stock yards, which last week was the most serious in the history of the trade, cleared up quickly yesterday when receipts were drastically reduced. Altho most packers said they would have to carry hogs over to Wednesday before the stock could be butchered, they bought all receipts and there was a complete clearance for the first time since April 18.

Only 18,000 hogs arrived in Chicago, the smallest Monday volume since last Oct. 11, and 10,600 below Monday of last week.

Packers paid the highest prices in 18 days, raising their bids for the "off-weights" which are selling well below the $13.75 a hundred pounds floor maintained for good to choice 180 to 270 pounders. The average rose 10 cents to $12.90.

Trading in other types of live stock also was active. Cattle recovered all the price losses incurred after the middle of last week, and some classes sold even higher than in midweek.

An advance of 25 cents in lamb prices raised the top to $16, equal to the highest level since May 11.

Evanston Three Story Building Sold to Singer

The Singer Sewing Machine company yesterday bought the three story building at 805 Davis st., Evanston, west of the city hall, from James Theriopulous for approximately $50,000. Jules Fisher of Quinlan & Tyson, broker, said the new owner will remain at 1627 Sherman st. for the next year.

WPB to Discuss Light Truck Output Proposal

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—A proposal for resuming production of light commercial trucks in 1945 will be discussed Thursday at a meeting of the WPB with members of the motor truck industry advisory committee.

MARKET HOLIDAY.

Banks and principal financial and commodity exchanges throughout the United States will be closed today for Memorial day. Canadian and London exchanges will operate as usual.

Senate Group Votes Bill to Extend OPA

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP)—The senate banking committee late today approved legislation extending the price and wage stabilization program for 18 months, overriding an administration attempt to kill an amendment which an OPA official spokesman said might boost consumer prices of textile goods as much as 350 million dollars a year.

That amendment, by Sen. Bankhead [D., Ala.], would call for periodic adjustment of textile ceiling prices with a view to boosting the market price of cotton to parity levels.

Henry M. Hart, associate counsel for the OPA, said estimates of the probable textile goods price increases which might result ranged between 225 million and 350 million dollars yearly. The amendment was included by a 12 to 8 vote.

Subsidy Limit Approved.

Also approved by the committee was an amendment by Sen. Taft [R., O.], which would, after June 30, 1945, limit federal subsidies to control consumer food prices to amounts directly appropriated by congress for subsidy purposes. At present, subsidies are paid from funds of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Commodity Credit corporation, without limitation by congress.

Chairman Wagner [D., N. Y.], said the Taft subsidy amendment was approved without a record committee vote, and there were indications it received comparatively little administration opposition.

It would permit the present subsidy program to continue unchanged for a year, with congress to control the purse strings after that. It represented a compromise between pro-subsidy and anti-subsidy forces who have been battling over the issue in congress for two years.

Boost Crop Loans.

Other amendments approved by the senate committee would:

Boost governent loans on six basic crops, cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco, and peanuts, from the present 90 per cent of parity to 95 per cent.

Provide for review, by federal district courts, of OPA orders suspending business firms from operations as a penalty for violations of rationing regulations.

Set up a board of review to consider protests against OPA regulations, but leave in the hands of the emergency court of appeals authority to determine the legality of regulations. The review board would make recommendations to the price administrator.

Suits Against Retailers.

Extend to the OPA the authority to bring against retailers, as well as wholesalers, suits for damages resulting from price ceiling violations. At present, only consumers can file such suits against retailers.

Authorize the OPA to use its appropriations to purchase commodities as evidence in price, rent or rationing violation cases.

Reverse the present provision fixing mandatory treble damages for price overcharges, to give federal courts authority to fix damages at between one and one-half and three times the amount of the overcharge, or $50, whichever is greater.

SEC UNIT BACKS COMMONWEALTH REFINANCE PLAN

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29 (AP)—Commonwealth and Southern corporation's amended plan of recapitalization was recommended to the securities and exchange commission today for conditional approval by its public utilities division.

Each holder of 1,000 shares of the authorized 10 million shares of new $5 par value common stock would be given the right to nominate a director, with the top 30 nominees comprising the slate for a stockholders' election within 60 to 120 days after the plan becomes effective, under the staff recommendations.

Protective rights would be granted to preferred stockholders of Consumers Power company, Southern Indiana Gas and Electric company and Central Illinois Light company, enabling them to choose a majority on the boards of directors upon default of dividends for four quarterly periods.

WPB POLICY RULING ASSAILED AS SMALL PLANT LABOR FREEZE

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] protested today to Tudor Bowen, WPB deputy vice chairman, Bowen's interpretation of a WPB policy statement relating to civilian goods production which Wherry said "freezes employment in small plants."

Asserting that such a freeze was not contemplated in the policy declaration as approved by a senate small business committee of which he is a member, Wherry said in a letter to the WPB executive:

"It is suggested that you take remedial steps at once to restore to the policy statement its original meaning and to remove this crippling freeze which you have imposed upon small plants of this country."

The original declaration, freezing at present levels manufacture of civilian goods in labor shortage areas, made exemption for plants employing less than 100 persons or, on the Pacific coast, 50 persons. In such plants, civilian goods output could be expanded by using idle and surplus materials. Under Bowen's subsequent ruling, it was provided that no increase in employment should be permitted in any city which has an area production urgency committee.

COURT UPHOLDS DIVIDENDS TAX BY WISCONSIN

Harvester Appeal Turned Down.

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The Supreme court today held constitutional, in a 7 to 1 decision by Chief Justice Stone, Wisconsin's privilege dividend tax law which imposes a tax of 3 per cent on dividends paid by corporations out of income derived from property in Wisconsin and from business transacted in that state. Justice Jackson dissented and Justice Roberts did not participate.

In another 8 to 0 opinion by Justice Rutledge, the court ruled that the Wisconsin Gas and Electric company could not deduct for federal income tax purposes a $3,750 payment to Wisconsin under the dividend tax. The court held the tax was not imposed upon the corporation but is "extracted from fixed dividends owed to the stockholder." Roberts again did not participate.

Set Aside Fare Ruling.

A 6 to 2 decision by Justice Jackson set aside a New Jersey federal District court order which prohibited the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad company from increasing fares as authorized by the interstate commerce commission. The office of price administration had opposed the increase, contending higher fares would mean higher living costs in violation of the emergency price control act. With Justices Douglas and Murphy dissenting and Black not participating, the court held that the weight to be given OPA's contention was for the ICC, not the District court, to determine.

Validity of the Wisconsin tax was questioned by the International Harvester company, a New Jersey corporation, which said all proceedings involving its dividends take place in Chicago where the board of directors meets.

International Harvester questioned validity of the tax as it applies to out of state corporations and their nonresident stockholders and as applied to dividends from income accumulated before enactment of the tax in 1935. It also questioned the formula used in determining the bases for the tax in its case.

St. Paul Firm Also Appeals.

The Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing company, St. Paul, also appealed against the tax which is imposed on both state and out of state companies. The corporation declared the company is made liable for the tax, but is required to deduct it from the dividends payable to stockholders. The Wisconsin Supreme court upheld the tax as valid.

Minnesota Mining said the act takes the company's property and the property of stockholders without due process of law and contended it imposes a tax beyond the taxing jurisdiction of the state.

"We think that Wisconsin may constitutionally tax the Wisconsin earnings distributed as dividends to the stockholders. It has afforded protection and benefits to appellants' [International Harvester and Minnesota Mining] corporate activities and transactions within the state. These activities have given rise to the dividend income of appellants' stockholders and this income fairly measures the benefits they have derived from these Wisconsin activities," wrote Chief Justice Stone.

In his dissent Jackson said he was "unable to agree that having 'afforded protection and benefits' to a corporation gives jurisdiction to tax the incomes of all its stockholders."

T.W.A. REPORTS FIRST QUARTER LOSS OF $92,419

Unfavorable weather in the first quarter this year permitted operation of only 88.2 per cent of the scheduled flying mileage of Transcontinental and Western Air, the company said yesterday. It reported a net loss of $92,419 in the quarter, compared with profit of $357,352 a year earlier.

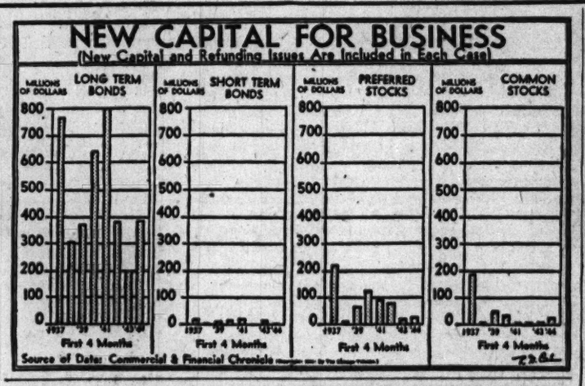
Jack Frye, president, said T. W. A.'s revenues rose 14 per cent above a year ago, but expenses soared 35 per cent. The unfavorable weather, along with more frequent stops, resulted in a disproportionate increase in operating costs, he said.

Willys-Overland 6 Month Pay Roll Near 18½ Million

Toledo, O., May 29 [Special].—The Willys-Overland Motors company today reported its total pay roll for the first six months of the current fiscal year amounted to $18,454,777, the highest six-months figure in the company's history. The company, which produces "jeeps," shells, aircraft assemblies, and other armaments, paid these wages to 14,176 employes, of which approximately 3,900 are women.

Greyhound Purchases Two Eastern Bus Lines

Greyhound corporation yesterday announced the purchase of West Ridge Transportation company and its subsidiary, Buffalo and Erie Coach company, subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission. Facilities of the two companies will suppliment Greyhound's services between Buffalo, N. Y., and Erie, Pa.



Urges Wages as Factor in Freight Rates

Washington, D. C., May 29 [Special].—More comprehensive information on wages and working and living conditions of employes in the transportation industry is needed, said a report today of the board of investigation and research set up by the transportation act of 1940.

It recommended that a proposed federal transportation authority conduct studies to obtain such information.

The data would be especially helpful, the report said, "in the consideration of freight-rate regulation, mobility of labor and employe welfare labor policy."

Wide variations were found in transportation costs in various sections of the country. In the south, for example, the report said the bus industry had an average hourly labor cost which was 16 per cent less than that of railroads in that section. In the west, however, the bus industry's average was 4 per cent higher than railroad labor costs.

Union Strength a Factor.

In accounting for these variations, the board laid much emphasis on "differences in union strength," altho it listed as other causes "the application of standardized piece rates to operating conditions which are not geographically uniform," and "insufficient knowledge of job values."

"It seems probable," the report said, "that to an economically unjustifiable extent the various kinds of transport agencies are competing on the basis of their abilities to bargain with unions rather than on the basis of their techniques in transporting goods and persons."

Observing that present governmental labor policy and machinery for settling labor disputes had "not precluded the necessity of frequent congressional and executive intervention in specific disputes," the report offered the conclusion that "too great reliance is placed upon the art and strategy of determining the balance of power of the contending parties."

May Aid Uneconomic Form.

It called attention to the "always present grave danger that some or all of the effect of the unlike territorial differences in the wage levels of the various kinds of transport takes the form of uneconomic extension of one form of transportation at the expense of uneconomic restriction of other forms of transport and of transportation in general as opposed to production."

Robert E. Webb of Kentucky, chairman of the research board, conducted the study, with C. E. Childe of Nebraska, the other member. Dr. Dan H. Mater, chief of the board's labor studies section, supervised preparation of the report.

WPB RELEASES EQUIPMENT FOR HEAT CONTROLS

Washington, D. C., May 29 (AP).—The WPB today announced it is making available some materials for use in production of heating system controls to be used in residential, commercial, institutional, and industrial heating plants. The action is part of the fuel conservation program for the 1944-'45 heating season, WPB said.

Installers of the equipment will be able to purchase the controls freely, WPB said. The control equipment for private dwellings proposed under this program consists of thermostatic regulator sets for coal hand fired heating equipment, limit controls for installation on coal, oil, or gas fired equipment already provided with some thermostatic control, and barometric dampers for use with oil and stoker fires.

John Thomas, Firestone Chairman, Paid $120,000

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29 (AP).—John W. Thomas, chairman of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., received $120,000 during the last fiscal year, as well as $30,000 paid into an annuity, the company's annual report to the securities and exchange commission disclosed today. Harvey S. Firestone, president, received $93,750, plus unspecified annuity contributions. The Fair, Chicago department store company, paid James S. Schoff, president and general manager, $60,000.

WPB GROUP WORKING ON CUT IN WAR WORK, CIVIL BOOST: NELSON

New York, May 29 (AP).—Chairman Nelson said today that the WPB's production executive committee is working with the army and navy on plans for curtailment of war production. He addressed more than 2,000 representatives of labor, management, the army and navy, and government at a meeting sponsored by the regional WPB.

He said the plans have been discussed with manufacturers of washing machines and refrigerators, and "chiefly with consumers' durable goods industries," but added: "That doesn't mean we plan to go into production tomorrow. It means that if the German phase of the war should end we would be able to take up the slack."

He said the WPB plans "to release controls as soon as possible when the war is over" but he emphasized that all controls "cannot be released at the end of the German campaign."

OPA ANNOUNCES DIVIDEND LIQUOR RESALE METHOD

Washington, D. C., May 30 (AP).—The OPA today announced pricing methods by which stockholders of Park & Tilford, Inc., may sell the liquor which the company plans to distribute to its shareholders.

The company expects to issue "whisky purchase option warrants" about June 30, entitling stockholders of record June 23 to an option on the purchase of six cases of whisky per share, for resale or personal use.

The purchase price to stockholders will be $26.43 a case of fifths for whisky blended with domestic cane spirits, and $29.87 a case for about 700,000 cases made with Cuban cane spirits.

OPA said stockholders who are not in the liquor business, but who sell the whisky or assign their purchase agreement, would act as "quasi-wholesalers" and be governed by the ceiling governing sales by wholesalers.

Schulte Share Deferred.

New York, May 29 (AP).—David A. Schulte, president of Park & Tilford, Inc., said today the Schulte family trust controling about 50 per cent of the outstanding common stock does not intend to take delivery of its share of the company's whisky distribution this year.

RHEEM MOVES TOWARD OUTPUT OF HELICOPTERS

New York, May 29 (AP).—Rheem Manufacturing company has bought a large stock interest in the Platt-Le Page Aircraft company, Eddystone, Pa., so both companies may produce helicopters, the companies said today.

Rheem, by arrangement with other large stockholders, will take an active part in managing Platt-Le Page, a leading helicopter designer, and also is licensed to use the latter's patents and designs—making it possible for both companies to produce helicopters for military purposes during the war and for commercial and private uses after hostilities.

Rheem manufactures parts and sub-assemblies for PBY patrol bombers, Liberators, Coronado bombers, and P-38 fighters at two plants in Los Angeles and a plant in Birmingham, Ala.

SPECIAL ISSUES LEAD PRICES OF STOCKS HIGHER

Many Climb to Top for This Year.

New York, May 29 (AP).—A wide assortment of stock market specialties, along with scattered pivotals, climbed to peaks for the year or longer today. The list in general was higher.

Investment buying, predicated on the growing urge to employ idle funds, was selective from the start. Individual situations, besides earnings and dividend hopes, provided the principal inspiration. War news also aided optimistic sentiment.

Dealings were unusually lively for a pre-holiday session—important exchanges will recess tomorrow for Memorial day—and gains of fractions to 2 points were well distributed at the close with a few much broader advances in evidence.

Stock Average Rises.

The Associated Press 60 stock average rose 0.1 at 53, a top since March 21. Transfers totaled 812,260 shares compared with 835,830 in the preceding five hour session.

Motors and rubbers generally were aided by predictions that post-war requirements would run to about 18 million cars.

At highs for 1944 were Laclede Gas preferred, up about 15 points at one time and with a final gain of 11¾, after securities and exchange commission approval of revised reorganization plans; American Telephone, Chrysler, Hudson Motors, White Motor, Nash-Kelvinator, Budd Manufacturing, Spiegel common and prefered, Oliver Farm, Atlantic Coast Line, American Tobacco B, South Porto Rico Sugar, Goodrich, Goodyear, Gamewell, Liggett & Myers B, and American Sugar.

BOND PRICES CLIMB.

New York, May 29 (AP).—Renewed speculative demand for rail loans, mostly in the secondary list, spurred prices ahead fractions to as much as four points in the bond market today, but the buying was on a strictly selective basis.

The rails, as measured by the Associated Press 20 bond index, reached another new high since 1937 at 90, up 0.1 from Saturday.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE.

Price changes were mainly higher in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange. Transactions increased to 55,000 shares, partly as result of the 30,000 share special offering of Wisconsin Bankshares stock. Of the volume leaders, Armour, Nash-Kelvinator, and General Finance gained fractions.

GRAINS DECLINE ON GOOD CROP, WEATHER NEWS

Grain markets turned lower yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade as the result of favorable weather thruout the main agricultural area from the Gulf of Mexico to central Canada. Wheat and rye declined more than 1 cent a bushel at one time, but short covering for today's holiday caused a rally. Closing sales on wheat were ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower. Rye was off ½ to 1⅛ cents, oats unchanged to ⅜ cent lower, and barley unchanged to ⅝ cent lower, September selling at a new seasonal low.

Announcement of war food administration agricultural goals for 1945 calling for an increase in grain acreage and reductions in live stock and poultry had a tendency to increase selling pressure.

Another factor which added to the heaviness in the market was a report 6 million bushels of Argentine corn may be imported to relieve the feed shortage in the east. The government was said to have allocated steamers to bring the corn from Argentina where more than 150 million bushels is available for export. Export brokers said the grain probably would not begin arriving until early August.

Reorganizing of N. W. Road Nearly Ended

Reorganization proceedings of the Chicago and North Western railway—underway for almost nine years—were brought near an end yesterday when Federal District Judge Barnes ordered the return of the railroad to the reorganized company on Thursday. He directed the issuance of new securities.

Operations have been under the federal court's jurisdiction since June 28, 1935, when the predecessor company filed a petition for permission to reorganize under section 77 of the bankruptcy act.

Will Be Put in Voting Trust.

New bond and note issues will approximate $201,750,000. Approximately 1,124,000 shares of new preferred stock and 1,107,000 shares of common will be issued. The new stock will be placed in a voting trust under which Frederick W. Walker, Henry Bruere, Harry L. Wells, Howard J. Klossner, and Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, have been designated voting trustees.

The exchange of new bonds and voting trust certificates for old securities and claims will take place at a date to be announced later. The First National Bank of Chicago and the Bankers Trust Company of New York will handle the exchange.

Will Supervise Action.

Completion of the reorganization will be supervised by Walker, Bruere, and Russell L. Snodgrass, reorganization managers, in cooperation with Claude A. Roth, trustee.

North Western officials indicated that the voting trustees will meet later this week to elect a board of directors.

HOTEL COMPANY CALLS IN BONDS 8 YEARS EARLY

Omaha, Neb., May 29 (AP).—All outstanding bonds of the Eppley Hotels company are being called in for redemption at par plus interest to July 1, 1944, Eugene C. Eppley, president, said today. The bonds do not mature for eight years.

Said to be the largest independently owned and operated hotel chain in the country, the company operates 18 hotels with a total of 4,500 rooms in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota, Missouri, and Kentucky and owns the Lincoln hotel in Scottsbluff, Neb., which has been leased.

Eppley said there is no refinancing of any kind in connection with the retirement.

People and Events

James Scott Kemper, president of Lumbermens' Mutual Casualty company and affiliated Kemper companies, announced yesterday that five executives of Lumbermens have been promoted. Lawrence W. Van Aken, resident manager of the Los Angeles office of the Kemper companies, was elected resident vice president. Paul Brown, head of the bond department, was elected assistant secretary. Elected resident secretaries were Melvin F. Gruhn, manager of the San Francisco office; John F. Leary, assistant secretary and manager of the New England underwriting department, and Russell L. Noble, manager of the Seattle office.

Grant Ridgeway, former president of Northwestern Yeast company, was elected chairman of the board and treasurer under the reorganization plan of the company. Charles B. Hill Jr., former superintendent and assistant general manager, was elected president and general manager and Thomas R. Hair, former vice president and treasurer, was elected secretary.

Donald E. Nichols has become associated with the Chicago investment firm of Ames, Emerich & Co. as vice president. Nichols has been active in La Salle street for the last 22 years and formerly was president of Ryan-Nichols & Co.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET TESTS NEW SALE PLAN

Special Offering Is Oversubscribed.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

The first special offering of securities under a Chicago Stock exchange plan designed to facilitate the distribution of large blocks of stocks without disrupting the market was carried out yesterday with a degree of dispatch that presaged more closely knit financial ties with other midwest cities.

Within 15 minutes orders totaling 55,383 shares were entered for a 30,000 share special offering of Wisconsin Bankshares corporation stock, made at $10 a share by the Wisconsin company, Milwaukee's largest securities dealer. Because of the oversubscription, the shares were allocated among the buyers.

Sold to 100 New Holders.

The shares represented several years' accumulation by the Milwaukee securities firm, and were sold by members of the Chicago exchange to more than 100 new shareholders.

Under a rule approved by the securities and exchange commission, the members were paid a commission of 50 cents a share for their efforts in locating buyers and placing the stock with them. The success of the distribution was evidenced by the fact that 300 shares sold later in the day under regular trading procedure at prices ranging from 10¼ to 10½.

Operation under the rule enabled the exchange to retain the business that otherwise would have gone to the over the counter or private placement market. The distribution in effect was handled by a special selling group composed wholly of Chicago exchange members who were paid commissions amounting to about 3½ times the normal amount.

New Advantages Shown.

Kenneth L. Smith, exchange president, said the sale indicated the advantages of close financial ties with other midwest cities such as St. Louis, Minneapolis, and Cedar Rapids, and asserted that it proved the merit of the exchange's move to admit corporations to membership.

Direct telephone service to the floor of the exchange will give these cities service equivalent to that enjoyed by Chicago members after war restrictions on new telephone connections are lifted, he declared. After many years of restricting membership to partnerships the exchange some time ago began admitting corporations such as the Wisconsin company.

The New York exchange twice has defeated motions to admit corporations, altho in both instances the New York members who also are Chicago exchange members supported the moves. The Chicago market has admitted 10 corporations under the system and the 11th application is up for consideration.

May Specify Commission.

Normally the SEC prohibits the payment of special commissions in the handling of securities transactions, but under the special offering rule permits the payment of a specified commission by the seller of the securities. The other principal method of disposing of large blocks of stocks is known as secondary distribution, but the special offering has a more direct relationship with the existing market price of the issue, according to brokers.

Wisconsin Bankshares sold at 10 Saturday. In yesterday's special offering 7,500 shares, or 25 per cent of the issue, were allotted to the Wisconsin company for the account of its customers. Subscriptions for odd lots and lots of 50 shares were allotted in full and the remaining 22,000 shares were allocated on a scaled-down basis to the customers of about 20 member firms.

HOTEL GUESTS CLING TO THEIR TAKING WAYS

War Doesn't Change 'Em, Say Greeters.

BY KAY CLANCY.

From where the Hotel Greeters of America sit and contemplate life, human nature has not changed much during war times. There is just more of it.

You might think that war prosperity would result in hotel guests forsaking such minor vices as removing towels, pictures, and other objects from hotel rooms, but such is not the case, according to officials of the Hotel Greeters of American association, here to attend the 34th annual conference.

Chide "Wrong Idea" Guests.

"In fact, we think a lot of people must have the wrong idea entirely when they read the sign on the door, 'Stop! Have you left anything?'" one of the greeters confided in claiming that hotel souvenir hunting is still a poular pastime of that migratory specie, the American hotel guest.

What are hotel aids doing about souvenir hunters and the ambitious traveler who replenishes his home stocks of such war scarce articles as blankets, clothes hangers, and linens at the expense of the hotel?

They are making every effort, they say, to halt the petty thievery, but there isn't much they can do. They cannot, for example, stop a guest and turn him upside down and shake him by the heels, a method some managers admit they are tempted to try.

Search Method Barred.

"We cannot even stop a guest and search his bags, altho we are convinced that piece of electric light cord trailing behind him isn't attached to a lamp he bought down town," E. C. Bennett, manager of the Shirley-Savoy hotel, Denver, Colo., said.

Military personnel, who comprise a large share of the guests at hotels today, are remarkably innocent on the petty thievery score, the greeters claimed; are much less trouble than the new class of transient war workers.

Forgotten articles still are mainly night clothes left draped on the doorknob and, of course, the occasional "dead soldier" in the dresser drawer. The only difference is the dead soldier used to contain a drink or two of Scotch or bourbon.

No Problem in Acapulco.

Carlos Barnard, who operates the El Mirador hotel at Acapulco, Mexico, was the only greeter attending the convention yesterday who didn't complain of the help problem. War jobs in Mexico have not induced maids and bus boys to get into industry, he said. Other hotel managers confessed that they now work in the kitchen, run elevators, perform maid service, and run errands.

The 1944 war time conference will continue thru tomorrow with meetings held in various hotels. More than 500 members, including representatives from Canada and Mexico, are attending.
